Poetry.
For the Patriot.
"MATRIMONY."
How "wonderfully blessed" were old Adam and Eve,
By sleep so profligate is open to doubt;
Perhaps if old Adam had chosen his spouse,
From Eden's fair garden, he'd not have gone out.
But times have much changed since the days of those dreams,
And miracles now have quite ceased to abound;
"Love's labors are lost" to the Bachelors' song,
Who seek in this age to "go the same round."

To well it is thus, for too oft in the world Matrimony a matter of money they hold,
Poor Bachelors' naps would be sadly disturbed
By an eye open wide for gain of the gold.
Three happy is he who, asleep or awake,
Finds a helpmate, congenial, true and sincere,
In weakness a staff, and in darkness a light,
A treasure that gold far more precious and dear.
BACHELOR.

A clergyman once preached rather a long sermon from the text, "Thou art weighed in the balance and found wanting." After the congregation had listened about an hour some began to get weary and went out; others soon followed, greatly to the annoyance of the minister. Whereupon he stopped his sermon and said, "That is right, gentlemen; as fast as you are weighed, pass out."
No one else passed.

The bright spots of man's life are few enough, without blotting any out.
The heart, like the earth, would cease to yield good fruit, were it not sometimes watered with the tears of sensibility; and the fruit would be worthless, but for the sunshine of smiles.

Some people don't believe in advertising, because they say "nobody reads the papers." But let them get into a scrape, and they will find them flying around to the newspaper offices with the request, "please don't mention that little affair, it's a mistake; I don't want my name published all over the country."

Blessed are they who are ignorant, for they are happy in thinking they know everything. Blessed are the orphan children, for they have no mother to scold them. Blessed are they that do not advertise, for they are not bothered with customers.

A clergyman was preparing his discourse for Sunday, stopped occasionally to review what he had written and to erase that which he was disposed to disapprove, when he was accosted by his little son, who had numbered but five summers: "Father, does God tell you what to preach?" "Certainly, my child."
"Then what makes you scratch it out?"

It will never be known how many human ailments are produced by eating the flesh of sickly animals.

A lady at Williamsport, Pa., has not been able to sleep a wink in a month.
Examination into the cause by eminent physicians revealed the terrible truth—her night-gown was out of fashion. Ladies beware of such accidents.

Great men go to sleep readily, because, at pleasure, they can command and banish thought. Weak men go to sleep with equal readiness, because they scarcely think at all. He who sleeps readily, healthfully, and soundly is a happier and more fortunate man than the king on his throne who is tortured by continued watchfulness.

Squabble, an old bachelor, shows his stockings which he had just darned, to a maiden lady, who contemptuously remarked: "Pretty good for a man darning," whereupon Squabble rejoins, "Yes, good enough for a woman, darn her!"

Miscellany.
KATE BOYNTON'S MISTAKE.
BY EARL MARBLE.

"But where's Ned?"
"Oh! he's gone off to the lodge again."
I declare I get quite out of patience with him lately. When we were first married, he never left the house of an evening;
but now he's off sometimes two or three nights in a week. And he so aggravating about it too. He won't tell me a word of what they do, or what they talk of; and if I get out of patience—as what woman of spirit will not at times?—he won't retort or answer me back, but just says, in his quiet way, 'Ah! I'm sorry you take it that way. By-by, dear; I hope you'll get your eyes open some day, and not look at this matter as though you were a child.' As though I were a child, indeed! If I acted half as much like a child as his treatment would indicate, he might have some excuse for it."

And Kate stopped, quite out of breath, as her visitors' "things" were taken off, and gathered into a huge bundle in her arms, preparatory to being carried into another room.
"So Ned has become a full-fledged Mason, has he?" queried John Aphor-ph, as Kate returned from the other room.
"Yes," answered she, "I guess 'full-fledged' is a good word to use. That is what they apply to geese when they arrive at maturity, and I warrant it'll grace him as well. They're all a parcel of geese, to spend their time at lodge meetings, whether they're Masons, Sons of Temperance, Sons of Malta, or whatever they call themselves. Better stay at home with their wives, or take them with them to some lecture or concert, or the theatre."

Kate did not stop to think that she had little cause for complaint on this score, and for she averaged at least two nights a week at some such entertainment, besides frequently attending a matinee. But women who part from their husbands as Kate had from Ned that evening, seldom stop to reason, and Kate was no exception to the general rule.
"Well," said John, "Masonry is something of a humbug. I wish he were to-night, so we could make up a hand at whist or euchre. Nellie, here, said coming over, that it had been some time since we had had a game."

"So it has," responded Kate; "but there's no telling when Ned will be at home, and I hardly know who I could send for."

"Well, never mind; we'll have some music instead. Do Mrs. Boynton, let us have some of those last opera gems. I saw you there the other night, and know you must have learnt them by this time."

Thus urged, Kate took her position at the piano, and now lost all recollection of the vexation of the first of the evening. They all loved music, and the evening passed very pleasantly. Kate and John were playing a duet when the door opened, and Ned stood upon the threshold.
"Bravo!" he exclaimed, as the music ceased. "By Jove! if I had known what awaited me here, I don't know but I should have torn myself away sooner."

"And not taken that last ride on the goat," laughed John; "or given that cannon-ball an extra roll from the floor. I suppose you can sit down now, without being forcibly reminded of that hot gridiron?"

"Oh, hush!" laughed he, as he shook hands with John and his wife, and looked pleasantly over at his own Kate, to see if her impatience had yet passed off. "I hope you have passed a pleasant evening."

"Delightful," answered John. "And of course you have. But I say, Ned, why don't you ask a fellow to join if it's such a grand thing? I've been waiting for an invitation from some one 'in the ring.'"

pointed, and won't acknowledge it, but won't help to get anybody else into the scrape."

"But it is no such thing," said Ned.
It's one of our principles, and one which a good Mason never forgets, to never urge any one to become a member, so one can only blame himself if he is disappointed. Do you understand? I am satisfied, and more than satisfied, with my experience inside the lodge-room. But let us change the subject. I don't wish to be the means of bringing discord into the midst of the harmony that existed when I crossed the threshold. Let us have some more music."

Soon all was amicable again, and the vexed subject was forgotten for the time, and it was late when John and Nellie Aphorphy took their leave.

Edward Boynton and John Aphorphy were both bookkeepers in large business houses, and each enjoyed the confidence of the firm he was with. Both houses had all along been considered the most prosperous in the city; but, at one of those commercial panics that occasionally sweep over the country, both houses had been too deeply engaged in speculations, and went down. Both Ned and John had lived pretty well up to their means, they having fastidious tastes, and having an eye to the adornments of art and the pleasures of music and literature. So they both found themselves, in the middle of a severe winter, with about all their means gone, and business still prostrated so that they could find nothing to do. It was especially hard to the poor wives, who had hitherto had all that heart could wish, and now found themselves cramped for even necessities.

Added to other misfortunes, Ned was taken sick about this time, and confined to his bed. His illness was a fever, brought on by anxiety and care. Several persons, whom Kate recollected but slightly, came to watch with him, and others called to make inquiries. She was grateful, and mistrusting that they were Masons, felt more kindly towards the order, but still regretted the money Ned had spent upon it, thinking, with their empty flour-barrel and purse, how many nice things it could buy. She said as much, a little bitterly, one evening, to one of the watchers, who looked at her in a way she could not understand, and then made some remark about charitable societies not always practising what they preached.

The next day, about noon, as Kate sat eating the last bit of bread in the house after having made the last meal into some gruel for her poor husband, who was still out of his head, the bell rang, and she admitted a stranger, one she had never seen before.

"Does Mr. Boynton live here?"
"He does."
"Mr. Edward Boynton, lately with Small, Pellet & Co.?"
"Yes, sir."
"He is sick, is he not?"
"He is."

"Ah! And a little money would not come amiss, to buy luxuries, and so forth?"
"To buy necessities, rather. O sir!— But who are you?"
"No matter. You would not know me. He has had dealings with our bank, and there is a balance standing to his credit."

"Money in a bank! He never told me of it."
"Possibly not."
"But how much? Oh! it is so fortunate!"
"I do not now recall the exact amount.
But you can take what you think necessary to-day, and I will enter it in the books."

Two or three times the gentleman came, and each time left a sum of money. The fourth time he came, he said:—
"Supposing I should tell you that our books are square now, and no more is due your husband? What should you do?"
"O sir! I do not say so. It is such a mystery, and I been hoping it would continue."

The gentleman did not immediately reply; but, after a moment of silence, he said:—
"That large painting in the parlor, opposite the door, is a beautiful thing, Mrs.
Boynton. What do you call it?"
"Oh! that is 'The Poet's Paradise.'"
"That's poor Ned's favorite."
"Oh!" he said abruptly, a moment later, arising to go, "I hope the balancing of our books will not be a source of inconvenience to you. You have immediate means enough, I presume, to last until Mr. Boynton's recovery?"

After Kate's reluctant and tearful confession, the stranger said:—
"I should like the painting I spoke of a few moments since. I would pay you a good price for it."

The struggle was short. Kate finally agreed to let it go, upon condition that Ned should have occasion to redeem it at some future time, which was finally consented to, with the promise extracted from Kate that her husband was to know nothing of it until his perfect restoration to health.

Again and again the stranger came,
and offered money for other paintings;
and for statuettes and chromos, among which latter ornaments was a beautifully framed copy of Frang's celebrated "Bar-foot Boy," which Kate prized very highly; and at last she grew to dislike the stranger heartily, denouncing him the usurer, and shedding many tears as she saw her desecrated parlor.

At last Ned got around again, and began to grow strong. But Kate kept the parlor door closed, and never built a fire there, dreading the day of exposure and explanation. She had never before kept a secret from her husband; and the more she pondered on this, the more dreadful seemed its mammoth proportions.

"I've got no more to sell, Mr. Pawn-broker," Kate said coldly one day about this time, as Mr. French, the one who had robbed her parlor, brushed unceremoniously past the servant girl into the house.

"Softly, Mrs. Boynton," said this gentleman, "Does your husband know of this yet?"
"No, sir."

"Well, I thought it would be a good plan to have me here, to smooth it over, when it was told him; and, as he is about well now, and—"

"I will take you in to see the gentleman, and perhaps you will tell him yourself," said Kate, a little haughtily, as she ushered Mr. French into the sitting-room, where her husband was, and passed on into the kitchen.

A few moments later, she appeared at the door, and said:—
"Isn't some one at the front door, Ned, dear? I thought I heard a noise."

"I guess I left the door open when I came in," said Mr. French, arising, and intercepting her, as she was about going to see. "Pardon me, madam; it was my neglect, and I will close it. Do not leave your duties."

"Mr. French did meet some one at the front door, and ushered him into the sitting-room, asking him in a low tone,
"Did you see my signal? and is everything all right?" getting an affirmative response.

"My dear," said Ned, the next time she came into the room, "I have invited Mr. French and Mr. Jewett to dinner, after which we shall be pleased to have some music. If Mrs. Brown is helping you to-day, let her build a fire in the palor."

"Certainly, Katie. But what is the matter?"
"Oh, if you only knew—"
"Knew what?"
"Knew how I love you. No, not that. How I tried to get along without—" Here she burst into tears, and could say no more.

"Oh! I can't tell you after all, she said presently, as they neared the parlor-door. "You must see for yourself."
"See what?" he asked, as she opened the door, and stepped back, that he might go in first.

"Why, all—"
She stopped in astonishment, as she herself looked into the parlor, and saw "The Poet's Paradise," and the other paintings, the "Barfoot Boy," and the statuettes on the brackets, and everything else she had parted with for money.
She was speechless, and looked first at her husband, then at Mr. French, and then at the works of art.

"Probably I can explain this best," said Mr. French, stepping forward, telling Ned what the reader already knows, and then telling how he had the things returned to the parlor, at a given signal from him, when Kate was in the back part of the house.

"But what about the bank?" asked Kate, smiling a bewildered smile through her tears.
"That was as I told you," said Mr.
French. "Mr. Boynton had and now has money on the deposit in the bank, which honors its drafts."

"What bank is it?" asked Kate.
"The Bank of Masonry, which every worthy member always finds a safe investment. Hearing what you had said on one or two occasions, and knowing what your feelings were, I took the method I did to teach you a little lesson. The wife of a Mason may not know the unimportant secret rites of the Order; but she may know of its workings of charity and humanity, and of its brotherly love and pure and unselfish religion. If it had not been to teach you your error, you might never have known from whence came the succor that aided you through a crisis that is liable to overtake all who dwell in this world of Entered Apprentices; for our agents do not deal in ostentation, but imitate their Master, who went about doing good, and prating not of it eighteen hundred years ago."

It is needless to add that Kate found herself in a singing mood, and that an afternoon passed happily that had promised her much bitter sorrow.

"O Ned!" said Kate a few days later, after he had started in business, "I saw Nellie to-day, and they have hardly a thing left. All their furniture and pictures and dishes, and almost the clothes they have on their backs, went before they got through the crisis."

"Well, I'm sorry; but that's because they had no money in the bank."

YOSEMITE VALLEY, CALIFORNIA.

The proposition to sell a portion of the Yosemite valley to certain persons, as pre-emptors of the land, is again before Congress, and has been reported upon favorably by the committee appointed to consider the subject. As this valley belongs to the people of the United States, the question appears to be between two squatters and all the rest of the inhabitants as to who shall finally obtain control of the grandest scenery on the face of the earth.
The Yosemite valley is said to afford the finest scenery known to man. It is only accessible at the lower end by two trails that abruptly descend 2,000 feet.
The walls for six miles are nearly vertical, and in some places are a mile in height, and are composed of pure white granite. But the crowning glory of this place is the Yosemite Fall, which in three leaps falls 2,634 feet. There is no waterfall in the world to compare with this.— Other falls are, the Bridal Veil, 940 feet; Vernal, 350 feet; Nevada, 700 feet; and Royal Arch Fall, 1,800 feet. The valley is only a mile and a half wide at the broadest part, and in most places is less than half a mile. This adds to the apparent height of the perpendicular walls on either side. If private individuals were to obtain control of all these wonders, the inconvenience to the public, and the impositions to which all travelers would be subjected, would be insupportable.

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, APRIL 2, 1870.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

ENTERTAINMENT. We would call special attention to the notice in another column, of a Dramatic Entertainment, to be given at the Town Hall, Fast night, April 7th. The persons having this in charge are all well known, and the object is to increase the funds, which is to be used in erecting a handsome and commodious chapel for the Unitarian Sunday-School, should meet with a hearty response from all. A new method of reserving seats has been adopted by the manager—and polite ushers will be in attendance.

ROBERT. On Saturday afternoon last, as Allan F. Pollock, son of Mr. A. F. Pollock, of this town, was returning alone from the beach, where he had been with several other boys, he was met in the pasture, in the rear of Mr. Edwin B. Pratt's residence, on Hancock street, by a rough, stout fellow who seized him, took away his watch, valued at twenty dollars, and then made his escape.

REAL ESTATE SALES. The pleasant residence of Benjamin F. Curtis on Edwards Hill, to Henry C. Rogers, for about $5,000.

House owned by Horace J. Foster, with half an acre of land, on Washington street, to Mr. C. R. Miller, for $4,500.

House, barn and half of an acre of land at Point Holmes, owned by Henry H. Faxon, to J. H. Shade and John Shaw, Jr., for $2,000.

Also, a number of house lots at Wollaston Station.

LECTURE. The Third Sunday evening lecture, on the early or Apostolic church, will be given in the Universalist church, to-morrow evening, by the Pastor. The subject will be—The doctrine of the Underworld; or Christ's descent into Hell and preaching unto spirits in Prison, as held in all modern creeds excepting the Universalist and Unitarian churches. Seats free to all. Services at 7 1/4 o'clock.

DIVIDEND. A semi-annual dividend of five per cent, is now payable by the National Granite Bank of this town.

RESIGNED. We learn that Columbus Lary, who was chosen tax collector at the annual March meeting has declined said office. It is owing we believe to the large amount of labor, the small amount of pay, and the heavy bonds required by the Selectmen,—twenty-five thousand dollars—the same amount given by the collector last year.

PEW OWNERS. Next Sunday is the first Sabbath in the new parish year of the Universalist Church. The Pastor invites all who have ever been interested in that Society, who own a pew in the church or ever expect to do so, or in any way directly or indirectly may be able to rejoice in the prosperity of the Society, to be present next Sunday afternoon, as the discourse will be of special meaning to all such.

THIS EVENING. We are pleased to be able to announce to our readers that Prof. Cadwell, the celebrated Psychologist and Mesmeriser, will give one more entertainment at the Town Hall this evening. His exhibitions on Friday, Saturday, Monday and Tuesday evenings last, were very astonishing, as hundreds of our citizens can testify. His mesmerism influence on subjects is wonderful, and the most serious person in our midst could not refrain from a smile at some of the grotesque characters. Those who have not been, should go this evening, if they wish to enjoy a good performance of this kind. Martina Chirski, the greatest equilibrist in the world will also be present this evening. His wonderful acts on the slack wire, and the perfect ease in which he spins plates and dishes at the same time, has gained for him a name renowned. Admission 25 cents; reserved seats 35 cents.

WEDDING. The fashionable marriage ceremony in the Universalist Church, on Tuesday evening last called out quite a large gathering. The bride was beautifully dressed, and tastefully adorned with flowers, which, combined with her rosy cheeks attracted the attention of all.

LECTURE. The third lecture of the course in the Unitarian Church, was delivered by the Rev. D. C. Eddy, on Tuesday evening last. He was a very able speaker and handled his subject in a very pleasing and interesting manner.

THE OPERA. The entertainment given in the Town Hall, on Wednesday evening, by the Coddington Grammar School, gave general satisfaction. The attendance was very large, and the proceeds to be devoted toward paying for the piece, must be quite handsome.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

Wollaston Heights in Quincy.—New settlement.—Prospective increase in wealth and population.

We are gratified to hear that the Mt. Wollaston Land Company at Quincy are meeting with that success which an enterprise so laudably undertaken merits. There is much that is in pleasant reminiscence touching this locality. The famous Captain Wollaston, with his company made the first attempt to settle in this region of the wilderness. The name of Wollaston has been "said and sung" in history and romance. Coming hither in 1625, he remained, as history tells us, but a short time and left for other parts; a portion of his company remained with a view to permanent settlement. Now the members at the Mount were of the "straitest sect" in their reverent attendance at the first and only church then on State street, Boston; a very long tramp from the Mount, which then embraced what is now Randolph, Braintree and Quincy. What a distance to go to meeting through a wilderness! In 1640 these worthy church members, after some opposition, were set off as a branch of the First Church in Boston, and this First Congregational Church, of Quincy, has been perpetuated in high repute to the present day. By the incorporation of Braintree in 1640, the "Mount" ceased to be a part of Boston.

Improvements at Mount Wollaston Heights are contemplated on an extensive scale, judging from the plans we have been permitted to examine. Many lots of land have been well sold and some costly buildings are about to be erected, including an extensive edifice of eighty feet in length, projected and immediately to be completed. The basement as a store, future Post Office, &c. The second story as a cupola Hall,—falling little short in dimensions of the Town Hall, in Quincy, and we trust in its completion having a wider regard to acoustics, or that branch of physics which treats of the propagation of sound. Strangers are favorably impressed in strolling over Wollaston heights. The scenery of land and water is beautiful and extensive—a charming variegated surface of hill and dale, and a soil well adapted for building purposes and the spread of a most pleasant village. The domains of the company already stretch over the very summit of Baxter's hill—South-easterly, approximating the farm late of George W. Beale, Esq., deceased, North-easterly, near the line of the Old Colony Railway for a goodly distance of over two miles, and Westerly to the farms bordering on Squantum street and the threshold of Milton; a large territory in its virgin purity as to cultivation. The extensive farm of Mr. M. C. Pope, bordering on Squantum street in North Quincy, and comprising nearly 100 acres, has been recently sold to whom we know not, for the purpose of building improvements. It is contemplated to widen and straighten that ancient, crooked and narrow street, that the width shall be at least forty feet to Milton line.

This was a portion of the farm given in the earliest settlement of Boston, by a vote of that town to their "dear and loving minister," Rev. John Wilson, the first minister of Boston, and the same has been occupied by his descendants to the present time; Mr. Pope being one of that number.

There is a proposition now before the Legislature to amend our State Constitution so that one-third of the Senators may be elected every year, to keep their places for three years, and one-half of the Representatives every year to keep their places two years.

BRAINTREE. Mr. Thomas J. Jordan for many years, the highly respected depot-master at South Braintree, died at his residence in that place, on Saturday last, of consumption, at the age of thirty-six.

Workmen have commenced operations preparatory to building a new brick planing mill at East Braintree, in place of the wooden one recently burnt, belonging to Mr. Gardner. Mr. Hobart will also erect immediately a grist mill to take the place of the one destroyed by fire on the same night the mill was laid in ashes.

A REVOLUTION IN THE TEA TRADE. The opening of the Pacific Railroad promises to effect a great change in the tea trade of the country, and among the first to avail themselves of its facilities, by laying before the public teas in all the freshness of their native country, stands the "Pacific Railroad Tea Company," lately organized in Boston. We recommend our readers to visit the warehouse of this Company, at No. 10 Boylston street, and judge for themselves of the fine quality of their new crop of teas, and also the low figures at which they are sold.

They have "scrip weddings" in Ohio.

Boston Hartford & Erie Railroad.

The condition of this enterprise, as exhibited in the recent investigations, is the subject of much comment. The State is interested, because its loans have been wasted and a new loan is asked for.

Stockholders and bondholders desire to know whether these securities are of any value. The public at large inquire whether the managers of these corporations are to be held accountable for their conduct. The towns upon two lines of road from Boston to Rhode Island, through the entire County of Norfolk, regard the completion of the road as conducive to their interests.

Our space only allows us to state briefly the results and conclusions to which Mr. J. W. Brooks arrived, as stated before the Legislative Committee. Mr. Brooks has for many years been connected with the Michigan Central Railroad, and associated in many of the projects for building railroads in the Western States. His statements are substantially as follows:—

That this Railroad will never form a part of a route that will exercise the least influence upon the carrying trade between Boston and the West. That the grades are heavier on this, and upon the Erie Road, and the distances greater, than upon other competing routes. That in the actual cost of transit, there is a large difference against the Erie and in favor of the New York Central route. That the Erie Railroad which is to form the grand extension of this line, has not made a dollar on their long traffic, but the losses on their through traffic have swallowed up all the profits of their local business. That the hopes of coal traffic on this line are delusive,—the actual cost of transportation from Pishkill to Boston being $4 per ton. So far from carrying coal, the portion of their line in this State, can be economically supplied from Boston; and the central part of their line from the ports on Long Island sound.

He states that the expectation of a large local business, from the fact that the road crosses so many other railroads in Connecticut, is unfounded. That this is the reason why the road does not now have, and never can have, a fair local traffic. That the business along the west half of the line is drained to New York, the nearest and best market, by seven railroads, controlled by New York interests. The trains on the portions in Massachusetts, have been running for many years; and the local traffic is very limited.

The profits of the New York and Boston passenger business are greatly overestimated; and it is this line commanded a full share, it would not be a promising business to contend for.

He computes that the interest upon its debts for one year, the getting rid of claims, and completing and equipping the road for a small business, will require from eight to fourteen millions of dollars. He thinks the cost of the road about $140,000 per mile, while the average cost of other roads in the State is $47,000 per mile; that its debts are likely to exceed forty millions; based on the average cost of other roads, they ought not to exceed seventeen millions. He regards the paying of interest on a capital of eight and one-half millions, the outside measure of attainable profit; while the chance of earning the working expenses and keeping up the property is quite uncertain. If the road were given him free from debt, he would not put the necessary capital into it, to complete it,—that the bondholders or stockholders could not afford to complete it. The road might pay the interest on eight or ten millions of dollars, but any expectation that it would ever pay interest on the Berdell bonds was absurd.

Such are the conclusions of Mr. Brooks, for which he assigns his reasons. The opposing views are already familiar to our readers.

The Secretary of State on Wednesday issued his proclamation announcing the complete ratification of the Fifteenth Article of Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. The President thought the occasion of sufficient importance to send a congratulatory message to Congress.

"CLEANSING THE BLOOD," upon which charlatans have harped so much, is not a mere catch-word and delusion. The microscope shows that some diseases exist like parasitic growths upon the globules of the blood, and it is further known that some subtle substances destroy or expel them. These substances have been combined to make Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which does effectually expel the disorders that breed and rankle in the blood to rot out as they were the machinery of life—Mercur (Pa.) Whig.

B. J. LANG the celebrated Boston organist writes to Mason & Hamlin,—"no instruments of the same description can at all compare with your delightful Cabinet Organs." Says Max Maretzek, "the best reed instruments in the world are made in the United States, and your Cabinet Organs are by far the best made here."

FAST DAY PROCLAMATION.

The season has returned which our pious ancestors deemed suitable to a public acknowledgment of dependence upon the goodness of God.

The request of a few, that this custom be discontinued, manifestly does not express the feelings of any considerable number of the people of the Commonwealth. And it is certainly desirable that among us there be no diminution of the religious sentiment which originated the usage.

If the observance of the day has degenerated from its original idea, we should use it as described by the prophet in Holy Writ, proclaiming "an acceptable fast to the Lord."

It is not to "bow the head as a bulrush," but "to loose the bands of wickedness, to undo the heavy burdens, and to let the oppressed go free."

Is it not to dealky bread to the hungry, and that thou bring the poor that are cast out to thy house, and that thou hide not thyself from thine own flesh?"

It is therefore recommended that THURSDAY, THE SEVENTH DAY OF APRIL NEXT, be devoted to Fasting and Prayer, and to the exercise of those benevolent purposes which denote sincere humility of heart toward God and the recognition of our obligations to our fellow men.

As we engage in public worship, let us pray Him who rules the destinies of nations, that He may preserve us from the dreaded pestilence, that He may give us freedom from wars and tumults, that He may bestow plentiful harvests, and secure to each a just recompense for his labors; and that we may be blessed with good order and good government, which are so essential to the prosperity of States and nations. Let us remember in our prayers the bereaved and sorrowing, and ask for them the consolations which are granted to those who look with faith to the great source of all comfort. And let us ask of God the strength and wisdom necessary to develop in us those principles of piety, charity and good will, which are man's distinguishing attributes; and to add to His other blessings the full forgiveness of sin through our Lord Jesus Christ.

Major General George H. Thomas died at San Francisco, Cal., on Tuesday last, of apoplexy. His body has been embalmed, and will be sent to Troy, N. Y. for burial. General Thomas was fifty-four years old. He graduated from West Point in 1840; served with distinction in Mexico; and when the rebellion of 1861 broke out was a major of cavalry. His career during the struggle, in which he was especially prominent at the battles of Mill Spring, Chickamauga and Nashville, is familiar to all our readers.

MY GUARDIAN ANGEL.

Thou art my guardian angel, Mary,
My hope and guiding star,
No matter where'er I chance to be,
At home, or wandering far,
I feel so happy when thou art near,
When thou art by my side,
For thou art all the world to me—
My life, my joy, and pride.
I often meet thee in my dreams,
Mid groves and shady bowers,
And wander through that lovely land
Of sunshine and of flowers.
Methinks no earthly clime can care
Could finger round my heart—
Thy sweet, ethereal, happy smile
Would bid them all depart.

Farmers' Department.

HOW TO MAKE COMPOST.

Making compost is in order at any season of the year when the ground is not frozen, and almost every farm has some of the material to make it of. Any spot of ground that cannot be cultivated, whether dry upland or swamp bottom, may be dug up and carted to some convenient place, to form a compost heap. This place had better be selected near to the material, which will expedite the work. Any kind of soil or subsoil will do; except very stiff clay, or very coarse sand; and even a small proportion of those will not be objectionable. Swamp mud or the deposit in river bottoms are preferable to all others.

This should be put in a sort of winnow, three or four feet deep, and about half a bushel of lime to every one-horse cart-load of mud or soil to be mixed with it. An addition of a half peck of plaster, would be an improvement.

But if neither lime nor plaster can be obtained, don't give it up; the other materials are worth operating on. Let them lay to be acted on by the frost, rain and sunshine, for six months or a year; and in that time turn the mass over with a shovel, beginning at one end of the heap, mix well and break the lumps, letting the air through it. Spread it over your grass land in the fall, winter or spring, and you will be surprised at the improvement of the crop.

Labor spent in making compost will pay better, than money spent in purchasing most of the phosphates in the market. Do not be afraid of making too much. Have hundreds or thousands of cart loads to put on your grass land every year. If you can raise good crops of grass, you will soon be able to raise good crops of grain. The grass will feed stock, the stock will make manure; then you are all right.—American Stock Journal.

SETTING HENS. It is not best to allow hens to set till the weather is so mild that there is no danger of the eggs freezing, when the hens are off the nests. We always put an odd number under them and make a ring around each with lead pencil, so as to be able to know which eggs to remove, when other hens lay in the same nests, as is often the case. Eleven eggs is the usual number to put under hens, when they are common hens' eggs; but nine eggs of the Asiatic breeds, are enough to put under our native fowls.

Every boy no matter what he aspires, should be taught while young the use not only of implements for the farm, tools for the shop, the management of animals, etc., but he should be taught, as well, many parts of domestic economy. Every boy should know something about sewing, cooking, and the management of a house.—H. W. Beecher.

The American Agriculturist says: "We have seen nothing equal to the Early Rose Potato for garden culture."

We believe the soil loves to eat as well as the owner, and ought, therefore, to be well manured.

Anecdotes.

"Why, Mr. Jones, are you drunk?" exclaimed Mrs. Jones, as her husband came staggering into the house late at night.

"N-no, my dear," said Jones, "not drunk, but only dizzy fr-from looking at the fell-fellows go round on their velosipedes?"

An alderman came to Dr. Franklin and said he had a tendency to the gout, asked what he could do to arrest it.

"Take a bucket of water and a ton of coal three times a week," replied the doctor.

"Why, how?" said the alderman in astonishment.

"Think a cup of the former three times a day and carry the latter up three flights of stairs."

An old minister who was out making pastoral calls, with his gray mare, was met recently by a dandy, or fast fellow. The old man's whip was a little worse for wear. The dandy, with a supercilious air shouted as he drove up:

"Halloo, old coo! what will you take for your whip?"

"Four buck!" was the quick reply. The dandy drove on rapidly.

NUMBER 15.

YOU ALL HAVE HEARD OF HOOPLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS,
AND HOOPLAND'S GERMAN TONIC.
Prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, Philadelphia. Their introduction into this country from Germany occurred in 1823.
They Cured Your Fathers and Mothers,
And will cure you and your children. They are entirely different from the many preparations now in the country called Bitters or Tonics. They are not tavern preparations, or any thing like them; but good, honest, reliable medicine.

H
The great known remedy for Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, Jaundice, Diseases of the Kidneys, ERUPTIONS OF THE SKIN,
and all diseases arising from a Disordered Liver,
and
IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD.
Constipation, Flatulence, Inward Piles, Fulness of Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heart-burn, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Gravel, &c., &c.
Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluctuating at the Pit of the Stomach, Swelling of the Head, Harried or Difficult Breathing, Flattering at the Heart, Chills or Subcutaneous Swell-ings when in a Lying Posture, Blisters of Vision, Drops or Weils before the Sight, Pain in the Head, Delicacy of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, &c., Sudden Flashes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Itching of the Feet and Great Depression of Spirits.

Hoopland's German Bitters
is entirely vegetable, and contains no liquor. It is a compound of all the ingredients of the Bitters, with some Santa Cruz Rain, Oregon, &c. It is used for the same diseases as the Bitters, in cases where some pure alcoholic stimulus is required. You will hear in valued that these remedies are entirely different from any others advertised for the cure of the diseases named, these being scientific preparations of medicinal extracts, while the others are mere decorations of rum in some form. The TONIC is decidedly one of the most pleasant and reliable remedies ever offered to the public. Its taste is exquisite. It is a pleasure to take it, while its life-giving, exhalant, and medicinal qualities have caused it to be known as the greatest of all tonics.

DEBILITY.
There is a kind of Debility, Hoopland's German Bitters or Tonic in cases of Debility. They impart a tone and vigor to the whole system, strengthen the appetite, cause an enjoyment of food, and enable the stomach to digest it, purify the blood, give a good, sound, healthy complexion, eradicate the yellow tinge from the eye, purify the blood, and the whole system, and change the patient from a short-breathed, emaciated, weak, and nervous invalid, to a full-faced, stout and vigorous person.

Weak and Delicate Children are made strong by using the Bitters or Tonic.
These remedies are the best Blood Purifiers
ever known, and will cure all diseases resulting from bad blood. Hoopland's Bitters keep your Liver in order; keep your digestive organs in a sound, healthy condition; by the use of these remedies, and no disease will ever assail you. The best cure in the country recommends them. If years of honest reputation go for anything you must try these preparations.

TESTIMONY
Like the following was never before offered in behalf of any medicinal preparation:
HON. GEORGE W. WOODWARD,
Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, PHILADELPHIA, March 16, 1867.
I find "Hoopland's German Bitters" is a good tonic, beneficial in cases of debility, and of great benefit to the system. Yours truly, GEO. W. WOODWARD.

HON. JAMES THOMPSON,
Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania,
PHILADELPHIA, April 28, 1868.
I consider "Hoopland's German Bitters" a valuable remedy in cases of debility, and of great benefit to the system. I can certify this from my experience of it.
Yours, with respect,
JAMES THOMPSON.

HON. GEORGE SHARPSWOOD,
Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania,
PHILADELPHIA, June 1, 1868.
I have found by experience that "Hoopland's German Bitters" is a very good tonic, relieving dyspep-tic symptoms almost directly.
GEORGE SHARPSWOOD.

HON. WM. F. ROGERS,
Mayor of the City of Buffalo, N. Y., BUFFALO, N. Y., June 22, 1869.
I have used "Hoopland's German Bitters" and recommend them as an excellent tonic, imparting tone and vigor to the system. Their use has been productive of decidedly beneficial effects. W. M. F. ROGERS.

HON. JAMES M. WOOD,
Ex-Mayor of Williamsport, Pa., WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., June 1, 1868.
I take great pleasure in recommending "Hoopland's German Tonic" to any one who may be afflicted with Dyspepsia. I had the Dyspepsia so many it was impossible to keep any food on my stomach, and I became so weak as not to be able to walk half a mile.
Two bottles of Tonic effected a perfect cure.
JAMES M. WOOD.

CAUTION.
Hoopland's German Remedies are counterfeited.
The genuine have the signature of C. M. Jackson on the front of the outside wrapper of each bottle, and the name of the article blown in each bottle. All others are counterfeits.
Price of the Bitters, $1.00 per bottle;
Or, a half dozen for $5.00.
Price of the Tonic, $1.50 per bottle;
Or, a half dozen for $7.50.
The Tonic is put up in quart bottles.
Beware of cheap imitations. Hoopland's German Remedies are so universally used and so highly recommended; and do not allow the druggists to induce you

Poetry.

THE PRINTER'S HOHENLINDEN.

In seasons when our funds are low,
Subscribers are provoking slow,
A few supplies keep up the flow
Of dimes departing rapidly.
But we shall see a sadder sight,
When dawn pour in from morn to night,
Commanding every sixpence bright
To be forked over speedily.
Our bonds and due bills are arrayed,
Each seal and signature displayed;
The holders wait they must be paid,
With threats of law and chancery.
Then to despair we are almost driven,
Their precious little we are living,
When our last copper's rudely riven
From hands that held it lovingly.
But larger yet those dues shall grow,
When interest's added on below,
Lengthening our chin a foot or so,
When gazing at them hopelessly.
'Tis so, that scarce have we begun
To plead for time upon a dun,
Before there comes another one,
Demanding pay ferociously.
The prospects darken—on, ye brave!
Who would our very hagon save;
Waive, patrons, all your protests waive,
And pay the Printer cheerfully.
Ah! it would yield us pleasure sweet
A few delinquents now to meet,
Asking of us a clear receipt For papers taken regularly.

Interesting Selections.

GINGER POUND CAKE. Six cupsful of flour; two do. of molasses; one do.
of sugar; two do. of sour milk; one do.
of butter; four eggs; two teaspoonful of soda; two do. of cinnamon.

THIS TOO SHALL PASS AWAY.—
Many of our readers probably remember the reply of the philosopher to the monarch, who desired some sentence, easily remembered that would always alleviate the pressure of calamity, and check the exuberance of prosperity. "This too shall pass away," was the chosen motto.

CEMENT FOR LEATHER. A cement for leather is made by mixing 10 parts of sulphide of carbon with 1 of oil of turpentine, and then adding enough gutta-percha to make a tough thick-flowing liquid.
One essential pre-requisite to a thorough union of the parts consist in freedom of the surfaces to be joined from grease.
This may be accomplished by laying a cloth upon them and applying a hot iron for a time. The cement is then applied to both pieces, the surfaces brought in contact, and pressure applied until the joint is dry.

LEARN IN TIME. A gentle Quaker horse—very good and a very poor one. "When soon riding the latter it turned out that his better half had taken the good one. "What!" said a sneering bachelor, "how comes it that you let your wife ride the better horse?" The only reply was, "Friend, when they be married they know."

A man in Illinois has invented a spring to be attached to the feet by which a person is relieved of the labor of walking to a great extent. He claims that his invention will enable a man to walk ten miles an hour with ease.

"You say the deceased settled here.
What do you mean by settled?" "Well he was born here, got married here, and they buried him here, and if that wasn't settling him then I'm no judge."

A great injury is done to the cause of Christ, by persons pretending to religious emotions when their lives plainly declare that they walk as other men walk—according to the course of this world obeying the dictates of the carnal heart. It does immense injury for the close-fisted, hard-hearted man to talk about communion with God.

This whole life is but one great school, from the cradle to the grave we are all scholars. The voices of those we love, and the wisdom of past ages, and our own experience, are our teachers.
Afflictions give us discipline. The spirits of departed saints whisper to us,
"Come up higher."

When Patrick first tried peaches he said he liked the flavor, but the seeds laid hard on his stomach.

"What a little child!" said a friend. "Ah," replied Hood, "his parents never made much of him."

"Industry must prosper," as the man said who was holding the baby while his wife chopped wood.

A hidden light soon becomes dim, and if it be entirely covered up, will expire far want of air. So it is with hidden religion. It must go out. There

Miscellany.

THE BROKEN VOW.

"But let the world say what it will,
Thou' sorrow may awhile intrude,
For Wisdom's voice is faithful still,
Still to be blest,—is to be good."
"He will not come to-night said Emma, as she looked out of her window on the still and depopulated streets, and saw the dark rain clouds gathering in the sky; he will not come to-night—it is past his hour —he did not used to be so careful about the weather—but I will not indulge in disquietude—he has promised—" The word died upon her lips; she recollected the coldness—the tone of ambiguity with which that promise had been repeated, when Theodore last visited her; and in a confused and embarrassed manner, though with much parade of disappointment, assured her that it would be impossible for him to conform to his engagement, and marry her at the time appointed. She remembered how her heart sank within her at the moment, and the strange mysterious presentiment that crossed her mind.
That then, for the first time, she thought how bitter a thing must be disappointed love; for the first time, she felt the force of the remarks, which she had so often heard:
"Man's vows are brittle things."

Still the naturally buoyancy of her spirits forbade her to despond. True, he had not fixed the more distant period, he had left the final hour indefinite, but she had his promise; his oath; she would not believe him unfaithful; she could not believe him perjured. At last after an absence of a week, which seemed to her a year, he visited the house again; he seemed the same he had always been, and she was happy. But he retired before the family; this cost her a night's rest. It was not his usual manner, and she wondered why, at this particular time, he should have so much more business than usual. Still, she endeavored to put the most favorable construction upon everything, she strove to acquit him in her own heart.

But love has eagle eyes, and from their vigilance, duplicity must be coupled with consummate art, if she would avoid detection. Emma was creased by a large number of acquaintances, and Theodore also a favorite, in parties they frequently came together, and there, when the spirits are up, and all reserve thrown off, the heart unmasked itself. There Theodore forgot his caution, and not only abated his usual display of partiality for Emma, but lavished his fondness on another. The generous girl forgave him, and forgiveness became a crime against her own heart. She resolved to lead a more secluded life, and in prosecuting her resolve she found ample evidence of what she most feared. His visits grew less and less frequent, until at length, they were discontinued altogether.

Woman-like in the deepest of her sorrow, she retired, as it were, within herself, and secure in the confidence that not even her dearest friends or relatives knew anything of her disappointment, she nursed her grief in secret, and put on a smile as sweet, if not as gay, before the world.— But heroically as she played this new and deceptive part, her feelings gradually obtained the victory over her frame; she pined and pined away, day by day; the paleness of departed health blanched her cheek, and she roved in the stillness of the evening among the tombs of her fathers, like a thin shadow of the past. None knew her grief but he who knew the cause, and he shuddered at the ruin he had made.

Her friends perceived with concern the rapid decay of her health, and as her family had some relatives in Bermuda, they resolved to send her there. The voyage had a salutary effect; the change of scenes and the kindness she experienced in her abode, dispelled much of that cheerless gloom that pressed upon her heart, and added life to her inanimate frame. The glow of health gradually returned, and she shone in the maturity of her beauty, a star of no common lustre in the fashionable world of that delightful island.— A year had not elapsed before the hand of the wealthiest merchant on the island was offered her. He was all the young maiden heart admires—generous, noble and virtuous, and of years suited to her own. She accepted and became a happy wife.

Having left Philadelphia with the intention of returning, she now waited anxiously for the opportunity, but a variety of causes prevented it year after year.

A beautiful family of boys and girls grew up around her; her husband was deeply engaged in an extensive and lucrative business, and twelve years passed by before she was able to accomplish her wishes, in all which time she had never made any inquiry about or once heard of her former lover. Now Mr. Lefere retired from business, and proposed accompanying her, with the family, to America. They arrived at Philadelphia in the safety, and walked up Walnut street to the family mansion. It remained unaltered. Her father and mother, the old servants, her former friends who remained, all welcomed her to her ancient home.
The shrubs she had planted in the yard had grown up beautiful trees. Her name remained where she had engraven it, on the sash of her chamber, twelve years before. She sat down by it, called back the recollection of time passed by, and wept. Yet these were tears of mingled joy and sorrow.

Mr. Lefere took a fine establishment in Chestnut street, and lived in splendid style. Emma used to ride out daily in an elegant carriage with her infant family; and, as had long been her practice, she carefully sought out such objects of distress as she deemed it would be charitable to relieve. One day, as she was riding in the suburbs of the city, she saw a poor half-clad man lying on the ground, and a tattered child crying by his side, she directed the coachman to stop, and inquired why he disregarded the child, and whose it was. It is mine, said he, I came out hoping to get a place for it in yonder house, and could not; it is almost starved, and I have not the means to procure food for myself or it. She gave him a small sum, and directed him to call at her house the next day. He received it with tears and promised compliance.

At the hour appointed, the poor man with his helpless child waited in the kitchen for the call of his benefactress. Mrs.
Lefere sent for them into the breakfast room, as soon as the family dispersed, and desired to know by what means he had brought himself to poverty and want.
The man spoke out honestly. Intemperance, he said, was the great cause, but his troubles had driven him to that. I once saw better days, said he. I was a partner in a mercantile business—I married—I was deceived. The mother of this poor child, after involving me in ruinous debts, eloped with a libertine, whose addresses she had long received. I drowned my sorrows, and sank my character in habits of vice and intoxication.
I have been twice imprisoned for crime—I am destitute of friends and employment.
"And what is your name?" inquired Emma.

Theodore W.—he replied after a moment's hesitation.
The kind lady turned pale and trembled; she recognized in him the once faithful Theodore.

At last, then, said she, affecting to be calm, you have learned to keep your promises—you have called at the time appointed—I will provide for yourself and child.

Ah, said he, you know me. When you asked my name I dared not tell you an untruth; but I hoped it had been forever blotted from your memory. I watched your prosperity, and cursed my own folly, until I had exhausted all my powers.
But broken vows came back to their author in the end, and mine have ruined me forever.

He covered his face and wept. She left him, and having consulted Mr. Le-fere, procured him a situation in an honest occupation, and placed the child at school.

Thus was the maxim verified, "All is for the best to the innocent and virtuous," and thus it is that vice works out its own rewards at last.

MARK OF ILL-BREEDING.

There is no better test of ill-breeding than the practice of interrupting another in conversation by speaking or commencing a remark before another has fully closed. No well-bred person ever does it, nor continues conversation long with one who does. The latter finds an interesting conversation abruptly waived, closed or declined by the former, without suspecting the cause. A well-bred person will not even interrupt one who is in all respects greatly his inferior. It is often amusing to see persons priding themselves on the gentility of their manners, and putting forth all their efforts to ap-

SOOTHING SYRUPS.

A friend sends an article clipped from The Boston Cultivator which contains a chemical analysis of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup. By this it appears that every ounce of this syrup contains 1-7 grains of opium, and that in following the directions accompanying each bottle, the mother gives her infant of three months' old, ten drops of laudanum every two hours. Is it any wonder that opium eating is so feebly on the increase among us when every year tons of the baneful drug are made into soothing syrup and fed to our babes? We admit that when every means has failed to bask the crying child, when catnip tea, and smell-age, and trotting, and patience have all been in vain and the wail continues, the temptation to administer a dose of soothing syrup is well nigh irresistible. Nobody save she who has felt it knows the utter weariness that finally overtakes the mother of a child that will not be comforted. And if, in addition to this a multitude of outside duties press upon her;
other children to care for beside the baby; household labors to perform; domestic enterprises that must be carried on—how natural, nay, how necessary it seems, to give a little harmless anodyne to the unhappy child. So a few drops of "angelic poison" brings sleep to the baby, and time for her work to the mother, and in her heart she blesses the good Mrs.
Winslow, who is such a friend to the nursery. Away with such friendship. It is cursing the country every year with thousands of sickly, feeble, unhappy children, who will carry from their cradles into distorted manhood and womanhood the morbid appetites engendered by their mothers before they could talk or walk.
It is heaping up little mounds in grave-yards, at the head of which, instead of a rosebud snatched from the stem, should be graven on the marble, as a warning to others, REELLED WITH OPIUM. To guard against such a horror, not a drop of percentage or laudanum, or any preparation of the accursed stuff is ever permitted to stand in our cupboards. If that deceptive and dangerous drug is ever given to the children of our family it is from the scales of a skilful and trusted physician.
Not long since a friend of ours was describing a desolation that had swept her sister's fireside. Two bright twin faces, the joy and delight of their parents, were snatched away and laid under the sod.
The narrator, a young lady, unversed in nursery wisdom, went on to tell that Mrs.
Winslow's Soothing Syrup was regularly mixed with their food, and when the closest in the room where they died was cleared, nearly a half-bushel basket full of bottles containing this "harmless anodyne," was carried out, and the amount paid to the druggist in favor of Mrs.
Winslow was $38. But is it likely that any marble-cutter in the land will grave the plain truth on those two white slabs that stand at the head of those two little grassy mounds.

THE CLERK AND THE DEVIL.

A merchant's clerk went into a printing office a short time since, and seeing a pile of papers lying on the table (it being the day of publication,) unconsciously helped himself to a copy, and uttered the following to the printer's devil:—"I suppose you don't take any pay for just one paper?" "Not always," replied the devil. Shortly afterwards, the devil entered the store where the clerk belonged and called for a pound of raisins, which was quickly weighed out to him by the clerk. The devil took the raisins saying:—"I suppose you don't charge anything when a fellow don't take but a pound?" "No," said the clerk, after seeing the disadvantage under which he was placed by his own stingy, impudent illiberality towards the penniless printer's devil, and looking daggers at the little imp, indignantly exclaimed:—"When I get any more newspapers from a printer, I'll pay for 'em!"

WELL-BRED PEOPLE. Among well-bred people a mutual deference is affected; authority conceded; attention given to each in his turn; and an easy stream of conversation maintained, without ven-hemeness, without interruption, without eagerness for victory, and without any airs of superiority.

Patrick's Temptation and Confession.

Come see me babe, fair Kathleen said:
Twas cuddled in its soft nest,
She took it from its cradle bed,
And nursed it on her pure breast.
Her bosom is so fair to see,
Say would it be a sin now,
A sin in me to wish to be
That happy baby's twin now.
Yes, kneave-for if his twin you were,
The truth you cannot mother,
That charming breast you would not share,
Not even with a brother.
Bled you're right—that widow's charms Won't let me heart be a prey;
And with her baby in her arms,
She makes me almost crazy.
I'm bound to tell her, nothing less,
And ask her would she rather
That baby should be fatigued,
Than I should be its father.

Farmers' Department.

APRIL ON THE FARM.

On light land farms, on soils that will not turn up "lumpy" after the plough, the spring's work can now be pushed ahead with considerable advantage. Certain crops, like early pease and oats, can go into the ground at once. The great trouble with us is, that we put off sowing oats too late, and the consequence is we get crops weighing only twenty-eight to thirty pounds to the bushel.

Now the oat is too important a crop to neglect. It is one of our most indispensable grains, one that we must have, and the only way to get it in perfection is to sow it early, the earlier now the better. Get good seed, the soundest and the heaviest you can find, and in with it on all soils that can be worked.

The early potatoes, also, can go in very soon. But if they can be started under glass or in the hot-bed it will be better to let the ground get a little dry. Sow in drills, and when the plants are two inches high, turn a furrow away from both sides of the drill, leaving the row of plants standing along the narrow ridge of the drill for some days then go through and turn the soil back again up towards the drill. You will find it will warm the soil down about the young roots, and this treatment will give you potatoes some days earlier than you get them by the ordinary methods of planting.

In planting early potatoes it is a good plan to let them lie a day or two in the sun, and it is never best to cut the earliest ones too small. They will not bear so fine slicing as the later varieties.

Many farmers make a mistake in turning their cattle out to grass too soon. It is generally best to let the grass get a little started, better for the grass and better for the stock. But on a rough and bushy pasture it is sometimes an advantage to stock early when the cattle nip the early shoots and so help keep down the bushes.

Now is the time to set out fruit trees and orchards. Before the end of the month the ground will be in condition for this work, and it is well to have them set before the later spring work gets to be pressing.

There is one thing that every farmer ought to bear in mind at this season of the year especially, and that is to spare the birds upon his farm and so far as he can throughout his neighborhood.

The great increase of insects within the last few years has very much increased the difficulty of growing fruit, and the multiplication of birds is the only practicable remedy.—Mass. Ploughman.

Lime is the best manure to apply to strong clay soils. It renders them more pervious to light and heat, and also corrects their acidity, by combining with some of the chemical salts in the soil making plants food of poison.

Anecdotes.

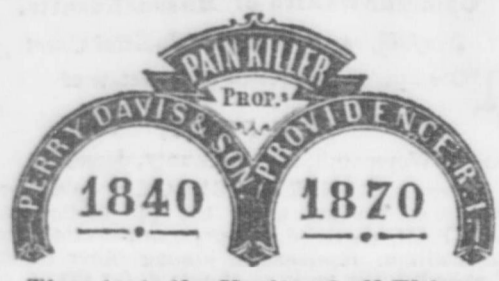

"The candles you sold me last were very bad," said Jones to his grocer.
"Indeed, sir, I am sorry for that!"
"Yes, sir. Do you know they burnt to the middle and would then burn no longer?"
"You surprise me! Did they go out?"
"No sir; they burnt shorter."

"Why do you wink at me, sir?" said a beautiful young lady, angrily to a stranger, at a party, an evening or two since.
"I beg your pardon, madam," replied the wit; "I wink as men do when looking at the sun; your splendor dazzled my eyes."

A school master asked one of his fair pupils.
"Can you decline a kiss?" Dropping a perplexed countenance, she readily replied:
"Yes sir, but I don't like to."

A Milwaukee young lady had her "cup" set for a rather large "filler," but failed to win him, when a confident tried to comfort her with the words: "Never mind Mollie, there is as good fish in the sea as ever was caught."

"Mollie knows that," replied her little brother, "but she wants a whale."

IF YOU WANT THE BEST ARTICLE YOU MUST PAY THE BEST PRICE.

Many people labor under the idea that goods sold at a low price are cheap, when every merchant will tell you that the finer the goods sold the less profit is made. For instance, the finest silks, laces, and broadcloths sell at the highest price, but the profits upon such goods are very small. When silks, laces, and broadcloths are mixed with cotton, or made of coarser materials, they are sold for much less price, but the profits are a great deal larger. Shoddy goods, for instance, are sold very low, but are the dearest goods that can be purchased, being manufactured from old rags, etc. Confectionery of the best quality pays the smallest profit of anything in the candy line. Many people think if they can buy chocolate Creams at 40 cents per pound they are cheap, when in fact they are the dearest goods bought. They cost 20 cents per pound at wholesale, and are sold by irresponsible parties and made of the poorest material that can be procured, even if they are not adulterated. Chocolate Creams made from Cocoa Butter, costing from 25 to 30 cents per pound, and butter 25 cents, when the best Creams are made of Cocoa Butter costing 60 cents, and butter 25 cents, and vanilla twenty dollars per pound. Common Almonds can be sold at 40 cents per pound at a good profit, when superior Jordan Almonds can not be sold less than 60 to 70 cents at wholesale, and at a very small profit, so that any person can see that the low price candies that are sold on the streets and elsewhere are made of the poorest materials.
SOUTHMAYD & CO., do not pretend to compete with manufacturers of low price candies. Their goods are of the highest quality, and the very best materials that can be procured, without regard to cost, and is warranted strictly correct. Parties wishing the BEST quality of Confectionery can be supplied at Wholesale and Retail.

Poetry.

THE WEIGHT OF A TEAR.

A pair of scales before him,
A rich man sat and weighed
A piece of gold—a widow's soul—
And unto her he said—
"Your coin is not the proper weight,
So take it back again,
Or sell it me for half its worth:
It lacks a single grain."
With tearful eye the widow said,
"Oh! weigh it sir, once more;
I pray you not be so exact, Nor drive me from your door."
"Why see yourself it's under weight, Your tears are no avail."
The second time he tries the coin,
It just bears down the scale,
But little guessed that wealthy man,
Who held his gold so dear,
That the extra weight that bore it down
Had been the widow's tear.

Farmers' Department.

GRAFTING ORCHARDS.

Most men think when the tree is grafted the work is done, the tree will do the rest, and never look after the graft. The result is, either no graft grows, or a long slim twig, crooked with water sprouts. Sometimes they will trim some limbs off and leave a water sprout for a graft, and when that bears fruit, they accuse the grafter of cutting cuttings from the same tree and then heap all kinds of abuse upon the grafter. They never think of laying the blame on themselves for negligence.

Some say you must not trim the balance of the brush off the tree for two or three years for fear of hurting the tree, when they will do other things more injurious to the tree. If a farmer wants better fruit, find what kinds bring the best price in the market, and likewise find out what kinds are hardiest on your kind of soil, and the best bearers in your neighborhood. Reports from a different State or different soil from yours are of no use to you.

Be careful in sawing your limbs, keep the top an oval form, put in plenty of grafts, more on the west side than on the east, for the trees draw to the eastward, and as soon as the water sprouts get well started, pull them all off from the limbs that have been grafted. If the grafts make a good growth the first year, the next spring take all or nearly all of the balance of the limbs from the tree; if you leave any till the next spring leave them so that they will not interfere with the grafts. Keep the tree clear from the water sprouts, which is easily done with the hand. If the grafts get too heavy so they begin to crook about, strip some of the leaves off and the limbs will harden, and you will have thick stocky grafts, and will soon have the old stumps over, and you will soon realize a benefit from grafting old trees.

CURRANT BUSHES.

Old currant bushes are among the most unpromising things with which one has to deal; their tangled and mishapen stalks present a puzzle to the novice. Whatever is done should be undertaken during the first mild spell, as the currant pushes very early. The bush will probably have numerous shoots starting from below ground, or near the surface; cut out all but four or six of these, according to the size of the plant, leaving only the most healthy looking ones, and taking care to have these as equally distant as possible. The fruit is borne on wood two or three years old. One-year-old wood is distinguished by its different color and small buds. Cut out all weak shoots of this kind, and shorten the stronger ones two-thirds or one-half. Manure around the bushes, and when dry weather approaches, mulch. Make the old bushes do their best, and start a new plantation which will come into bearing in two years.

Anecdotes.

Said an ambitious Hingham youth lately to his sweet-heart, "Don't you think I'd better dry my moustache?" caressing the infant prodigy.
"I think if you let it alone it will die itself," said the lady.

A little girl who was watching a balloon ascension at Lewiston, Me., suddenly exclaimed:
"Mamma, I shouldn't think God would like to have that man go up to heaven alive."

"Wouldn't you call this the calf of a leg?" asked Bob, pointing to one of his zephyr limbs.
"No," replied Pat—"I should say it was the leg of a calf."

"Have you ever broken a horse?" inquired a horse jockey.
"No, not exactly," replied Simmons, but I have broken three or four wagons."

"Don't a Quaker ever take off his hat to any one, mamma?"
"No, my dear."

"If he don't take off his hat to a barber, how does he ever get his hair cut?"

Poetry.

THREE OLD SAWS.

If the world seems cold to you,
Kindle fires to warm it!
Let their comfort hide from view,
Winners that deform it.
Hearts as frozen as your own,
To that radiance gather;
You will soon forget to moan,
And the cheerless weather.

If the world's a vale of tears,
Go build houses in it!
Will it help your loneliness
On the wind to din it?
Raise a hut, however slight,
Weeds and brambles smother;
And to roof and meal invite
Some forlorn brother.

If the world's a vale of tears,
Smile till rainbow span it;
Breathe the love that life endears,
Clear from clouds to fan it.
Of your gladness lend a gleam Unto souls that shiver;
Show them how dark Sorrow's stream Blends with Hope's bright river.

FRUIT CAKE. One pound of flour, one pound of sugar, three-fourths of a pound butter, one pound of currants, two pounds of raisins, one nutmeg, a tablespoonful of ground cloves, four eggs, one gill of sweet milk, one teaspoonful of soda, and three of cream of tartar.

REMEDY FOR EAR ACHE. There is subject, so bad to bear, and so difficult to cure, as earache. But there is a remedy never known to fail. Take a bit of cotton batting, put upon it a pinch of black pepper, gather it up and tie it in the ear.
Put a flannel bandage over the head to keep it warm. It will give immediate relief.

A raw Jonathan who had been gazing at a garden in the vicinity of New York, in which were several marble statues, exclaimed:—"Just see what a waste! Here's no less than six scarecrows in this little ten-foot patch, and any one of 'em would keep the crows from a five-acre lot!"

He who brings ridicule to bear self than anybody else.

A scholar was turned out of a public school in Sutton, Massachusetts, the other day, because he was "too old."
He is over forty-eight, and has a family of grown up children. He was ambitious, he said, to "ketch up with his boys and gals."

"Have you not one drop of the

Getting into a passion is a good pany, and be one of the number.

A lady entered a store a few days ago where butter and eggs are sold, and complained to the proprietor, named Charley, that half the eggs which she had purchased were rotten. As an excuse Charley replied as follows: "I can't help it. This time of the year the hens are sick, and often lay bad eggs."

An exchange says, "You might as well attempt to shampoo the head of suds, as to attempt to do a large business and ignore printers' ink." That man's head is level.

Aunt Dorothy says she hears a great deal about women enlarging their spare; she don't see what they want of any spare at all, for she can govern her husband with a broomstick.

Miscellany.

IF WE ONLY HAD A PIANO.

"This is pleasant," exclaimed the young husband, taking his seat cosily in the rocking chair, as the tea-things were removed. The fire glowed in the grate, revealing a pretty and neatly furnished sitting-room, with all the appliances of comfort. The fatiguing business of the day was over, and he sat enjoying, what he had all day been anticipating, the delights of his own fireside. His pretty wife, Esther, took her work and sat down by the table.

"It is pleasant to have a house of one's own," he said, again taking a satisfactory survey of his snug little quarters. The cold rain beat against his windows, and he thought he felt really grateful for all his present enjoyments.

"Now if we only had a piano!" said the wife.

Give me the music of your sweet voice before all the pianos in creation," he declared complacently, despite a certain secret disappointment that his wife's thankfulness did not happily chime with his own.

"Well, but we want one for our friends," said Esther.

"Let our friends come and see us and not to hear a piano!" exclaimed the husband.

"But George, everybody has a piano now-a-days—we don't go anywhere without seeing a piano," persisted the wife.

"And yet I don't know what we want one for; you will have no time to play one, and I don't like to hear it."

"Why they are so fashionable—I think our room looks really naked without one."

"I think it looks just right."

"I think it looks very naked—we want a piano shockingly," protested Esther, emphatically.

The husband rocked violently.

"Your lamp smokes, my dear," he said after a long pause.

"When are you going to get a solar lamp? I have told you a dozen times how much we need one," said Esther, pettishly.

"Those will do."

"But you know everybody, now-a-days wants solar lamps!"

"Those lamps are the prettiest of the kind I ever saw—they were bought at Boston."

"But, George, I do not think our room is complete without a solar lamp," said the wife, sharply; they are so fashionable; why, the D—s, B—s, and A—s, all have them. I am sure we ought to."

"We ought to, if we take pattern by other people's expenses, and I don't see any reason for that." The husband moved uneasily in his chair. "We want to live within our means, Esther," exclaimed George.

"I am sure I should think we could afford it well as the B—s and L—s, and many others we might mention—we do not wish to appear mean."

George's cheek crimsoned.

"Mean! I am not mean!" he cried angrily.

"Then you do not wish to appear so," said the wife. "To complete this room, and make it like others, we want a piano and a solar lamp."

"We want—we want!" muttered the husband; "there is no satisfying a woman's wants, do what you may! and he abruptly left the room."

How many husbands are in a similar dilemma! how many homes and husbands are rendered uncomfortable by the constant dissatisfaction of the wives with present comforts and present provisions.
How many bright prospects for business have ended in bankruptcy and ruin, in order to satisfy this secret hankering after fashionable necessities. If the real cause of many failures should be known, it would be found to result from useless expenditure at home—expenses to answer the demands of fashion, and "what people will say of us?"

"My wife has made my fortune," said a gentleman of great possessions, "by her thrift, prudence and cheerfulness when I was just beginning."

"And mine has lost my fortune," answered his companion, bitterly, "by useless extravagance, and repining when I was doing well." What a world does this open of the influence which a wife possesses over the future prosperity of her family. Let the wife know her influence, try to use it wisely and well.

Be satisfied to commence small. It is too common for young housekeepers to begin where their mothers ended. Buy all that is necessary to work skilfully with, adorn your house with all that will render it comfortable. Do not look at richer homes and covet their costly furniture. If secret dissatisfaction is ready to spring up, go a step further and visit the homes of the poor and suffering; behold dark, and cheerless apartments, insufficient clothing, an absence of the comforts and refinements of social life; then return to your own with joyful spirit. You will then be prepared to meet your husband with a grateful heart, and be ready to appreciate that toil and self-denial which he has endured in his business world to surround you with all the delights of home; then you will be ready to co-operate cheerfully with him in so arranging your expenses, that his mind will not be constantly harassed with fears lest family expenditures may encroach upon public payments.

Be independent; a young housekeeper never needed greater moral courage than she does to resist that arrogance of fashion. Do not let the A—s and B—s decide what you must have, neither let them hold the strings of your purse. You know best what you can and ought to afford; then decide with strict integrity according to your means. Let not the censure of your approval of the world, ever tempt you to buy what you hardly think you can afford. It matters little what they think, provided you are true to yourself and family.

Thus pursuing an independent, straightforward, consistent course of action there will spring up peace and joy all around you. Satisfied and happy yourself, you will make your husband so, and your children will feel the warm and sunny influence. Happy at home, your husband can go into the world with a clear head and self-relying spirit; domestic bickering will not sour his heart, and he will return to you again with a confiding and unfading love. Depend upon it, beauty, grace, wit, accomplishments have far less to do with family comfort, than prudence, economy and good sense. A husband may get tired of admiring, but never with the comfortable consciousness that his receipts exceed his demands.

DON'T EAT AT NIGHT.

A touch of the dyspepsia growing out of a pig's foot swallowed at midnight, has changed a man's whole life, and irregularity of the bile has made many an angel almost a fiend. If the gastric juice is all right, and the blood in swimming order, the world is a nice, bright, pleasant place, and from which nobody is in a hurry to move; but if in that queer, mysterious fluid there is any alloy, the sky of life is all cloud, the winds howl and every thing is dark and dismal.
If you want to feel happy, look after your digestive and circulating systems.

HOW HE SOLD THE BARBER.

The other evening a number of young men entered a barber's shop for the purpose of getting shaved. One, whose incipient growth of down could scarcely be called beard, in a jocular manner inquired of the knight of the shears, "How much will you charge to trim one side of my head?—that's about all I shall need to-night." The laughing reply was—"Five cents," whereupon the youthful individual took his seat in the chair.
"Which side shall I trim?" inquired the barber. "The outside—if you please!"
The hair-dresser acknowledged the corn and proceeded to do up the "outside" hair in a manner particularly attractive—and all it cost the young man was five cents.

ALWAYS READY.

A lady once asked Mr. Wesley: "Supposing that you were to die at 12 o'clock to-morrow night, how would you spend the intervening time?"
"How, madam?" he replied; "why, just as I intend to spend it now. I should preach this evening at Gloucester, and again at five to-morrow morning; after that I should ride to Tewksbury, preach in the afternoon and meet the societies in the evening. I should then repair to friend Martin's house who expects to entertain me, converse and pray with the family as usual, retire to my room at ten o'clock, commend myself to my Heavenly Father, lie down to rest and wake up in glory."

ing man.

THE METEOR.

The Commercial transaction in which this case originated has elicited so much comment and the principles involved in the decision are so important that Little, Brown & Co., have recently issued a full report of the trial, and a brief abstract may interest our readers.

This vessel owned by John M. Forbes, of Milton and others was seized in New York, in January, 1866, for an alleged violation of the neutrality law as fitted out with intent to cruise in the service of Chili, in the war with Spain.

The law applicable to the case has become familiar to all loyal people in the discussions concerning the pirate Alabama and other rebel cruisers from British ports.

If any person fitted out and armed, or attempted to fit out and arm, or procured to be fitted out and armed, or shall knowingly be concerned in the furnishing, fitting out, or arming of any vessel, with intent that she be employed in the service of any foreign State, to cruise or commit hostilities against the subjects or property of any foreign State with whom the U. S. are at peace, every person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a high misdemeanor, and shall be fined not more than $10,000, and imprisoned not more than three years, and every such ship, &c., shall be forfeited.

The Meteor was a fast Steamer, four hundred tons larger than the Alabama, pierced for guns and adapted to heavy armament, dalgrens, parrots, howitzers, &c.

She was seized under process from the United States Court. The importance of the cause was manifest. Her sale price was $350,000. Were the guilt and scandal of Great Britain, in permitting the pirate Alabama to fit out on her cruise, to be incurred with the sanction of our government, in any port protected by our flag?

Application was made by the owners to the President, the State Department and the Court, for the release of the Ship, on bond. This was refused. Wm. H.
Seward expected that the law would be enforced. The U. S. Marshal retained the custody and the vessel did not sail.— Trial was had in the United States District Court. We omit our abstract of the evidence.

Judge Betts, the profound and impartial jurist, who for so long a period presided in the United States District Court, in admiralty, after mature consideration, delivered an elaborate opinion, in which the whole doctrine of neutral rights and obligations is thoroughly discussed, and concluded with a decree condemning and forfeiting the vessel and property under seizure.

From this decree an appeal was taken, and the case was examined upon the pleadings and proofs by Judge Nelson, the accomplished and venerable Judge of the United States Court, who did not concur with Judge Betts, was not satisfied that a case was made out upon the proofs and dismissed the libel.

He states the result of his opinions in a few sentences only; that the negotiations came to an end; that the furnishing of the vessel with coal and provisions for a voyage to Panama was not in pursuance of an agreement with the Chilean agents, &c.

In the masterly exposition of the principles of law enunciated by Judge Betts, he distinguishes between the case where the interest is to prepare an article of contraband merchandise for a market subject to the chances of capture, and a case where the intent is to fit out a vessel which shall leave our port to cruise immediately or ultimately against the commerce of a friendly nation. The latter, we are bound to prevent. The former, the belligerent must prevent. The arguments of Mr. Evans and Mr. Webster in answer to the inquiry, what kind of a voyage the meteor was actually intending, and upon the question why Messrs. Forbes did not take the stand as witnesses, and disclose the facts upon oath for the protection of their property, abounded in points of sharp discussion.

The Hearth and Home says:
"Abolish the advertisements of any leading daily, and only the rich could afford to buy it. So when a man feels inclined to grumble because a certain space in his journal is occupied by advertisements where he would like to find other reading, let him consider that they are an inevitable necessity, and without them he cannot have any journal at all."

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

REAL ESTATE SALES, &c.

We give below the recent sales of estates in this place, as far as we have been able to learn the particulars:—

Rawson farm, except the State Quarries, to Lemuel Billings, for $10,500.

Lemuel Billings' farm, to various parties, for about $15,500.

Estate owned by Daniel Baxter, on Walnut street, to Joseph W. Robertson, for $1000.

Estate on Main street, owned by Henry H. Faxon, to John Sullivan, for $1,000.

Lot of Land owned by Daniel Baxter, in the rear of the railroad depot, adjoining the estate of Stephen Bancroft, to Henry H. Faxon, for about $1000.

We learn that Mr. Faxon has sold nearly all his Boston property to real estate speculators.

It is reported that the Wollaston Land Company have bought the farm of Edmund Pope.

The following parties intend building immediately at Wollaston, viz:—

Isiah White and Robert Josselyn of this town; Mrs. Sarah Magoun, of Cambridge; John T. White of Boston; F. McIntire, of Fitchburg; Geo. F. Pinkham, Agent for the Wollaston Land Company.

Isiah W. Thayer, formerly of Hyde Park, is building a large store and dwelling house.

The Land Company have purchased one thousand shade trees to set out on the avenues and streets, and great improvements are now being made daily.

PATRONS. We have been so badly pressed with advertisements for the last three weeks that we have been obliged to leave out much reading matter which we have in type, and also many advertisements. We are in hopes to find more room soon, or we shall be under the necessity of issuing supplements. We urge our advertising friends to hand in their notices early, or we shall be obliged to lay them over.

RETURNED. Mr. P. McGrath, of this town, proprietor of the Quincy Marble Works, returned to his home on Wednesday, after a sojourn of some two or three months in Europe. We believe the journey has been very beneficial to him, as he is looking well. He has brought with him many beautiful designs for monuments.

CHURCH CONFERENCE. The Norfolk Conference of Unitarian and other Christian Churches will meet with the First Congregational Church of this place, on Wednesday next, at 10 A. M.

LECTURE. We would call attention to the closing lecture of the Religious Course, which will be delivered on Tuesday evening next, by Rev. Dr. Bellows, of New York.

ACTION. Don't forget the sale of real estate on Granite street, this afternoon at half past four o'clock, by Henry H. Faxon, Esq. Two houses in good repair and will be sold on very favorable terms.

Dr. McCosh, an eminent divine has commenced a series of Lectures in Boston, upon the relations of science to religion. The science of theology and the theology of science tend in perspective to the same source.

We would call the attention of our readers to the advertisements of Messrs. Jacobs & Deane, 190 Washington street, Boston. They have a fine stock of Spring goods, which is worthy your attention.

ARRESTED. We learn from the Boston Herald, that George G. Nichols and his wife Susie G. Nichols, were arrested in Melrose, on Thursday, on the charge of setting fire to the laundry establishment of Nichols, on the 12th of last month. From what we know of the parties it does not seem possible that they could be guilty of the crime.

GODEY'S LADY'S BOOK. The May number of this old and highly prized ladies' magazine has been received. The engravings in this number, both steel and wood from the commencement to the close, are in the best style of art. It appears to be the intention of the publisher to make all the numbers of his eighteenth volume gems—both in literature and illustration. In all the departments which commend Godey to the public there is exhibited a desire to make the contents in every way useful and instructive.

THE U. S. MARSHALSHIP. Attorney General Horner states that the President has decided to retain Gen. Andrews in his position as U. S. Marshal for Massachusetts.

WOLLASTON.

In our statement to which "G" refers, that the "northerly portions of the town have many localities of historic interest" accompanied with a brief allusion to the seat of the great Sachem; also, to Mount Wollaston and to the grant to Quincy, it was not our design to convey the impression that all these were to be found at the new Wollaston Station. We have always understood, that the hill on the right of the causeway to Squantum, was recognized as the seat of the Sachem, and that this was confirmed by testimony sufficiently authentic for that purpose. It is plainly laid down on the map and there is no occasion to disturb its repose. To recur to the improvements projected at Wollaston, we see no reason why this enterprise may not be attended with a measure of success, similar to that which has accompanied the operations at Hyde Park, Fairmount and Chelsea. The heights of land extending from Fairmount towards Squantum, and overlooking the valley of the Neponset, are being gradually appropriated for building uses. The dwelling houses recently erected on the Lewis Pierce estate at Neponset, furnish certainly, some of the most attractive residences which the market offers. In the early days of the operations at Hyde Park, much depended upon the furnishing of frequent trains at cheap rates, to the city. The lucrative returns, which are now yielded to the Boston and Providence railroad at the Hyde Park station, are due in a measure to the provident forecast of Judge Warren, then President of that railroad company. The Sachem who governs now in this part of the country, and controls the railroad facilities with the station at Wollaston, is the Governor of a neighboring State. It will be fortunate for Wollaston, if from any stand point there the President of the Old Colony Railroad can see the lights in the windows on the hill-tops at Fairmount, and remembering that these were multiplied by the system of cheap fares, established by Judge Warren, be induced to imitate his example.

KIDNAPPED. The little girl Nellie Burns, who was lost in Boston, on the 31st of March, was found living in Institute alley near Endicott street, in that city on Wednesday, and restored to her parents. The woman who had the child gave the name of Lizzie Chase and is about twenty-one years of age. She was arrested, and also a man by the name of Manning, who is suspected of being concerned in the affair. Her story is that she found the child near St. Paul's church, on Tremont street, about three weeks ago, and carried her home, but there is no doubt but the child was kidnapped. They were arraigned and tried before the Municipal Court on Thursday, but waived an examination and were committed for trial in default of bail in $5,000 each.

PARDONED. George Hunnewell, who has spent twenty-three years within the walls of the State Prison, was pardoned out by the Governor, on Fast Day. In 1848, at the age of 26, he was sentenced to be hung for setting fire to his mother's house, in Cambridge, which was entirely consumed, and his own brother perished in the flames. His sentence was finally commuted by Gov. Briggs to imprisonment for life in the State Prison. During his long confinement he has behaved himself in a most exemplary manner, giving but little if any trouble to the officers. Arrangements have been made with a gentleman out West, who was formerly attached to the institution as an officer, to take Hunnewell and employ him on his farm.

RELIABLE SEEDS. One of the most important things, in the way of successful farming, is in procuring the most reliable and approved kinds of seed. Some farmers give but little attention to this subject, but plant those kinds which they can get the easiest or cheapest. To such farmers this article is not intended, but to those who desire to procure seeds that are put up by experienced hands, we would invite them to call at Messrs. A. Schlegel & Co., No. 10 South Market St., Boston.

A BIG PROJECT. Four Western Governors are now in Washington urging Congress to make appropriations for a canal for steam communication between Mississippi and Lake Michigan via the Wisconsin and Fox rivers. The plan, comprises the completion of the improvement of the channels of those rivers and a connecting canal of about 180 miles in length. It will cost about $4,000,000.

The selectmen of Hyde Park require the transient lodgers at the alms house known as "tramps" to work on the roads from one to three hours, to compensate the town for keeping them.

Upwards of thirty-two thousand packages of tea were landed at the wharves of Boston last week.

For the Patriot.
The Coterie Entertainment.

The dramatic performance on the 14th inst., at the Town Hall, under the auspices of the Universalist Society, was exceedingly creditable to all, who, by their participation in it, contributed to the enjoyment of a large, appreciative and highly gratified audience.

The plays were happily selected, the various characters were judiciously assigned and conceived, and in many points the representations would have done credit to professional players.

The President of the Coterie, both as actor and manager, showed himself at home in the position, and he was well supported by the several members of his company. The cool audacity and the blushing assurance of the fatalist Horace Ogles, maintained up to the very moment of his defeat, was finely embodied in the acting of the representative of that character; and the way in which Beauchamp transferred his love as he gradually yielded to the influence of dash, sentiment, music, and finally of Caroline in her own character, gave equal satisfaction to his auditors.

The several roles of the leading lady were assumed and presented with an ease, spirit and naturalness of manner that was highly pleasing.

Mr. Fekete did the heavy burlesque of the "ever green Romeo," in a style that struck his listeners very forcibly and made them laugh on the right side of their faces. New York and Boston may differ, but Quincy critics are agreed on the merits of Mr. Fekete. His make-up was capital. His talent as a comedian was very apparent.

The doctor, both as regular practitioner and as mesmeric physician treated his patients most acceptably. They will give him another call. Nancy was bright and well up in her part. And so were all the rest.

The music, both vocal and instrumental added to the pleasures of the evening. When this company plays again those who invest in tickets will do well. Those who do not, will miss a pleasant time.

NEW AND ELEGANT STYLES. We would call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Messrs. Cushman & Brooks. Those of our friends who visit Boston, for the purchase of house-keeping goods, hosiery, ribbons, lace, handkerchiefs, &c., will do well to call at this store, No. 37 and 39 Temple Place, where they will receive polite attention and find a large and well selected stock of dry goods. Many of our readers may not need this gentle reminder, while others may not yet have given them a call.

ACCIDENT. On Friday a little boy about eight years of age, named Danny Reardon, only son of Mrs. Charles Reardon, broke his leg while at play near the Stone School house, in the south part of the town. Dr. Gilbert was called, and set the broken bone, and we learn he is doing well.

Five thousand emigrants arrived in New York on Wednesday.

Boston has now fifty first-class grammar schools, exclusive of Dorchester.

Capt. Benjamin Brayton, the well known and popular commander of the steamer Bristol, and for forty years connected with the Sound steamers, has retired from his position on account of ill health.

THE MATHUSHEK PIANOS. Our readers will see by advertisement, that the "Equalizing Scale" of those pianos imparts so great a power of tone that small rooms can now accommodate a large-toned piano.

Five Atlantic steamers have sailed away never to be heard of more. They are the President, the City of Glasgow, Tempest, Pacific and City of Boston. Since 1857 some eighty-six ocean steamers have been lost by fire or wreck.

Eminent Men of Science have discovered that electricity and magnetism are developed in the system from the iron in the blood. This accounts for the debility, low spirits, and lack of energy a person feels when this vital element becomes reduced. The Peruvian Syrup, a protoxide of iron, supplies the blood with its iron element, and in the only form in which it is possible for it to enter the circulation.

Closing Entertainment. In accordance with urgent and numerous requests from the people of Quincy and vicinity generally, the

QUINCY COTERIE respectfully announces its closing entertainment for the season, to be given at the TOWN HALL. Monday Evening, May 2d.

The programme will be varied and entertaining, comprising music, drama, and variety, prepared and cast to the entire strength of the Coterie, and it is confidently expected will surpass in interest and merit, the entertainment previously presented, which were so well received and appreciated by the large audiences in attendance.

Delicate Ground, Four Sisters, Too Much for Good Nature. The entire lower floor will be reserved, and tickets will be for sale at Mr. Holden's, and Lombard street and after Tuesday next. The Quincy Patriot.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

THE SHORE LINE OF QUINCY. Few towns in the immediate vicinity of Boston, possess a more extensive coast line than Quincy. We know not the distance, but following the line of shore along inlet and bay, we should suppose it must exceed sixteen miles. Its situation, however, did not require a continuous marginal road along its shore and headlands, so that the ancient description of a neighboring town would well apply to this: "In form it is somewhat intricate to describe, by reason of the sea wasting crooks, when it beats upon a mouldering shore, yet they have complex streets in some places." Although the ways over the causeway to Squantum and the road to Germantown are much frequented, we have thought that more direct and convenient access from other portions of this shore line to the city, would largely contribute to the prosperity, use and improvement of those localities.

BOSTON HARBOR. As not disconnected with the subject of the coast line of Quincy, we sketch a summary of the great changes and improvements already made or in progress, in the harbor of the city, and its surroundings.

The selection of Hon. Josiah Quincy, as Chairman of the Board of Harbor Commissioners, to whose supervision and advice this great work of improvement was intrusted, was remarkably fortunate.

So early identified with those great enterprises which have contributed to the prosperity of the city, with large pecuniary interests which would be seriously endangered by any measure which should occasion detriment to the channels of the harbor, he appears to have devoted untiring energy in the prosecution of the duties of his commission. The appropriations of Congress for the improvement and preservation of the harbor, during a few years past exceed a half million dollars.

Corwin, Tower and Barrel rocks, have been reduced, so that twenty-three feet of water covers them at low mean tide. Kelly's rock also, is in process of removal. The channel has been widened and deepened. The islands and headlands of the main land, have been protected by sea wall, to prevent their materials from shoaling the channels. When Kelly's rock is removed, a direct line can be followed from "Boston Light" to "Great Brewster Spit Light." At the southwest point of Lovell's Island, the channel has been widened from 365 to 625 feet, with an average depth over the dredged area of 21 feet.

Next the Commission have duly appreciated the value of the back waters of Boston as commercial water ways; in the case manifested in the mode of constructing Broadway Bridge over Fort Point Channel, and in the widening and improvement in the draws and bridges over Charles and Miller's Rivers. Provision has already been made that the draws of the railroad bridges should have a clear passageway of forty-four feet in width, with an alignment favorable to navigation and the flow of the tide.

Other changes are occasioned by the work of solid filling. Atlantic Avenue is in process of construction, and a spacious street will soon open along the head of the wharves, at the central front of the city.

The arrangements already made with the Boston, Hartford and Erie, and the Boston and Albany Railroad Companies will secure the immediate occupation of seventy-five acres of the South Boston flats. Here the commerce of the land and of the sea, the car and the steamer will meet at the edge of deep water, with products in rapid and saving transit.

The work contemplates in the future, the occupation of 750 acres of flats, secured by two miles of sea wall, from Fort Point Channel to Fort Independence, and an addition of 550 acres of space, for deep water anchorage.

Such is a brief sketch of the unimportant changes, which in this time of depression of our commercial interests, are preparing the way for an extended commerce.

This movement on the part of the Boston and Albany Railroad to obtain depot accommodations for freight at deep waters may possibly be followed by the Old Colony Railroad also, and again by the Northern Railroad to secure like facilities at East Boston. Should this occur, it would not be unreasonable to infer that a freight ferry would be established from East to South Boston, through the agency of these commanding railroad interests.

Persons visiting Boston for clothing, will do well to call on Bennett & Co., 456 Washington street. They have a large and choice stock for Spring and Summer wear just manufactured.

BRIEF LOCALS.

There are twenty or more pews in the Stone Temple to be sold at auction on Tuesday next.

The closing entertainment by the Coterie will be given at the Town Hall on Monday evening next. It will be one of the best dramatic entertainments given in this place this season.

The warm weather the present week has brought the trees forward very rapidly, and many of them are nearly in blossom.

Miss Hussey has just received her usual fine stock of Spring and Summer Millinery. Now is the time for the ladies to call, if they want tasty articles.

Mr. Galen Bowditch has purchased the present week one of the finest lots belonging to the "Woodward estate." It is situated nearly opposite Mr. Henry Baker's, and measures 55,500 feet. Price 5 1/2 cents per foot. He intends to build this summer.

The house of Patrick Barry on Cemetery street, was partly destroyed by fire on Wednesday last. The loss is covered by insurance. It is supposed the fire caught from a defect in the chimney.

Thomas Mullen was tried before Justice Churchill of Milton, yesterday, and was sent to the House of Correction at Dedham, for 30 days, for over-driving. It appears that he hired a horse to go only to West Quincy, but went many miles beyond. Dear riding!

The professional card of James G. Shannon will be found in our columns. He is a native of Quincy, and when a boy was much admired by his many associates. The excellent and manly qualities which he now possessed, we believe he still retains, and will win for him a large practice in this place.

The warm weather with pleasant evenings, has brought out the Post-office brigade, who with numbers undiminished, nightly hang around that important place.

Are we to have a celebration this year on the glorious 4th of July?

"Lend me your ears" said Anthony to the Romans. Borrow my nose said I to a friend on a recent warm day when going through the "Hollow."

The dramatic season will close with the performance on Monday evening next. Manager C. will bring out some heavy drama early next Fall.

The Shakespeare Club holds its last meeting for the season on Tuesday evening, May 10th. The club has been a success this year.

"What a dreadful gloomy hall!" this remark was made some three hundred times on Wednesday last.

Zeeonsey is to visit Quincy in June.

RELIGIOUS. Rev. Mr. Marsden of Abington, will conduct services in the Universalist Church next Sunday morning and afternoon. The afternoon Communion service at the close of the sermon. In the evening the last lecture of the series will be given by the pastor, on the doctrine of the early church. Subject: "The Underworld and Christ's descent and preaching to the Spirits in prison." The sexton will welcome all who come to seats.

DIVORCES IN NORFOLK COUNTY. The following divorces have been decreed by the Supreme Judicial Court, sitting at Dedham, during the present month: Charles W. Mansfield, from Emma A. Mansfield; cause, adultery. Edward A. Hale, from Sarah A. Hale; cause, adultery. Lucinda M. Kingsley, from Francis E. Kingsley; cause, adultery. Custody of minor children given to the wife.

LE CERCLE. As the warm, pleasant days approach, a desire is felt by the young folks to join in some out of door amusements. For the last three or four years Croquet has been the favorite; but a new and fashionable game called Le Cercle, is destined to be the attraction this season, as it gives opportunity for more variety and needs far greater skill in playing. It can be set up and played to advantage on about half the space required for field croquet, making it very desirable for those having small lawns. D. B. Brooks & Bro., 55 Washington street, Boston, have it for sale, and all orders addressed to the firm will be promptly attended to.

RETURNED. Mr. Geo. G. Souther, who has been engaged in building operations in Vineland, N. J., for four or five years, has returned to this good old town of his nativity, and would solicit a share of public patronage. He is prepared to do first-class work, and will guarantee to give the best of satisfaction. The Vine-land papers speak quite highly of Mr. Souther, and regret his leaving them. See card in another column.

Hattie Johnson, the young girl who was enticed away by Rev. Horace Cook, has since been married to a young man to whom she was previously engaged.

Portsmouth, Virginia, first complains of mosquitoes.

THE SENATORIAL TERM.--2.

Believing that the system of annual elections for a triennial State Senate would be the best system that could be devised, "The Senate and House" says Mr. Adams, "now represents to constituents of a like character as to territory and mind, and the State is liable to all the grave evils incident to a government through a single chamber or two identical chambers." He compresses the theoretical evils following the present district system of annual elections in the views of James Madison himself, (a long life democrat,) selected from No. 62 of that celebrated treatise, the Federalist. They are:

1. The probability of sinister combinations, which will be in proportion to the similarity in the genius of the two bodies.

2. The propensity of all single and numerous assemblies to yield to the impulse of sudden and violent passions.

3. A want of due acquaintance with the objects and principles of legislation.

4. The mutability in the public councils arising from a rapid succession of members.

These in fact are the premises of Mr. Adams's views in favor of an amendment of our Constitution as named in my last communication. He contents that a separate tenure of office in the two branches would have prevented many great evils in our State legislation for two past decades, particularly in 1855, and again in 1868. He is particularly severe on the Know Nothing party, whose existence dates the two years of 1854-5.

"It seemed to sweep" says Mr. Adams, "like a tornado; and in Massachusetts in particular, it raged wholly beyond control." The old parties—the tried parties—tried and educated leaders—were swept out of sight in a moment. For years the State had been hotly contested between opposing parties, and during the previous political year the old Whig organization had been in complete control of the government. In a moment all this was changed. The popular frenzy—causeless, unreasoning, aimless—seized at once upon the Executive, and both branches of the legislature; indeed it elected four hundred and fourteen out of the four hundred and nineteen members who at that time composed the two legislative bodies. A more heterogeneous mass could not have been collected together, and that it succeeded in transacting business at all spoke well for the general intelligence of New England. Not a single member of the Senate, and but twelve members of the House, had sat in the legislature of the previous year; nor were these twelve members men of any note or mark. But forty-six members out of the whole four hundred and nineteen had ever sat in any legislative assembly before, and only six members of the eight leading committees of the two Houses had ever been in a legislative committee; one of these six also, and he the ex officio leader of the House, belonged to the minority of five, which alone represented the old parties in the State. Under the control of such a mob, the halls of legislature were turned into an obscene pandemonium. The history of that session does not need to be written, save in the few words which Blackstone has applied to the Parliament holden at Coventry, in the time of Henry IV., which "historians have branded with the name of the Parliamentum indoctum, or the lack-learning (Know-Nothing) Parliament; and Sir Edward Coke observes, with some spleen, that there never was a good law made thereat."

"Here was an instance in which a separate tenure of office for the two branches would have been of incalculable service. The popular paroxysm did not last two years, but while it did last it was wholly unrestrained. Had two-thirds of the Senate of the previous year held over, and a complete change in that branch of the legislature been possible but once in three years, 'the impulse of sudden and violent passion' could not have obtained complete control. A certain weight, knowledge, and consistency in legislation would have been preserved until the sober second thought of the people could have had time to act. The State of Massachusetts did, in fact, pass at that time from Whig to Republican control."

Mr. Adams writes with great boldness—entirely divested of political partisanship, evidently with the minority (large or small) in favor of this change in our organic law, and unless candid reaches a higher estimate than political preference for public office, he is not yet on the highway of party success. But his views as laid down in this treatise will be read with deference and have no little weight on the public mind.

A TRUE BALSAM. Dr. Wister's Balsam of Wild Cherry is truly a balsam. It contains the balsamic principle of the Wild Cherry, the balsamic properties of tar and of pine. Its ingredients are all balsamic. Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, and Consumption speedily disappear under its balsamic influence.

Virginia Railroads and Virginia Prospects.

The coal field on the West slope of the Alleghenies, extending from the Monongahela to the Big Sandy rivers, is by far the largest, the richest, and is destined to become the most valuable in the world. In Europe, nearly all the coal deposits lie far beneath the general surface, and far below water level. Deep shafts are sunk at immense cost, to reach them; the mines are then ventilated and drained as they are being worked, only after the most astonishing outlays. On the Kanawha and collateral valleys, the coal crops out of the hill sides in veins from 5 to 12 feet thick, far above water level, and can be dumped into the cars by the force of gravity, for merely nominal cost, and carried thence to wherever it is needed. A few miles eastward of this immense store of coal, on the eastern slope of the Alleghenies, are found inexhaustible deposits of iron ores of the best qualities. The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, now in course of construction from the navigable waters of the James River, to the river navigation of the Mississippi Valley, the greater part of which is already in operation, crosses both the iron fields and the coal fields, and unites them to the seaboard on the one hand and the Great West on the other. Nearly 7,000 men are employed upon this great work, and it will not be many months before the cars will travel continuously from Memphis, Saint Louis or Chicago, to and from these great iron and coal deposits, and if need be, on to the navigation of the Atlantic at Richmond.

These natural advantages, together with the encouraging rush of immigration now finding its way to Virginia, and West Virginia, will give to those States a vast wealth and industry. The completion of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad itself will set free a wonderful amount of latent power, and is to rank as one of the most important works of improvements now in progress.

The Loan of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, which is announced elsewhere in our columns, by the well known Banking firm, Fish & Hatch, of New York, it will be seen is being steadily absorbed for investments. These Bonds have several features of convenience and security not hitherto combined. To all persons contemplating investments of capital, or the exchange of securities, their remarks will be of special interest.

SKILLFUL OPERATION AND SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT. On the last visit of Dr. Bragg to Hingham, he performed a delicate operation upon I. H. Lambert, Esq., of North Cohasset, and has restored hearing.

Mrs. Polly Lewis of Dennis, and Mrs. Deacon Whiting of East Abington, came under the Doctor's care for general debility and chronic female weakness. Under his remedies they have regained their health and strength.

Our respected townsman, Samuel V. Hardwick, Esq., who has been deaf for a number of years, caused by catarrh, by a course of treatment under Dr. Bragg, his hearing has greatly improved. The Doctor will be at the Hancock in Quincy, May 9th and 10th.

For the Patriot.
BOSTON, HARTFORD AND ERIE.

The question of granting a further loan of State scrip to the Boston, Hartford & Erie Railroad Company is one of unusual interest to tax-payers, because no adequate security can be or is intended to be given therefor. The affairs of the company have been so badly managed, its resources so extensively misdirected, and plans for further embezzling the road have been so well laid, that it is quite probable that more money will be required to complete it ready for through business to New York, and to the West, than the road will be worth when done. At a very low estimate, very much less than the estimate of F. W. Bird, it will require $14,500,000 to pay off the mortgages underlying the Berdell mortgage, discharge the attachments upon the road, pay for the necessary terminal accommodations, and complete the road for through business. To this add five years interest to cover the time necessary to establish a paying business, and the cost is $19,575,500.

It is not reasonable to expect that this road after five years development will earn more per mile than other Massachusetts roads earn after twenty-five years development. The returns of 1869 show that after allowing seventy-five per cent. for expenses, these roads made $3,303.50 per mile net, which on the three hundred and sixty-three miles of the Boston, Hartford and Erie Railroad would be 7 per cent. upon $17,131,000. It will be seen that if this road does not earn more per mile than Massachusetts roads average, the Berdell bonds are of no intrinsic value now, and never will be, whether the road is completed or not, and the stock of the road is worth no more than parties are willing to pay for the privilege of controlling the road. It was well understood at the time the Berdell bonds were created they were of no value, because the road bed mortgaged to secure them had been previously mortgaged for more than it was worth, and that value could only attach to the Berdell bonds after they had been applied to the purposes for which they were issued, i. e. to cancel the underlying mortgages and to complete the road covered by the Berdell mortgage.

The Boston, Hartford and Erie Railroad Company have not applied the twenty millions Berdell bonds to give value to the property mortgaged to secure them as was contemplated, and the consequence is the road is not completed and the bonds are of no present or prospective value. The State has already issued its scrip in aid of this road to the amount of £701,000 sterling, equal to $3,392,840, and a further amount has been authorized, but is withheld by the Governor and Council on account of the questionable management of the company. The payment of the face of this scrip issued, has been provided for by the deposit of $600,686 with the State Treasurer, which with compound interest will cancel the scrip at maturity, but the interest on this scrip, which will amount at its maturity to as much as its face (it having twenty years to run) is not secured. The State holds as security for this interest $3,000,000 in Berdell bonds at par, worth at present quotations 36 per cent. of their face ($1,296,000). The unsecured balance ($2,096,840) may be deemed lost, and probably nearly the whole of the interest for which the State is liable will be lost, and the amount will have to come from the pockets of the people. Persons who hold Berdell bonds and other securities of the road are now marching shoulder to shoulder with the managers of the Boston, Hartford and Erie Railroad Company in their third raid upon the treasury of the Commonwealth. They have enlisted in their service legal, political and lobby talents of high and low degree, and the cry for a southwest outlet to the West has never been so loud as now, when it is made by brokers, capitalists and general speculators, who have aided this southwest outlet enterprise by lending the company money at from 1 to 5 per cent. per month upon Berdell bonds at 50 cents on the dollar, and who now hope by hook or by crook, to unload their securities without loss. One daring speculator has just bought $20,000 worth of the Berdell bonds at 64-1/2 per cent. discount from their face, in anticipation that the power of the Boston, Hartford and Erie Railroad Ring will prevail, and under the influence of further State aid the bonds will advance in price and he will be enabled to sell out to some unfortunate at a profit.

In fact the real question to be decided by the present legislature is, whether or not the money which has been lost by this company and its nominal friends in stock gambling, usuries and other irregular operations, shall be re-invested in whole or in part by innocent tax-payers, whose only fault has been that heretofore they have sent men to the Legislature too weak to protect the State treasury.

The well known hostelry, the PARKS HOUSE, No. 187 Washington street, Boston, has been entirely renovated, and in the culinary department remodelled, by its new proprietors, Messrs. Baynton & Roberts, and is now conducted both on the European and American plans. As a transient residence for the traveling public, as a permanent boarding place, or as a down town dining place, the Parks House offers superior attractions. Its table is first-class and its location central.

A VERY SINGULAR CASE. A son of Mr. James Friary of South Dedham, three years old, was drowned on Saturday last. A post hole had been dug before the rain and contained a few inches of water. His mother, noticing his absence for a moment, found him in the post hole dead.

Farmers and stock raisers have frequently told us that they have seen very good results from giving Sheridan's Cardinal Condition Powders to cows and swine before and after they drop their young. The powders put them in good condition, and give them strength to care and provide for sucklings.

We have often wondered whether there is a person in all New England, who does not know and appreciate the value of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment as a family medicine? It is adapted to most all purposes, and is the best pain killer that can be used.

CANDY GAMBLING.

A SMALL FRAUD. Among the ingenious frauds now in practice, that of selling "Price Chewing Candy" to children is one of the most reprehensible. Each package purports to contain in addition to the candy a small ticket, the value of the whole, and the sale is calculated to increase an interest in games of chance and lottery.

More than that, though it is sometimes claimed that the candy in the parcels is made and put up by Southwick & Co., it is often of an inferior character, and unlike the pure article made by that firm. None of their Superior Chewing Candy is ever sold by Southwick & Co. in this manner, and they discontinue the sale of all other candy-gambling schemes by refusing to do up their candy in prize packages for parties engaged in selling them.

Southwick's Chewing Candy, which, like all other pure and honest candy, is made of pure and unadulterated cane, can be obtained at their store on Tremont street, and at all first class confectionery stores.—Boston Traveller.

LOAN of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Co.

Is completed and running from RICHMOND, Va. to the celebrated WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, in West Va., 227 miles. It is being rapidly extended to the Ohio River, 200 miles further, making in all 427 miles.

In its progress Westward, it penetrates and opens up to market the Wonderful Coal Deposits of the Kanawha Region in West Virginia. And thus brings the superior and abundant Coal of that section into communication, with the Iron Ores of Virginia and Ohio, and the Western, South Western and Eastern markets.

When completed it will connect the superior harbor facilities of the Chesapeake Bay with reliable navigation on the Ohio River, and thus with the entire system of Railroad and Water transportation of the great West and South-West.

It will make a short, easy, cheap and favorable route from the West to the sea, and will command a large share of the enormous freights seeking transportation to the coast.

It will thus become one of the most important and profitable East and West Trunk Lines of Railroad in the country, and command a trade of immense value.

The completed portion of the Road is doing a profitable and increasing business, and is fully equal in value to the whole amount of the mortgage upon the entire Line—($15,000,000).

The loan of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, being a First Mortgage upon the entire Line, property and equipments, worth when completed at least $30,000,000, is therefore one of the most substantial, conservative, and reliable Railroad Loans ever offered in the market, and is peculiarly adapted to the wants of Investors and Capitalists, Who desire to make their investments with the most satisfactory assurance of positive and undoubted security.

The Bonds are in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100, and may be had COUPON or REGISTERED.

Interest Six per cent. per annum, payable MAY 1st and NOVEMBER 1st.

Principal and interest payable in GOLD in the City of New York.

Price 90 and accrued interest in currency, at which price they pay nearly Seven per cent in gold on their cost.

SUPPLEMENT.

QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY, APRIL 30, 1870.

PREPARE FOR A "RAINY" DAY.

Every man who is obliged to work for a living should make it a point to lay up a little money for a "rainy day" which we are all liable to encounter when least expected. The best way to do this is to open an account with a savings bank. Accumulated money is always safe; it is always ready for use when needed. Scrape together five dollars, make your deposit, get your bank book, and then resolve to deposit a given sum, small though it be, once a month, once a fortnight, or once a week, according to circumstances. Nobody knows, without trying it, how easy a thing it is to save money when an account with a bank has been opened. Without a bank account a man feels no restraint upon his purchases. He buys this thing believing that he needs it; and he buys that thing, believing that he needs that. The fact is, he might as well do without both of these things, and would do without them if he had that incentive to save his money which results from having an account with the bank. With such an account a man feels a desire to enlarge his deposit. It gives him lessons of frugality and economy, weans him from habits of extravagance, and is the very best guard in the world against intemperance, dissipation and vice.

Welcome the Washing Day!

SOMETHING ENTIRELY NEW:
Washing reduced to a Science by using the

CHAMPION Wash Boiler!

Patented by C. W. HERMAN, Mar. 30, 1869.

A few among the many advantages this Boiler has over other devices for Washing are:

- 1st. It dissolves the dirt and cleanses the garments by forcing hot water through them.
- 2d. There is no wear while undergoing this process.
- 3d. It produces a better and more thorough agitation than any other device yet invented for washing.
- 4th. It washes the whole garments at once.
- 5th. It will do your washing easier, and less than one-half the time usually required.
- 6th. It saves money, for it saves soap, time and clothes.
- 7th. Six cents worth of soap is sufficient, with this Boiler to do a large washing.
- 8th. It takes less fuel, less muscle, and when done you are not half so tired, and consequently better natured, for your Washing is better done.

KEATING & SPEAR.

A young married couple in a Wisconsin town lately began housekeeping, and the first purchases of the head of the family at the village grocery were:—Five cents' worth of soda, five cents' worth of salt, two cents' worth of pepper, one cent's worth of chewing-gum and twelve cents' worth of soap. The bill amounted to twenty-five cents, which was paid by the young Benedict in specie, and as he left the store he remarked to the clerk that "keeping house is cheaper than boarding."

A wide awake minister, who found his congregation going to sleep one Sunday before he had fairly commenced, suddenly stopped and exclaimed, "Brethren, this isn't fair; it isn't giving a man half a chance. Wait till I get along apiece, and then if I ain't worth listening to, go to sleep; but don't go before I get commenced—give a man a chance."

OUR LOCAL DEBTS. The following summary of the sums that the towns and counties of Massachusetts owe is almost startling; and yet the grand total of them is but a trifle more than the State debt:—

Middlesex, 6,028,559 05	125,000 00

Every county in Massachusetts shows an increased valuation in 1869 over the previous year, with the exception of Dukes, which exhibits a loss of about twenty thousand dollars.

Nearly seven thousand dwellings were erected in the State of Massachusetts between May 1, 1868, and May 1, 1869, while the total increase in valuation of real and personal property during the same period was one hundred and twenty million; fifty-five millions of which were in Boston.

MASSACHUSETTS has paid the interest on her debt all through the war in coin, buying the gold, whatever the premium, and has never tendered a greenback to a holder of her bonds. She is the only State that has pursued this course.

USELESS WOMEN. The Working Women's Protective Association report that out of thirteen thousand applications for employment none were fitted for useful work.

Gipsies are becoming quite numerous in the United States—about 12,000 is the estimated number, which is to be largely increased under the auspices of a Romani emigration society which will offer a free passage to America to those who have not the means to pay for it.

TREASURE TROVE. A man died in Trenton, N. J., recently, who would not let his pantaloons be removed during his sickness, and he died with them on. They were searched after his death and over seventeen thousand dollars were found sewed up in the linings.

A well-known citizen of North Adams has been cured of a lameness of several years' standing by carrying a potato in each pocket. He suffered terribly the first night after trying the prescription, but his pains and aches all left him, and haven't returned during the subsequent six months.

The Old Colony and Newport Railway Company have taken the balance of the stock in the proposed extension of the South Shore road to Scituate and Marshfield, thereby rendering the construction of the road a certainty.

The degree of M. D. is now conferred upon the women in France, Scotland, Russia, Switzerland and Sweden.

Four young ladies were recently baptized in Rum river at Anoka, Minnesota, when the thermometer marked ten degrees below zero.

An Albanian has patented a new bread pan, which retains the steam around the bread while baking, rendering it much more nutritious and evenly baked. It said that bread baked in these pans is beautifully browned in every part, thoroughly done, and almost equal in sweetness to the best old-fashioned home-made bread.

CHAMPION
Wash Boiler!

Patented by C. W. HERMAN. Mar. 30, 1869.
A few among the many advantages this Boiler has over other devices for Washing are:
1st. It dissolves the dirt and cleanses the garments by forcing hot water through them.
2d. There is no wear while undergoing this process.
3d. It produces a better and more thorough agitation than any other device yet invented for washing.
4th. It washes the whole garments at once.
5th. It will do your washing easier, and less than one-half the time usually required.
6th. It saves money, for it saves soap, time and clothes.
7th. Six cents worth of soap is sufficient, with this Boiler to do a large washing.
8th. It takes less fuel, less muscle, and when done you are not half so tired, and consequently better natured, for your Washing is better done.

Frosting. Two cups of powdered sugar, the juice of half a lemon, one tablespoon of water, one teaspoon of starch from the hot water, add a few drops of the essence of lemon, stir until cold then put it smoothly on the cake.

'Tis said that there is a monument near Copenhagen, called the weeping a monument to be erected over a a symbol of his excessive grief.

THE INCOME TAX.
F. M. ADLINGTON.
Oh, how those poor unfortunates,
Lament, and grunt, and groan,
Who have to pay the income rates;
Och hone! Och hone! Och hone!
They think it is a dreadful thing,
And one they can't afford,
A necessary task to bring,
From out the miser's board.
I'd like to pay their tax, I'd see,
When the Collector came,
I think I'd be well pleased to see Ten thousand 'gainst my name.
The poor men gave their time and health,
With gen'rous hearts they stood,
To save from spoil the rich man's wealth,
And many gave their blood.
And now the wealthy niggard pines,
His worshipp'd dimes to save,
To 'scape taxation sneaking whines, E'en o'er the Martyr's grave.
Know you who loath that tax to pay,
Had not the poor man bled, Yourfoes had let you nought to day,
Your incomes all had fled.
The poor man well has done his part,
'Tis now the rich man's time,
To act—and he who lacks the heart,
His soul's not worth a dime.

Miscellany.
SCANDAL.
The substance of the following is no fiction. In a neighboring village, whose inhabitants, like the good people of Athens, were much given to "either tell or hear some new things," lives 'Squire P., a facetious, good sort of a body, whose jokes are even yet a matter of village record, and have been retold through various editions, from folio down to duodecimo.
Aunt Lizzy was Deacon Snip's wife's sister, a maiden lady of about fifty, she went to all the meetings, kept a regular account of every birth, death and marriage, with their dates, doctored all the babies, and knew every gossamer in the neighborhood, showed the young married women how to make soap, and when they had bad luck, made every child in the house sit cross legged until the bad luck changed. In fine, she was a kind of village factotum, spent her time in going from house to house, grinding out grists of slander to each, as occasion required, but always concluded with—"Poor Mrs.
A. or B. (as the case was), I pity her from the bottom of my heart," or some such soothing reflection. Aunt Lizzy was always very fond of asking strangers and others, without regard to time or place, the state of their minds; how they enjoyed their minds, &c. These questions were generally followed by a string of scandal which was calculated to destroy the peace and happiness of some of her best friends; but she, like other narrators of this kind, considered such intellectual murder as either establishing her own fair reputation, or as the mode of entertaining the village, and thereby rendering her society agreeable.
One warm summer afternoon, as the 'Squire was sitting near the door, smoking his pipe, Aunt Lizzy was passing by with great speed, ruminating on the news of the day, when the 'Squire brought her suddenly to, as the sailors say, by asking —"What's your hurry, Aunt Lizzy?"
The old lady, who never wanted a second invitation, went into the office, and the following dialogue soon commenced:
'Well, 'Squire P., I've been thinking this forenoon what a useful man you might be, if you'd only leave off your light conversation, as the good book says, and become a serious man. You might be an ornament to both church and state, as our minister says."
'Why, as to that, Aunt Lizzy, a cheerful countenance I consider the best index of a grateful heart, and you know what the Bible says on the subject—"When ye fast, be not like the hypocrites, of a sad countenance; but anoint thine head and wash thy face, [Aunt Lizzy began to feel for her pocket-handkerchief, for she was a taker of snuff] that you appear not unto men to fast."
'Now, there, 'Squire, that's just what I told you! See how you have the scriptural at your tongue's end. What a useful man you might be in our church, if you'd only be a doer as well as a hearer of the word.'
'As to that, Aunt Lizzy, I don't see that your professors, as you call them, are a whit better than I am, in private.
I respect a sincere profession as much as any man; but I know enough of one of your church-members of which you think a great deal, to know that she is no better than she should be!'
At these innuendoes Aunt Lizzy's little black eyes began to twinkle. She sat down beside the 'Squire, in order to speak in a lower tone spread her handkerchief over her lap, and began to tap the cover of her snuff-box in the true style; in all things being in readiness for a regular siege of "scandalous magna-tum," she commenced fire.
'Now, 'Squire, I want to know who you mean by one of our church. I know you mean—the trollop. I didn't like so many curls about her head when she told her experience.'
The 'Squire, finding that curiosity was "putting on its boots," had no occasion to add spurs to the heels, for the old lady had one in head that was worth two of them. Accordingly he had no peace until he consented to explain what he meant by the expression "private"—this was a dear word with Aunt Lizzy.
'Now, Aunt Lizzy, will you take a Bible oath, that you will never communicate, what I am about to tell you to a living being, and that you will keep it while you live as the most inviolable secret?"
'Yes, 'Squire, I declare I won't never tell nobody nothing about it as long as I breathe the breath of life; and I'll take a Bible oath of it; there, sartin as I live, before you or any other magistrate
in the whole country.'
'Well, then, you know when I went to Boston a year ago.'
'Yes, 'Squire, and I know who went
with you, too—Sussey B., and Dolly T.
and her sister Prudence.'
'Never mind who went with me, Aunt Lizzy. There were a whole lot of passengers; but—but—'
'None of your buts, 'Squire, out with
it; if folks will act so—a trollop!'
'But, Aunt Lizzy, I am afraid you'll
bring me into the scrape—'
'I've told you over and over again,
that nobody never shall know nothing about it, and your wife knows I ain't looly.'
'My wife! I wouldn't have her know what I was going to say for the world!
Why, Aunt Lizzy, if she should know
it—'
'Well, don't be afraid, 'Squire; once for all. I'll take my oath that no living critter shan't never as long as I live,
know a lip out.'
'Well, then, if you must know it, I slept with one of the likeliest of your church-members nearly half of the way up!'
Aunt Lizzy drew in a long breath—shut up her snuff-box and put it into her pocket, muttering to herself—
'The likeliest of our church-members!
I thought it was Susan B.! Likeliest!
This comes of being flattered—a trollop.
Well, one thing I know, the way of transgressors is hard, but I hope you'll never tell nobody out, 'Squire, for sartin
as the world, if such a thing should be known, our church would be scattered abroad like sheep without a shepherd.'
In a few moments Aunt Lizzy took her departure, giving the 'Squire another caution and a sly wink, as she said goodbye, as much as to say—"Let me alone for a secret."
It was not many days before 'Squire P.
received a very polite note from Parson
G., requesting him to attend a meeting
of the church, at the south conference room,
in order to settle some difficulties with one of the members, who in order to clear up her character, requested 'Squire P. to be present.
The parson, who was a very worthy man, knew the frailty of some of the weak sisters, as Aunt Lizzy called them,
and as he was a particular friend of
'Squire P.'s requested him to say nothing to his wife; but the 'Squire took the hint, and telling his wife that there was a meeting, requested her
to be ready by two o'clock, and he would call for her.
Accordingly the hour of meeting came,
and the whole village flocked to the room.
All eyes were alternately on the 'Squire and Sussey B. Mrs. P. was startled, and Sussey looked as though she had been crying a fortnight. The parson, with softened tone, and in as delicate a manner as possible, stated the story about Susan B., which he observed was in everybody's mouth, and which he did not himself believe a word of, and 'Squire P., being called on stood as witness, after painting in lively colors the evils of slander with which their village had become infested,
and particularly the church, called on Aunt Lizzy in the presence of the whole meeting, and before the church, to come out and make acknowledgments for violating a Bible oath! Aunt Lizzy said that she only told Deacon S.'s wife on't, and she took an oath that she would never tell nobody else on't. Deacon S.'s wife had, it appears, sworn Rogers and his sister never to tell nobody of the matter, but it went through the whole church,
and thence through the whole village.
The 'Squire then acknowledged before
the whole meeting, that he had, as he told Aunt Lizzy, slept with a church-member half the way up to Boston, and that he believed her to be the likeliest of their members, inasmuch as she never would hear or retail slander. All eyes were now alternately on Sussey B., and 'Squire
P.'s wife. Aunt Lizzy enjoyed a diabolical triumph, which the 'Squire no sooner perceived than he finished the sentence by declaring that the member to whom he alluded, was his own lawful wife.
Aunt Lizzy drew in her head under a huge bonnet, as a turtle does under his shell, and marched away into one corner of the room, like a dog that had been killing sheep. The 'Squire, as usual, burst into a fit of laughter, in which his wife, Susan B., and even the parson could not refrain joining, and parson G. afterward acknowledged that 'Squire P. had given a blow to scandal in the village which all his preaching could not have done.

From Our Rochester Correspondent.
APRIL 19, 1870.
The last meeting of the Common Council of Rochester, was one of great interest to numerous office seekers.
Aspirants for the different positions in the city government, met in full force in the council chamber, confident of their ability and honesty of purpose to serve faithfully and ably the duties of the offices they were seeking. The caucus of the different factions had been held and the slates prepared, and as the majority of the board is republican, those lucky enough to be on that slate were, of course, as good as elected. There were a good many disappointed ones, after the ballot was taken. Some who had labored hard and craftily in getting influence to bear on the different members of the board, and who were sure in having so many pledged, and in their pipe being so nicely laid, of election were astonished at their defeat, and were inclined to growl at the faithfulness of politicians, and considered themselves terribly abused. They forgot in their denunciation of the successful ones and
of the pledged members of the board, that they all had been playing at the same game, and that there were others as keen as themselves, and the result of their defeat was that others had more knowledge of the ways political, or a greater amount of shrewdness in seeing,
and taking advantage of the weak points in the members of the board, or in being the better able to return the favor conferred. What some consider as the weak points in political life are, double dealing,
trickery, and a general inclination to aid oneself. Now were these the evils, political life would be stripped of all the usual methods of gaining an election, and politicians would be scarce.
These are the characteristics which make the successful politician. The greater the ability to throw political summersaults the better the politician.
The grand victory of W. M. Tweed, the great Tammany sacker, over the young democracy, was the result of his ability in this species of grand and lofty tumbling. His creed led him so far as to swallow a dose of republicanism rather than surrender what he considered as his right to rule the city of New York.
But we will turn from this view of the political question to another of a different color:
THE CELEBRATION OF THE ADOPTION OF THE FIFTEENTH AMENDMENT
by the colored citizens of Rochester.
They had a large meeting in the City Hall on the evening of the 7th. There were many speakers both "colored and plain." The long lost brother had by arduous labor committed a speech to memory and when called upon, as pre-arranged, arose with manly bearing and freed his mind. One spoke for two consecutive minutes and then wound up his remarks with an apology for trespassing on their valuable time, and resuming his seat between a couple of dusky damsels, received the share of applause allotted him, while one of the maids wiped the sweat from his noble brow and the other fanned him lovingly. The meeting broke up in a grand religio-political revival; cries of "Amen," "glory," &c., breaking in upon the voice of the speaker. However, notwithstanding some ludicrous scenes, the meeting was very successful.
There was an immense amount of enthusiasm, and the first public assemblage of a people once slaves but now free, with no other model than what corrupt politicians have set them, is remarkable. Remarkable in that, instead of demanding a ballot and a voice in the immediate concerns of the State, they met for congrat-ulation, sympathy and mutual advice. In their speeches they all expressed the idea and wish that they might become worthy of the respect and faith reposed in them by their white brother. There was none of the arrogance, none of the noisy contentions spirit manifested, such as is so characteristic of the foreigner.
The question of caste will still cling to and affect them. But notwithstanding their color, who so distinctly marks them, they are sure of rising more fully and completely, than the equally marked Jew, although they may not be more quiet in their public life. Caste has less now to do with the Negro than it has with the Irish. If caste has any seal the Irishman, priest-ridden, is at the lowest degree in that scale. It would be extremely well for the Irishman, before condemning either the Negro or the Chinaman, to look deep and intelligently into this question of caste.

while you live as the most inviolable
secret?"
'Yes, 'Squire, I declare I won't never tell nobody nothing about it as long as I breathe the breath of life; and I'll take
a Bible oath of it; there, sartin as I live, before you or any other magistrate
in the whole country.'
'Well, then, you know when I went
to Boston a year ago.'
'Yes, 'Squire, and I know who went
with you, too—Sussey B., and Dolly T.
and her sister Prudence.'
'Never mind who went with me, Aunt Lizzy. There were a whole lot of passengers; but—but—'
'None of your buts, 'Squire, out with
it; if folks will act so—a trollop!'
'But, Aunt Lizzy, I am afraid you'll
bring me into the scrape—'
'I've told you over and over again,
that nobody never shall know nothing about it, and your wife knows I ain't
looly.'
'My wife! I wouldn't have her know what I was going to say for the world!
Why, Aunt Lizzy, if she should know
it—'
'Well, don't be afraid, 'Squire; once
for all. I'll take my oath that no living critter shan't never as long as I live,
know a lip out.'
'Well, then, if you must know it, I slept with one of the likeliest of your church-members nearly half of the way
up!'
Aunt Lizzy drew in a long breath—
shut up her snuff-box and put it into her pocket, muttering to herself—
'The likeliest of our church-members!
I thought it was Susan B.! Likeliest!
This comes of being flattered—a trollop.
Well, one thing I know, the way of transgressors is hard, but I hope you'll
never tell nobody out, 'Squire, for sartin
as the world, if such a thing should be known, our church would be scattered
abroad like sheep without a shepherd.'

In a few moments Aunt Lizzy took her
departure, giving the 'Squire another caution and a sly wink, as she said goodbye, as much as to say—"Let me alone
for a secret."
It was not many days before 'Squire P.
received a very polite note from Parson
G., requesting him to attend a meeting
of the church, at the south conference room,
in order to settle some difficulties with
one of the members, who in order to clear up her character, requested 'Squire P. to be present.
The parson, who was a very worthy
man, knew the frailty of some of the weak sisters, as Aunt Lizzy called them,
and as he was a particular friend of
'Squire P.'s requested him to say nothing to his wife; but the 'Squire
took the hint, and telling his wife
that there was a meeting, requested her
to be ready by two o'clock, and he would call for her.
Accordingly the hour of meeting came,
and the whole village flocked to the room.
All eyes were alternately on the 'Squire
and Sussey B. Mrs. P. was startled, and Sussey looked as though she had been crying a fortnight. The parson, with softened tone, and in as delicate a manner
as possible, stated the story about Susan
B., which he observed was in everybody's
mouth, and which he did not himself believe a word of, and 'Squire P., being called on stood as witness, after painting
in lively colors the evils of slander with
which their village had become infested,
and particularly the church, called on Aunt Lizzy in the presence of the whole
meeting, and before the church, to come out and make acknowledgments for violating a Bible oath! Aunt Lizzy said that she only told Deacon S.'s wife on't,
and she took an oath that she would never tell nobody else on't. Deacon S.'s wife had, it appears, sworn Rogers and his sister never to tell nobody of the matter,
but it went through the whole church,
and thence through the whole village.

The 'Squire then acknowledged before
the whole meeting, that he had, as he told Aunt Lizzy, slept with a church-member half the way up to Boston, and that he believed her to be the likeliest of their members, inasmuch as she never would hear or retail slander. All eyes were now alternately on Sussey B., and 'Squire
P.'s wife. Aunt Lizzy enjoyed a diabolical triumph, which the 'Squire no sooner perceived than he finished the
sentence by declaring that the member
to whom he alluded, was his own lawful
wife.
Aunt Lizzy drew in her head under a huge bonnet, as a turtle does under his

shell, and marched away into one corner
of the room, like a dog that had been killing sheep. The 'Squire, as usual, burst into a fit of laughter, in which his wife, Susan B., and even the parson could not refrain joining, and parson G. afterward acknowledged that 'Squire P. had given a blow to scandal in the village which all his preaching could not have done.

From Our Rochester Correspondent.
APRIL 19, 1870.
The last meeting of the Common Council of Rochester, was one of great interest to numerous office seekers.
Aspirants for the different positions in the
city government, met in full force in the council chamber, confident of their ability
and honesty of purpose to serve faithfully and ably the duties of the offices
they were seeking. The caucus of the different factions had been held and the slates prepared, and as the majority of
the board is republican, those lucky enough to be on that slate were, of course, as good as elected. There were
a good many disappointed ones, after the ballot was taken. Some who had labored hard and craftily in getting influence to bear on the different members
of the board, and who were sure in having so many pledged, and in their pipe
being so nicely laid, of election were astonished at their defeat, and were inclined to growl at the faithfulness of
politicians, and considered themselves
terribly abused. They forgot in their denunciation of the successful ones and
of the pledged members of the board,
that they all had been playing at the
same game, and that there were others as keen as themselves, and the result of their defeat was that others had more
knowledge of the ways political, or a greater amount of shrewdness in seeing,
and taking advantage of the weak points
in the members of the board, or in being
the better able to return the favor conferred. What some consider as the weak points in political life are, double dealing,
trickery, and a general inclination to aid
oneself. Now were these the evils, political life would be stripped of all the usual methods of gaining an election, and
politicians would be scarce.
These are the characteristics which make the successful politician. The greater the ability to throw political
summersaults the better the politician.
The grand victory of W. M. Tweed, the great Tammany sacker, over the young democracy, was the result of his ability
in this species of grand and lofty tumbling. His creed led him so far as to swallow a dose of republicanism rather
than surrender what he considered as
his right to rule the city of New York.
But we will turn from this view of the political question to another of a different color:
THE CELEBRATION OF THE ADOPTION OF THE FIFTEENTH AMENDMENT
by the colored citizens of Rochester.
They had a large meeting in the City Hall on the evening of the 7th. There were many speakers both "colored and plain." The long lost brother had by arduous labor committed a speech to
memory and when called upon, as pre-
arranged, arose with manly bearing and freed his mind. One spoke for two consecutive minutes and then wound up his remarks with an apology

THE SPRING RAIN
has begun and the grass feeling its potency has turned its color to a bright green and is pushing its way up into the air to meet the warm sun light. The buds are coming forth and soon the trees will be covered with their blossoms. When the spring has become fairly established, we will make a visit to the nurseries of Rochester, some of which are the largest and most complete in the world, and see all the lovely sights there to be seen. Till then—

SATURDAY, MAY 7, 1870.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

REAL ESTATE SALES, &c.

George H. Locke, Esq., has sold the house and land owned and occupied by him for many years at West Quincy; also, the store adjoining the same, and the goods therein, to Messrs. Frank Lane and Harry Farnam, for about $6,000. Also, another house nearly opposite, to Mrs. Dallas, for $900.

We learn that Mr. John Briesler has sold the estate on Washington street, occupied for several years by Messrs. Pollock and Venzie, to his grandson, Mr. John W. Nash, for about $3,000.

S. S. Jackson, Esq., will sell at auction on Tuesday next, eight beautiful house lots on Atlantic and Billings streets, North Quincy. For full particulars see notice in another column.

Mr. Charles Newcomb offers for sale quite a number of good house lots near his residence, as will be seen by a notice in to-day's paper.

FIRES. The machine shop occupied by Mr. Chesley in the west part of the town, and owned by the Granite Railway Company, was partly destroyed by fire on Sunday last. The shop caught from an old shed near by, which is supposed to have been set on fire. Within a few rods of the shop was a powder house, containing a large quantity of powder,—sixty-three kegs having been stored there but a day or two previous. Fortunately it was not ignited.

The alarm on Sunday evening was caused by the discovery of a fire in the barn of Mr. Dennis Ford, in "Dublin," which was soon extinguished with a few buckets of water.

The alarms of fire during the last ten days have been quite numerous, but we are happy to say that but little property has been destroyed. The fires have been mostly in the woods.

APPOINTMENTS. George H. Locke, Esq., has been appointed by the Selectmen Collector of Taxes for the ensuing year. Rate four mills on a dollar. Mr. Locke is one of the best and most efficient collectors the town ever had, and it is to the credit of the Selectmen that so judicious appointment has been made at so reasonable a rate.

The Selectmen have also appointed Messrs. Ebenezer Adams, Henry H. Faxon, Jos. W. Lombard and Jos. T. French as Auctioneers. Also, Dr. J. H. Gilbert, Physician at the Almshouse.

A FINE THING. The closing entertainment by the Quincy Coterie, on Monday last, was the best dramatic performance we believe, ever given in this place. It was peculiarly gratifying to see the skill, energy and good judgment displayed by the prominent actors on this occasion. Seldom have we enjoyed an evening more, even when in front of the costly stages in large cities.

SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION. The Murray Sunday School Union will hold its regular monthly meeting on Sunday evening next, at the Universalist Church, singing by the school; Address by Revs. Mr. Baker, Perry and the Pastor. All interested in the subject of discussion are invited to be present. Subject: "The relation of the Sunday School to the Church."

BRIEF LOCALS. The beautiful estate of the late Dr. Woodward, which has been undergoing considerable repairs, is advertised to let in to-day's paper.

The weather for the past fortnight has been delightful—bringing forward very rapidly. Some of the peach, cherry and pear trees are now covered with blossoms.

Mr. Elijah Corliss was very badly injured at the fire on Sunday last. He fell from a ladder, dislocating his ankle and forcing the bone into the foot.

We have been obliged to omit many articles and communications that were prepared for this paper, owing to a rush of advertising.

Our Rochester Correspondent will please excuse us for the delay in publishing his article, as a rush of matter has prevented us from doing as we would wish.

The steamer Massasoit will commence her regular Summer trips between Boston and the Point on the 1st of June.

THE ADVANCE OF THE SEASON.

We our furnished readers a table of the dates when the cherry trees (May duke) began to blossom, in successive years. We now furnish the following data for comparing the forwardness of each Spring as indicated by the full blossoming of the apple trees. The dates refer to the day on which the blossoms had fully expanded on the different varieties, excepting some of the latest kinds. The place of record (from 1798 to 1856) at Mansfield, and (from 1847 to 1869) at Dorchester. It will be noticed that the record at Dorchester fixes the time a day or two earlier than at Mansfield. The extreme dates, May 9th and June 5th, a difference of 25 days; the mean, May 21st or 22d:

For the Patriot.

The charge against Mrs. S. G. Nichols of Melrose, fell to the ground, as everybody here, who knew her, supposed it would. It was simply impossible, as we all felt, that a soul so strong and pure, could have descended to a crime so base. At the trial in Cambridge her counsel found it unnecessary to call a single witness in her defence; the utmost endeavors of her malicious accusers, wholly failing to fasten upon her the least suspicion of guilt. The whole trial, in fact, was little better than a farce: the counsel for the accused made no plea—the Judge gave his decision without hesitation,—and the disappointed and defeated conspirators were left to meditate upon, and it is hoped, to repent of their wickedness and folly.

A BRAVE ACTION AND NARROW ESCAPE. As the 9 o'clock train from Fall River was passing through South Dighton on Saturday morning, a little child, three years old, was seen by the engineer sitting on the track. The whistle was blown, exciting the attention of the neighbors, when Mrs. John Burns rushed to the track and rescued the child, but was herself knocked down by the engine. Fortunately her injuries were but slight.

The Weymouth and Braintree Mutual Fire Insurance Company had $1,863,591 at risk April 1, 1870, and has assets amounting to $26,670.52.

Passengers arrived in New York Thursday morning, six days and twenty-three hours from San Francisco, the quickest trip yet.

Wilton's 121 Washington street, Boston, is at the present time one of the most attractive places in town for nobby styles of clothing, particularly adapted to young men. All goods furnished at this place are warranted, and are afforded at prices from 10 to 15 per cent less than at other similar establishments. In fact, the stock is one of the finest of its kind, and is especially worthy the attention of gentlemen about to replenish their wardrobes.

For the Patriot.

BOSTON, HARTFORD AND ERIE.

The detailed statement of the experts employed by the Council committee in the matter of examination of the books and accounts of the Boston, Hartford and Erie Railroad Corporation gives the receipts and disbursements of the company from July 1, 1868, to November 30, 1869 inclusive. The payments are made to equal the receipts and no money is represented on hand Nov. 30, 1869. There are, however, apparent errors in the statement which indicate that the books and accounts of the company are not fully reliable, or else that the experts employed are not expert in accounts. All the money received by the company is not down, and some of the payments are incorrectly stated. 68,549 share of stock on hand, purchased at sundry dates at various prices, are put down as having cost an average of $22 per share, ($1,508,078). The stock actually cost, as per memorandum of the experts, $1,133,557.18. One bond purchased and on hand is set down as having cost $1,000, which cost only $614 10-100. Correct these two items and it would appear that $374,906.72 was in the treasury of the company Nov. 30, 1869, the time the account was made up—a sum sufficient to complete the road to Williamette.

There are other items which need explanation: The payment of rent for the Duchess and Columbia Railroad, ($184,934.08). What had become of the earnings of this road that it was found necessary to hire money at ruinous rates with which to pay the rent. Payments to others roads are mentioned, but no receipts appear.

From the statement it would appear that nearly one-half of the thirteen millions of dollars which the company had received and disbursed within seventeen months, had been spent with such a lack of judgment or of conscience, that the corporation received little, if any, value therefor.

THE GENERAL COURT.

A resolve to purchase 1,200 copies of Mr. Samuel's book on the Birds of New England, and to supply one copy to each of the members of the Legislature, was last week ordered to a third reading in the House, by a vote of 63 to 50. The amendments that each member who desired should receive $3.33 instead, and the speaker twice that sum, were not adopted.

The members will find ornithology a most interesting study. AUDUBON devotes a chapter to the habits of a species which he found on the banks of the Ohio, and which he denominated the Republican Swallow. Useful lessons may be learned from other birds also. At certain seasons, from a defect of food or other causes, some migrate in large companies; some follow a chosen leader during the day or make a continual noise in the night. In this manner they do not divide; they are shy and watchful. At some seasons their tuneful throats are expressive of strong endearments. Their music ceases usually in June; but they resume their song in autumn. Many whose voices are harsh or weak, acquire a marvellous power of imitation of other birds, study certain passages, and become agreeable general performers.

We recollect that one author compares the flamingo sitting at its nest to a man on a desk-stool with his legs hanging down. Politicians should practice salutary caution in guarding against false alarms. During the French revolutionary war when the English were expected to make a descent upon St. Domingo, a negro having perceived at the distance of some miles in the direction of the sea a long line of flamingoes ranked up and preening their wings, forthwith magnified them into an army of English soldiers,—their long necks were mistaken for shouldered muskets, and their scarlet plumage had suggested the idea of a military costume. The poor fellow accordingly started off to Gonaves, running through the streets and vociferating that the English were come. Upon this alarm the commandant of the garrison instantly sounded the tocsin, doubled the guards, and sent out a body of men to reconnoitre the invaders; but he soon found by means of his glass, that it was only a troop of red flamingoes, and the corps of observation marched back to the garrison, rejoicing at their bloodless expedition.

Who that has seen a dangerous disease arrested by an able physician or a good medicine but values both? Be it your family physician to whom you owe so many escapes from aches and ails, or Dr. Ayer's inimitable remedies—his Rhu-parilla that renewed your vitality or Cherry Pectoral that cured a painful cough, or his Ague Cure that expelled the freezing ague and burning fever from your blood. Who that has been relieved by any of these agencies but feels grateful for them all?—Bangor Times.

BOSTON, HARTFORD AND ERIE R. R.

The friends of the Boston, Hartford and Erie road claim that its great value to Boston is as a south-western line connecting with the Pennsylvania Central road, by which the business of Cincinnati may be brought to Boston, and thus the interests of commerce in that city may be promoted. The claim that by this line produce could be brought from Cincinnati to Boston for export is so entirely novel that it is doubtful if it be at all understood.

This newly suggested connection requires a long piece of new road to be built through the mountains south of Fishkill to connect that point with the roads connecting with the Pennsylvania Central. Should this new road be built, the distance from Cincinnati by the old and new route would compare as follows:

By the proposed new route, from Cincinnati via Columbus, Pittsburgh, and Albany to Boston.	656 miles.
From Cincinnati via Cleveland to Buffalo, and thence to Albany. <td>431</td>	431
Albany to Boston. <td>224</td>	224
Total. <td>655</td>	655

Extra distance over the mountains, 10 miles.

Produce coming from Cincinnati or any part of the West over this road has to pass through Harrisburgh on its way to Fishkill. At Harrisburgh it is within 85 miles of Baltimore, the popular shipping port for Cincinnati produce, and 106 miles of Philadelphia, while it is 416 miles from Boston. This difference of 331 miles in favor of Baltimore, and 310 miles in favor of Philadelphia, at two cents per ton per mile, which is less than the average cost of freighting to the Massachusetts railroads, amounts to as much as the average of Ocean freights to Liverpool. Produce could therefore be generally taken from Harrisburgh via Baltimore or Philadelphia to Liverpool as cheaply as to Boston. In passing Eastern the produce would be only 75 miles from New York, while it would be 219 miles from Boston, a difference of two hundred and forty-four miles, which at two cents a ton per mile would make $4.80 a ton against Boston.

Spending millions of the public money to prepare to bring produce from Cincinnati to Boston over such a route, is worse than foolishness, its absurdity is beyond comment.

DEATH OF AN ESTEEMED CITIZEN. Mr. Ebenezer Jewett died at his home near North Pond, on Sunday last, at the age of seventy-seven years. His health had been failing gradually for several years, but the more immediate cause of his death was being injured by a fall some two weeks since. He was a farmer by occupation, and although a man of moderate pretensions, but few men from our rural districts would be missed more than he will. Mr. Jewett was an exemplary and Christian man, ever alive to principles of right and reform, and while we mourn his ever-welcome company, we can truly say that a good man has passed away as the golden corn fully ripe for the harvest.—The Worcester Palladium, April 20th.

Mr. Jewett was a resident of this town some twenty years ago, and is well remembered by many of our citizens. Few attain so ripe an age, leaving a record behind him as the departed. He was father of Mrs. Edward A. Spear and Mrs. Warren Carleton.

REDUCTION OF THE PUBLIC DEBT. The reduction of the public debt for April is $11,697,793. The coin balance is $115,525,000, including $33,840,000 in coin certificates, and the currency balance is $6,954,000.

Special Notices.

THIRTY YEARS

Have elapsed since the introduction of the Pain Killer to the public, and yet at the present time it is more popular and commands a larger sale than ever before. Its popularity is not confined to this country alone; all over the world its beneficial effects in curing the "Pain Killer" is being acknowledged and appreciated, and as a PAIN KILLER its name is known to no country, nor its name is known to be known to be known.

THIRTY YEARS is certainly a long enough time to prove the efficacy of any medicine, and that the PAIN KILLER is deserving of all its popular claim for it, is amply proved by the unparallelled popularity of the "Pain Killer" in every part of the world. It is a sure and EFFECTIVE REMEDY. Sold by all Druggists. Price 25 cts., 50 cts., and $1 per bottle. Directions accompany each bottle. May 7

THE CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD.

Is completed and running from RICHMOND, Va. to the celebrated WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, in West Va., 227 miles. It is being rapidly extended to the Ohio River, 200 miles further, making in all 427 miles.

In its progress Westward, penetrates and opens up to market the Wonderful Coal Deposits of the Kanawha Region in West Virginia. And thus brings the superior and abundant Coal of that section into communication with the Iron Ores of Virginia and Ohio, and the Western, South Western and Eastern markets.

When completed it will connect the superior harbor facilities of the Chesapeake Bay with reliable navigation on the Ohio River, and thus with the entire system of Railroad and Water transportation of the great West and South-West.

It will make a short, easy, cheap and profitable route from the West to the sea, and will command a large share of the enormous freight seeking transportation to the coast.

It will thus become one of the most important and profitable East and West Trunk Lines of Railroad in the country, and command a trade of immense value.

The completed portion of the Road is doing a profitable and increasing business, and is fully equal in value to the whole amount of the mortgage upon the entire Line—($15,000,000.)

The loan of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, being a First Mortgage upon the entire Line, property and equipments, worth when completed at least $30,000,000, is therefore one of the most substantial, conservative, and reliable Railroad Loans ever offered in the market, and is peculiarly adapted to the wants of

Investors and Capitalists,

Who desire to make their investments with the most satisfactory assurance of positive and undoubted Security.

CANDY GAMBLING.

A SMALL SWINDLE. Among the ingenious frauds now in practice, that of "Candy Gambling" is one of the most reprehensible. Each package purports to contain in addition to candy a prize of some value to the price of the whole, and the sale is calculated to increase an interest in games of chance.

The intention is to draw the attention of the purchaser. More than that, though it is sometimes claimed that the candy in the parcels is made and put up by Southmayd & Co., it is of an inferior character, and unlike the pure article made by that firm. None of their Superior Candy is ever sold by Southmayd & Co., in this manner, and they discountenance this adulterated candy-gambling scheme by refusing to do so.

Agents for parties engaged in selling them. Southmayd's Candy, which, like all other candies from their establishment, is pure and unadulterated, can be obtained at their store on Tremont street, and at all first class confectionery stores.

DOES BABY WALK IN HEAVEN-TO-DAY?

BY EARL MARBLE.

[Stella Robt. Marble, born April 5, 1869; died August 5, 1869.]

A year ago the baby came,
When robins chirped their first spring lays,
Kindling anew the spiritual flame
That guides our feet through earth's dim ways.

A year ago her baby smile
Made fairer seem the days of spring,
And in our happy hearts the while Came new-born melody to ring.

A few short weeks our home she cheered
With all her winsome baby ways,
And to her we were so endeared,
The foot-winged weeks seemed gliding days.

But ere the robins went, that sang
First on that April morn so bright,
Our heart-strings severed with a pang,
And loosed the babe to realms of light.

Another April now has come;
But of the babe a year ago
We only have a record dumb,
And memories that haunt us so.

Al! were she with us this spring day,
As robins chirp their lays once more,
The babe that then so helplessly lay,
Her feet would patter round the door;

And daily now the question steals Upon us in our lonely way,
"Does baby walk in heaven to-day?"
And do the feet grow weary yet?

Instead of little tiny feet
Soft pattering around the door,
Do angels have their noiseless beat,
And all those who have "gone before?"

Does baby walk in heaven to-day?
Ah, yes! above the fog of earth,
And freed from earthly things of clay,
By this her second glorious birth.

How rapidly her feet shall climb
The upward path of progress aye,
Where we, when down the fog of earth,
Shall walk with her that glorious day!

Quincy, Mass., April, 1870.

Farmers' Department.

SECOND PLOUGHING.

The final preparation of the land should be delayed until the soil is so warm that there can be no chill to the grain, and then the planting ought to follow as early as possible.

Most people attach no importance to the directions of the rows in a corn-field, but if they will only set common sense to work, it will tell them pretty plainly that corn in all the first stages of growth, until the ears have set and begin to glaze, requires the light and warmth of the sun as early in the morning and as late in the evening, as it can possibly get it. In the middle of the day, the sun shines down to the ground readily enough, whatever the direction of the rows. But for the early morning, and late evening sunlight, plant corn east and west.

Every thing else being equal, the acre of corn thus planted in the same field, with another acre planted the reverse, will, it is believed yield five bushels the most grain, and an equal excess of fodder.

SOAKING SEED-CORN IN SOOT-TEA.
A correspondent informs us that a friend of his carefully saved the soot that gathered in the funnel of his cook-stove to be used in making a soot-tea, wherein to soak seed-corn; and further affirms that the kernel sprouts sooner and the plant is more vigorous in consequence. He allows it to remain in the solution two days, and prepares it for dropping by rolling in plaster.

We have had no experience in this matter, but would suggest that the soot-tea be made rather weak, least, instead of the kernel sprouting sooner, it chances to not sprout at all.

There is no question, however, but that soot contains ingredients that plants readily appropriate, and the only care needed in its use is that it does not kill what under favorable circumstances it would invigorate.—Hearth and Home.

Anecdotes.

A little boy, five years old, while writing under the tortures of the age, was told by his mother to rise up and take a powder she had prepared for him.

"Powder! powder!" said he, raising himself on his elbow, and putting on a roguish smile. "Mother, I ain't a gun!"

"Pa, has the world got a tail?" asked an urchin of his father.

"No, child," replied the old man impatiently, "how could it have one when it is round?"

"Well," persisted the boy, "why do the papers say 'so wags the world,' if it ain't got no tail to wag?"

"Your ma wants you," replied the non-plussed father.

"Mother, don't you wish you had the tree of evil in your garden?"

"Why Josh, you sargent what do you mean?"

"As money's the root of all evil, if we had the tree, couldn't we get the precious stuff?"

"Teddy, my boy, just guess how many chesnuts there are in this 'ere bag, and faith I'll give you the whole five."

"Five, to be sure."

"Arrah, by my soul! bad luck to the man that would say."

SUPPLEMENT.

QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY, MAY 7, 1870.

THE DEPTH ON TREES.

There has recently sprung up some controversy as to the proper depth that trees should be transplanted, and as usual in controversies of this kind among practical men, there is not the least hope of their ever coming to a common opinion on the question. And this is natural and perhaps as it should be. Different kinds of trees frequently require different modes of culture, beginning with the planting. For instance, dwarf pears should be planted deep, two or three inches below the union of the quince with the pear, in all soils where a dwarf pear ought to be. A fir or spruce should be planted shallow, and so, as a rule, should standard pear as well as apple trees. This exception should however be made: in light, porous soil they may be gauged deeper than in clay moulds. Thus the heavier the soils the shallower should the trees be planted. Such is our experience.—Ex.

Never call a man a lost man until he is buried in a hopeless grave. No man is lost upon whom any influence can be exerted, no man is lost to whom the offer of the gospel may be brought. It is but a few weeks since I sat by the side of one of the purest and loveliest of females, who was once degraded, but who is now at the head of a family, highly respected and beloved. We are never to be discouraged. There is no man or woman so vile, but God may bring them washed and saved to his kingdom.—Dr. Tyng.

The ruling passion was recently exhibited in a remarkable manner on the occasion of a funeral. An old lady had lost her husband, and on the day of the funeral her neighbors were somewhat tardy in appearing at the solemnities. "Nabby," said she, "hand me my knitting; I might as well be taking a few stitches while the gathering is taking place."

Early Rose Potatoes.

THE Subscriber offers for sale 100 bushels of Early Rose, Vandaveer's and Breed's Prolific Potatoes by the barrel, bushel or peck. Also Grape Vines of all varieties, especial attention is called to the new varieties, Walter and Emeline. Currant Bushes, Raspberry and Strawberry Vines, and Asparagus Roots. WM. G. PRESCOTT, Quincy, April 2.

Also a lot of New Grass Seed, Consisting of Northern Herd Grass, Red Top and Clover. — ALSO — 300 CHESTNUT POSTS. For sale low for Cash. GEORGE L. BAXTER & CO. Quincy, April 2.

DON'T DRIVE BOYS FROM HOME.

Mothers who are disturbed by the noise and untidiness of boys at home, must be careful lest by their reproaches, they drive their children from home, in search of pleasure elsewhere.

"There are those balusters all finger marks again," said Mrs. Cary, as she made haste with a soft linen cloth to polish down the shining oak again. "George," she said with a flushed face, as she gave the cloth a decided wrench out of the basins of suds, "if you go up those stairs again before bedtime you shall be punished!"

"I should like to know where I am to go?" said George angrily. "I can't step in the kitchen, I am so in the way; and I can't go in the parlor for fear I shall muss that; you say I can't go up to my own room. I know a grand place where I can go," he added to himself; "boys are never told they are in the way there, and we have lots of fun. I'll go down to Nile's corner. I can smoke a cigar now as well as any boy, if it did make me awful sick the first time. They shall not laugh at me again about it."

And so the careful housekeeper virtually drove her son from her door, to hang about the steps and sit under the broad, inviting portico of the village grog shop. — Portland Transcript.

PRIME

Quincy, July 10.

ROBERT EMMETT. No Irishman can pronounce this name without love and admiration. He was one of those patriot martyrs whose memory will live forever in the affections of his countrymen—and to whom, the scaffold consecrated by his blood, will remain a prouder trophy than the loftiest monument that rears its head in Westminster Abbey.

Previous to his execution, it is said that he requested his epitaph should not be written until the wrongs of his country were redressed—until she stood "redeemed, regenerated, and disenthralled by the irresistible genius of universal emancipation."

It is to this mournful request that Moore alludes in the following beautiful and pathetic lines:

"Oh! breathe not his name—let it sleep in the shade

Where cold and unhonored his relics are laid;
Sad, silent and dark, be the tears that we shed,
As the night dew that falls on the grass o'er his head.

But the night dew that falls, tho' in silence it weeps, Shall brighten with verdure the grave where it sleeps;
And the tear that we shed, tho' in silence it rolls Shall long keep his memory green in our souls."

NEW POSTAGE STAMPS. The new postage stamps are already issued. The gum is guaranteed to stick. The following is a description of them:—One cent, Franklin's bust—color, imperial marine blue; two cents, Jackson's bust—color, velvet brown; three cents, Washington's bust—color, Milan green; six cents, Lincoln's bust—color, cochineal red; ten cents, Jefferson's bust—color, chocolate; twelve cents, Clay's bust—color, neutral purple; fifteen cents, Webster's bust—color, orange; twenty-four cents, Scott's bust—color, purple; thirty-three cents, Hamilton's bust—color, black; ninety cents, Commodore O. H. Perry's bust—color, carmine.

The Phrenological Journal and Packard's Monthly for May, is on our table. The Christian Union says of it:—"Any body who refuses to examine the Phrenological Journal from a notion of its being scientifically heretic, is inflicting no small privation on himself. The Phrenological element aside, there is no American publication more strongly characterized by shrewd, incisive, workaday common-sense. Its hints for living, alone, and the care of health, could not well fail in the first instance to abate the Doctor's ill to its minimum, and ultimately to promote the longevity of the observant reader, and this at the cost of a small outlay which the present pleasure of perusal more than repays."

A BOY PREACHER. At a Methodist church in Brooklyn, N. Y., Joseph Szwalb, a boy 18 years of age, preached a sermon which is highly spoken of by those who heard it. The young preacher is being educated at Wilbraham, (Mass.) Academy, at the expense of the Brooklyn congregation.

Tourists will find the Optimum Eye Glass made by E. J. Josslyn, Boston, an excellent article for weak or near sighted eyes. It is light but strong and so adjusted as to rest firmly yet easily, and made so as to avoid the inequity produced by common glasses.

THE FORM HER GRIEF TOOK. The Journal mentions the case of a widow who had followed successively three husbands to the grave, who entered a well-known jewelry establishment in Boston, recently, and producing the three silver plates which had erst adorned the coffins of the dear departed, desired the astonished proprietor to have them "made over into a butter-knife."

A Michigan woman has recovered by law all the money spent by her husband for liquor in a saloon during the last six years, ardent spirits not being considered property by the prohibitory law of that State. Under this provision it was claimed that the man had not had an equivalent for the money paid; hence the recovery of the sum by the wife.

The first bar of tin ever made in the United States, has been presented to the California Pioneer. It is 8 inches long 4 inches wide and 2 inches thick.

A CURIOUS CRAFT. Portland has at one of its wharves a ship discharging salt, which is quite a curiosity. She is called the "Lord Dalhousie," and was built between twenty and thirty years ago in the East Indies, for the purpose of carrying convicts. Her lower frame is of mahogany and her upper sides of oak. She is 842 tons burden, and is said to be a very fast sailer.

The salary of the Treasurer of Pennsylvania is only $1700, yet the Governor says "there are but few men who have held this office, however poor they may have been when they took charge of it, who have not become rich." Recently the State Treasurer, with a nominal balance of $1,500,000, had to beg for time to pay $10,000. The secret of the matter is that the State funds are used to speculate with.

Wash Boiler!

Patented by C. W. HERMAN. Mar. 30, 1869.

A few among the many advantages this

Boiler has over other devices for Washing are:

1st. It dissolves the dirt and cleanses the garments by forcing hot water through them.

2d. There is no wear while undergoing this process.

3d. It produces a better and more thorough action than any other device yet invented for washing.

4th. It washes the whole garments at once.

5th. It will do your washing easier, and less than one-half the time usually required.

6th. It saves money, for it saves soap, time and clothes.

7th. Six cents worth of soap is sufficient, with this Boiler to do a large washing.

8th. It takes less fuel, less muscle, and when done

you are not half so tired, and consequently better natured, for your Washing is better done.

Poetry.

Cling to those who Cling to You.

There are many friends of summer,

Who are kind while flowers bloom,

But when winter chills the blossoms

They depart with the perfume.

On the broad highway of action

Friends of worth are far and few:

So when one has proved his friendship

Cling to him who clings to you.

Do not harshly judge your neighbor,

Do not deem his life untrue,

If he makes no great pretensions,

Deeds are great though words are few;

Those who stand amid the tempest,

Firm as when the skies are blue,

Will be friends while life endures,

Cling to those who cling to you.

When you see a worthy brother

Butting the stormy main,

Lend a helping hand fraternal,

Till he reach the shore again;

When the old and tried friend

Boat upon the sea of life,

For he then needs friendship's comforts,

Cling to those who cling to you.

Interesting Selections.

A GOOD BREAKFAST DISH. Four

Beat the eggs, add the milk and butter,

Stir constantly for three or four minutes,

when it will be ready for the table.

COCONUT CAKES. Grate the coconut,

For the Patriot,
BOSTON, HARTFORD & LEE R. D.

In the last two issues of your paper, no less than three articles have appeared relating to this corporation, all of the same tenor and designed to help defeat the efforts now being made to secure additional assistance from the State. It is well that all such matters should attract public attention and discussion, for the people are called upon to furnish the means in case such application is successful.

I would premise the views I shall offer by saying that I am not acquainted with any of the officers of this corporation personally. Only one of them is known to me by reputation, (Mr. Eldridge, the President), and judging him by facts which have come to my notice, I will say that he proves his sincerity by investing nearly (if not quite) all his means in this undertaking. I shall not stop here to discuss the management of the affairs of this corporation. It seems to me that all must admit that great mistakes have been made, to call them by no harsher term. But to the subject:

What is the object of a State in giving life to such corporations as this? Is it simply and solely for the benefit of the stock and bond-holders? I think not. All grants of this kind by the State are supposed to be for the public good; for the convenience of the residents along the line of the road, by enabling them to reach the great centres of trade and commerce with the products of their labor, either of agriculture or manufacture, and in return receiving the products of other sections of the country. Also, that by the business thus created, the aggregate wealth of the State is largely increased.

Having these principles in view, one or two questions are pertinent to the subject. Has Boston and Massachusetts such railroad connections with the rest of the country as their wants demand? If not, will the Hartford & Erie when finished, assist us in furnishing such connections? To the last question it seems to me there can be but one answer, and that in the affirmative. It is urged by some that the distance to any of the cities of the West over this line is greater than by the Boston & Albany. Suppose this to be true, what then? Take the different routes from New York to the West and you will find a great variation in the distances. Does this prevent any one of these various routes from receiving its due share of the whole business? Not at all. So that I think the difference of distance should not be taken into account.

In relation to the first question, I think we can all agree that we have not sufficient facilities to accommodate the present business of our community, to say nothing of the future increase. This being the case, any new means of reaching the country west of us, must be of almost immeasurable value. The Hartford & Erie road will furnish us one other means of bringing the agricultural products of the West to us, and will give us another means of returning to them the products of the manufactures in which we are so largely engaged.

I do not agree with the views of our distinguished fellow townsman, that Boston cannot regain her former commercial standing; but, on the contrary, do believe that increased facilities for reaching the West may be made the means of her not only reviving, but also of extending her commerce until she will stand far in advance of either her past or present condition.

In view of all these facts, briefly referred to, my position is as follows: That the State should at all times extend liberal aid to all feasible projects for facilities for reaching the West. That in doing so the Legislature should endeavor so provide for a return to the State treasury the same given to aid such enterprises; but, admitting and recognizing the fact, for fact it is, that whether the specific sum is returned to the treasury or not, the State as such, and the people thereof, will be more than compensated for the aid thus given by the increase of business, and by reason thereof, of the addition to the aggregate wealth of the State, which will be perpetually paying its contributions into its treasury.

For these reasons I believe that the public good requires that the State should see that this great highway should be completed at the earliest possible day. That in meeting this requirement, the Legislature should provide means by which the aid given by the State should be faithfully and intelligently devoted to the completion of the enterprise, and then, in future years, while lamenting the results of the errors in the past, yet shall the people of the State rejoice in the possession of this avenue of travel and transportation to the West, and more fully realize that the railroads of our country are among the iron links binding us into one whole.

DIVISION MUSTER. We learn that it is in contemplation to have a division muster next fall, in place of the brigade muster, as heretofore. Gen. The inside materials of the Hanover street Methodist Church, in Boston, consisting of pews, pulpit, organ, carpets and other fixtures, was sold recently at auction, as the building is to be taken down to widen the street. The organ was purchased for the contemplated Methodist Episcopal Church in East Weymouth, by Z. L. Bicknell, for $1,525. It is said to have cost $6,000.

The PARKS HOUSE, No. 187 Washington street, Boston, is one of the most conveniently situated hotels in the city, and under its new management, which combines the advantages of both the American and European plans, its popularity bids fair to be greater than ever. The cuisine is first class in every respect, and the hosts of business men who are obliged to get their dinners "down town," find at the Parks House as near an approach to the comforts of home as can be obtained anywhere.

CANDY CAMBLING.
A SMALL SWINDLE. Among the ingenious frauds now in practice, that of selling "Prize Chewing Candy" to children is one of the most reprehensible. Each package purports to contain in addition to the candy a prize which is valued to the price of the candy, and the sale is calculated to increase an interest in games of chance and lotteries injurious to the future character of the purchaser.

SUPPLEMENT.

QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY, MAY 14, 1870.

THE PRINTER'S DOLLARS.

Where are they? a dollar here, a dollar there, scattered over numerous States, cities, towns, and villages, all over the country, miles apart. How shall they be gathered together? Each subscriber remitting by his postmaster. The paper maker, the building owner, the compositor, the grocer, the tailor, and all assistants in carrying on his business have their demands, hardly ever so small as a dollar. And the dollar from here and there must be diligently gathered or the wherewith to discharge the liabilities never will be sufficient. The beauty of a circulating medium is, it pays debts and relieves responsibilities. Two dollars set in motion from the bank often discharges $20 of liabilities in one day before they are returned. A pays B, and B pays C, and so on until a long list of debts are cancelled. Therefore, those who send promptly their dollar and two dollar dues, relieving the printer of the trouble and expense of collecting, share his highest regard for their thoughtful kindness.—Taunton Gazette.

DRAWING THE LONG BOW.

Two pedlars on tramp in one of the border counties, came to a farmhouse, the proprietor of which was remarkable in the locality for his credulous disposition. One of the pedlars entered some little time before the other, and in course of conversation, told the farmer that just as he came along he had seen one of the largest eggs it had ever been his luck to see or hear of—it was so large that it nearly filled a common hay wagon, and required a couple of horses to draw it along.

The farmer looked at him in perfect astonishment, hardly able to swallow such an enormous egg; when, in stepped pedlar No. 2, who, after exchanging the usual civilities, was asked if there was any thing new from his district.

"Well," said he, "as I was passing through M—, (naming a village some miles distant,) about mid-day it got very dark,—so dark, in fact, that the villagers, in speechless awe, rushed out to the street to see if they could find a cause for such a wonderful darkness; when, looking upwards, they espied a very large bird, with its wings spread out, leisurely sailing over the village."

Up jumped the farmer, and slapped pedlar No. 1 on the shoulder. "That," said he, "must have been the 'Buffer' that laid your big egg."

AN EYE TO THE FUTURE.

On the upper lakes it is the custom in winter to cut holes in the ice, and the fish, attracted by the light, collect and are taken in large numbers. It often happens that they are of small size, and those the fishermen usually give to the poor women and children who are always about. Jake Walton was an old fisherman, as noted for his profanity as his success in his calling. One day Jake had a large haul of small fish, and a few large size. Calling some women, he gave them the large ones, and proceeded to gather up the small ones for sale. One of his fraternity inquired the cause of this action. Jake turned his eyes with a quizzical look, and said, "I've heard say that what you give to the poor you lend to the Lord. Now, when them fishes is paid back, I don't want no such mess of darned little fishes put on me."

AFTER DINNER NAPS. The Herald of Health says:—"Many persons are in the habit of sleeping for half an hour or an hour immediately after dinner. This is a bad practice. Ten minutes sleep before dinner is worth more than an hour after. It rests and refreshes, and prepares the system for vigorous digestion. If sleep is taken after dinner it should be in a sitting posture, as the horizontal position is unfavorable to healthful digestion. Let those who need rest and sleep during the day take it before dinner instead of after, and they will soon feel better, and that their digestion will be improved thereby."

ONE DOLLAR.

TESTIMONIALS.

I am familiar with "Ewell's Blood Purifier and Stomach Tonic"—my acquaintance with it being nearly equal with the existence of the article. It is composed entirely of herbs, being a collection of those most commonly used as family medicines, and prescribed by physicians when they employ vegetable remedies. The virtues are extracted by decoction and infusion, and not by distillation. It contains no anodyne or narcotic, nor any poisonous or deleterious ingredient.

I have been so favored in respect to health, as not to have occasion to use that or any other medicine. But I am so situated as unavailable to learn its effects upon those who do use it, and from such I hear, as it were, daily, the most commendatory testimony concerning it.

In one word, then, my long acquaintance with the above named medicine, my knowledge of its ingredients and process of manufacture, and the uniform and extensive testimony to its excellencies which I hear from those who have tested its virtues, warrant me in expressing a confidence that those who use it will find it to perform all that the manufacturer promises in its behalf.

New Haven, August, 1869. GEORGE BECKWITH.

To those wishing to use Ewell's Stomach Tonic and Blood Purifier:

My confidence in the integrity of its compounder, and a knowledge of its success as a remedy demand any approval.

W. H. COE.

Originator of Coe's Cough Balsam and Dyspepsia Cure.

I take pleasure in recommending Mr. Ewell's Syrup, it having been used in my family for some time past, as we think, with good results. I believe it to be as stated a purifier of the blood and thereby removing the causes of so many diseases which afflict the human system.

STRUCK "ILE." While engrossed in the impending issues and strife of the rebellion, the public mind but faintly realized the importance of the sources of prosperity which were then opening. Among these sources oil wells, at first least known, bore a prominent part. One year of the struggle had passed away, and from cisterns which provident nature had kept in store for centuries, oil began to flow—to flow without a use. In 1862, at Enniskillen, Ontario, the price of oil was only ten cents per barrel. The flow was marvellous,—some wells produced from one to three thousand barrels per day; 7500 barrels was the notable product of the "Black & Mathewson,"—with a six inch mantle it crusted the creek, and skimmed with oil the waters of lake Erie. Fire caught the stream and swept its fearful course along the river margin; 5,000,000 barrels of oil floated away a waste. Oil, the price of which at one time was ten cents per barrel, three years after would have commanded ten dollars in gold. Already, in a household age, we begin to appreciate the benign agency which out of darkness has evolved light; but its manifold properties, its chemical uses, its more remote adaptations, are as yet undeveloped and unknown.

The wonderful growth of our Western railroad towns is excellently illustrated in Kit Carson, the present terminus of the Kansas Pacific Railway. There are at least 3000 people living on the site where but a few months since, not a house stood.

MISSOURI LEAD. The annual yield of lead in Missouri is estimated to be less than 2,000,000 pounds, though that State may be taken as one of the best lead producing regions in the world. Lead has been discovered in 48 counties and over 500 localities.

A young man in Indiana worked all last summer to clear an eighty acre tract of land belonging to a young woman who had promised to marry him. When, just as the weather began to get cold, he went to claim his reward, she married another fellow who had looked on while the victim was working.

A MINIATURE STEAMER. The propeller City of Ragusa, seven yards long, Captain Buckley, will leave Liverpool for New York in a few days.

In Gonic, N. H., on the 23d ult., a hole seven feet in diameter and twenty feet deep was found in a road. No signs of earth having been thrown out could be seen, and the general impression is that something in nature allowed the bottom to drop out.

The population of the United States is said to increase at a rate of one million annually.

The wife of an Ohio man ran away to Denver about two months ago, and the other day telegraphed her husband to send money for her to come home with. He replied, "Don't cut your visit short on my account," and she is in Denver yet.

A blooming widow of 36 called at the probate office in an Ohio town and asked for a marriage license. Her husband that was to be was "only 18 and so bashful."

Dyspepsia Remedy

DR. HAM'S AROMATIC INVIGORATOR

REMOVES from the system the ill effects caused by the excessive use of alcoholic liquors, and effectually destroys the appetite for these stimulants. It gives tone to debilitated mucous surfaces. Effete matter is removed from the system, thereby restoring it to its normal healthy condition. As a medicine, it is quick and effectual, curing the most aggravated cases of Dyspepsia, Kidney Complaints and all other Derangements of the Stomach and Bowels, in a speedy manner. This elegant preparation has stood the test of years. A wine-glassful before eating will give a good appetite and prevent all suffering from indigestion.

Ladies of weak and delicate constitutions should take the Invigorator three times a day. A wine-glassful before retiring will insure sweet and refreshing sleep. All the proprietor asks is a trial, and to induce this he has put up the Invigorator in pint bottles at 50 cents,—quarts, $1.00.

Poetry.

For the Patriot.
EQUAL RIGHTS.
BY F. M. ADLINGTON.

There is no land so blest as this Where equal laws prevail;
A glorious land of freedom 'tis—
Of freedom for the male.

But what is man that he should have The dictatorial sway;
While lovely woman, like a slave,
Is bound his laws to obey.

Whoever owns a bearded face,
Tho' ignorant and low—
Whate'er his color, clime or race,
A right to vote may show.

His ballot may determine what Shall be the woman's fate;
Whether a sober man or sot Rule or misrule the State.

But woman, howsoever learn'd,
To have her plea for justice spurn'd,
And mock'd her humble prayer.

While pride-swollen politicians boast
To silence you condemn;
The better-half of all our host,
Are law-disfranchised slaves.

Your wives and mothers you command—
To silence you condemn;
While rowdies, roughs and tilters band
To make the laws for them.

Whence man's superior right alone
To rule; for force it came—Brute force—and other he has none;
It is the bully's claim.

'Tis the last chain that binds us down
To despotism's throne;
Break it! my country grasp the crown
Of justice for thine own.

Our gallant fathers, when oppress'd
With laws by others given,
To heaven their righteous cause address'd,
And won the smiles of heaven.

And may their daughters now pursue Their grandfathers course—UNITE!
Leave none and none themselves can do;
But struggle for their right.

Weymouth, April 20, 1870.

GLASS FOR WINDOWS. A window glazed with ground glass is almost always unsatisfactory. The vitrified surface being removed, the smoke and dust discolor it, and make it difficult to be kept clean.
White enameled glass, having a semiopaque figure upon a transparent ground, is more satisfactory. If the windows of a dining-room were filled with clear light pink glass, the effect of the room would always be pleasant and comfortable. The greatest care should be taken to avoid introducing dark colors.

Old John P. Berry, that used to live up Lake Champlain, liked to tell a big story. One evening, sitting in the village store he said he once drove a horse seventy-two miles in one day on the ice, when the ice was so thin that the water would spout up through the holes made by the horse's hoofs. One of the bystanders remarked that seventy-two miles was a pretty good drive for one day.
"Yes," said Uncle John, "but it was a long day in June."

The following lines were handed to a marble worker in a western city, to be inscribed on a grave-stone:
"Here lies little Hans so dead as a nit—
Cut him out with an axer fit;
He yash so kind, unt cut to me,
Cut called him home to live mit he."

A shoemaker was the other day fitting a customer with a pair of boots, when the buyer observed that he had but one objection to them, which was that the soles were a little too thick. "If that is all," replied the maker, "put on the boots, and the objection will gradually wear away."

A clergyman being requested to address a weary audience, won the hearts of his hearers by saying, "Speech is silver, but silence is golden; as I have no small change, I'll let you off with the gold."

A little fellow was eating some bread and milk, when he turned round to his mother, and said, "Oh, mother I'm full of glory. There was a sunbeam on my spoon, and I swallowed it."

Not to believe that the Bible is God's message is voluntarily to deprive one's self of all true, well-founded knowledge about God and our future state. It is returning to darkness—it is to ruin our own prospects, and perhaps, also the welfare of many others with us—Merle D'Aubigne.

MEDITATION. It is not hasty reading but seriously meditating upon holy and heavenly truths that makes them prove sweet and profitable to the soul. It is not the bees touching on the flowers that gathers honey, but her abiding for a time upon them, and drawing out the sweet.
It is not he that reads most, but he that meditates most, on divine truth that will prove the choicest, wisest, strongest Christian—Bishop Hall.

An August morning—cool and clear as August mornings in Minnesota are always sure to be—the sun shining out over the little settlement and the blue waters of Lake Shetek, and gilding the dark pines on the northern shore. Only five o'clock, but the people are all astir, for harvesting has just begun, and the great fields of wheat and corn must be gathered in by fewer hands than last year. It was wartime—1862—and the first battle of Bull Run was still fresh in the minds of every one, and sitting on the door-step, little Burton Estlick spelled out the account of it in the weekly paper, which had come in only yesterday, while the baby pattered about with his small, bare feet, and talked in an unknown tongue about everything.

Burton's father was a private in one of the Western regiments, and had left his wife and two children in a neighborly charge, till his two years of army life should be over. Burton, though but just nine years old, was learning in good earnest to be a farmer's boy. For two years he had lived with his mother in this lonely country, half a dozen families having left Mankato, some seventy miles east, and settled on the prairie back of Lake Shetek.

The Sioux, Chippewas and Winnebagoes still roamed over the greater part of Minnesota, and no one thought of fearing them, as all professed the friendliest feelings toward the whites. Now and then the Sioux and Chippewas, who have always been deadly enemies, went on the war-path against each other, and Burton had seen some Chippewa scalps brought in by a neighboring band of Sioux, some of whom often came to the house to beg for provisions.

So this morning, as his mother took the milking pail and went out toward the barn, where the cows stood lowing, he picked up his little brother and followed her slowly, thinking of the great battle, and wondering if his father would be in any, and how it must seem to hear the bullets whizzing around one's head.

Looking up as he heard the clatter of hoofs, he saw some twenty Indians riding toward the next house, hardly a stone's-throw away, and he went on, meaning to ask if they were going out against the Chippewas. Willie stepped him for a moment to ask for a bright flower growing near the fence; as Burton stooped to pick it, he heard two shots fired in quick succession, and then a terrible yell—and Mr. Hurd, who had been standing near the door with his baby in his arms, fell dead. At the same moment his mother, with white, scared face, pulled him away by the hand.

"Run into the brush," she whispered,
"or the Indians will kill us all."

As she spoke she caught little Willie, and ran down the road toward the thick brush, but was stopped half way by two Indian women, who rose up suddenly from behind a log where they were crouching. As Mrs. Estlick tore herself away from them, they ran toward the house screaming that a woman was escaping. Two of the Indians fired; one ball glancing from Burton's shoulder, made only a deep cut; the other striking
Mrs. Estlick's ankle, crushed the bone.

She fell, but in a moment was up again, and leaning on Burton, pulled herself painfully along. The Indians, more anxious to plunder than to kill, turned again to the house, telling Mrs. Hurd that if she would give no alarm, she might go with her children by the trail they pointed out leading eastward over the prairie to New Ulm. As Mrs. Estlick looked back a moment, she saw her hurrying toward the trail, and had she dared to leave the brush would have followed.

For a mile she dragged herself on, the agony from her wounded foot growing greater every moment. Then she sank down with a groan.
"It's no use, Burton. I may crawl along on my hands and knees, but that is the only way I can go, and you must leave me. Take little Willie and follow the trail to Mankato. Carry him all you can, and perhaps you may get in alive.
You won't leave him on the road to die, Burton?"

"No, mother," Burton said, looking into her eyes, in which were no tears, both of them were past crying. "He shan't die unless I do, and I'll try and send somebody back for you."

"Kiss me, and then go on as fast as you can with Willie;" and for a moment she held the children tightly to her heart.
Then she fell back and covered her eyes, and Burton, with Willie in his arms, walked swiftly on through the tall brush, starting at every sound, and crouching low, as a crackling in the bushes made him think the Indians might be following them. Little Willie, hardly more than one year old, knew no reason for fear, and perfectly happy in being with Burton, would have talked all the way, had not Burton told him he must keep still, because there was something dreadful that might come through the bushes after him. Even then he could hardly understand, and put up a pitiful, grief-stricken lip at the idea that Burton was frightening him. Soon he settled down contentedly and went to sleep, and Burton, who found he could not carry his heavy little body any further without resting, went aside into the thickest brush he could find and laid him in some soft high grass.
Here was a wild plum tree, and he filled his pockets and handkerchief with the fruit, knowing that soon he should be upon the open prairie, where there would be small prospect of finding any food.

Then he waked Willie, not daring to stay here longer, and too tired to carry him, led him slowly, for the little feet could not travel more than a mile an hour. So they went on through the long afternoon, stopping now and then to rest, till at last, almost at sunset, Willie, who had thought for an hour or two that he was going home, began to cry, when he saw only the red sky and waving grass before him. For another mile Burton coaxed him along by running before him a little way and saying, "Now, Willie, see if you can catch me." Then the weary little feet could go no farther, and Burton sat down by him on a sand knoll, determined to watch all night; but too exhausted to keep awake, he soon fell asleep. Dawn awoke him, and he roused Willie and started on, frightened at having lost so much time.

This day's journey was a hard one.
The want of proper food began to tell on both children, most of all on Burton, who, when the second night came, lay down at once, too weary to think even of watching. Willie cried pitifully for his supper, and could not be comforted by the promise of something "to-morrow;" but he slept quietly all night. So the third day came and passed, Burton finding only a few wild plums; and the fourth and the fifth, on which they came to a deserted house and a cornfield. Everything had been destroyed by the Indians; but, searching carefully, a part of a spoiled ham was found, and the two children ate heartily of this, saving the remainder for future use. This, with wild plums and raw green corn, was their only food till late on the eleventh day, when Burton, carrying the baby brother, who was now too weak to walk, entered Mankato, where fugitives from all directions had come in.

Here every house was thrown open and the two children were soon cared for.
When he had seen Willie drink a glass of milk and lie down in a comfortable bed, Burton asked for some crackers and a bag to put them in.

"What do you want of crackers?" asked the lady who had taken the children into her house.

"To eat on the road. I am going back to look for mother."

"But, my dear child, you cannot find her! If she is alive at all some of the wagons have picked her up and brought her in. She may be here in town."

"Then I will look here first," said Burton. As he insisted, Mrs. Hutchinson went with him through the town, asking one after another if they knew whether any of the people at Lake Shetek had been saved. At last, as they were passing one house, Burton saw their old neighbor, Mrs. Hurd, at the window, and running in he found his mother, too weak from pain and starvation to speak, and sorrowing for the children whom she supposed to be dead. Little Willie was brought to her at once, and the thankful mother scarcely thought of her past suffering as she held the two close to her again. There were few questions that night, but the next day Mrs. Estlick told Burton how she had crawled along for three days till found by the mail carrier, who in his little wagon had turned back from Lake Shetek, having heard that the Indians were on the war-path against all whites: He had given her a seat, and driven on night and day till they reached

Mankato, where she had been for a day or two, unable to move, but sending out to inquire of every party of fugitives if her children had been seen.

For a fortnight the terrible massacre lasted. The people of the State, trusting to the friendship of the Indians, had been totally unprepared for such an outbreak, and the Indians themselves, who had been assured by half-breeds that the white people were too busy fighting each other to pay any attention to them, expected to fully take possession of the whole State, and burn and murder where they would.
Terrible wrongs had been done them, and they avenged them even more terribly.
Two hundred miles of beautiful country were made desolate. Hundreds died by savage hands, while hundreds more were taken into a captivity worse than death, which lasted till late in the fall, when they were rescued by Gen. Sibley's command. Long before this Mrs. Estlick had left Minnesota far behind. But even now, at times, in her quiet New England home, a shudder creeps over her as she recalls that August morning eight years ago, and remembers the weary way over which Burton carried the baby.—Helen C.

SOME HINTS ABOUT SCREWS.

Where screws are driven into soft wood and subjected to considerable strain, they are very likely to work loose; and it is often difficult to make them hold. In such cases, says the Canadian Builder, we have always found the use of glue profitable. Prepare the glue thick; immerse a stick about half the size of the screw and put it into the hole; then immerse the screw, and drive it home as quickly as possible. When there is an article of furniture to be hastily repaired, and no glue is to be had handily, insert the stick, fill the rest of the cavity with pulverized resin, then heat the screw sufficiently to melt the resin as it is driven in.
Chairs, tables, lounges, etc., are continually getting out of order in every house; and the proper time to prepare them is when first noticed. If neglected the matter grows still worse, and finally results in laying by the article of furniture as worthless. Where screws are driven into wood for temporary purposes they can be removed much easier by dipping them in oil before inserting.

When buying screws notice what you are getting; for there are poor as well as good kinds. See that the heads are sound and well cut; that there are no flaws in the body or thread part, and that they have gimlet points. A screw of good make will drive into oak as easy as others into pine, and will endure having twice the force brought against it.

EARTHQUAKES.

Alluding to his residence at Yokohama, PUMPELY expresses his belief that no one becomes accustomed to the phenomena of earthquakes. The uncertainty which hangs over all the phases of an earthquake wave, darts through the mind of man as well as brutes a ray of terror, which seems frequently to precede the first shock. It has often been remarked in connection with the more fearful of historical earthquakes, that before a shock has been felt, the entire population of a city have rushed from their houses at the same instant, as if driven by an instinctive impulse. Certainly animals are warned of the approaching danger before man feels even a tremor—a fact which may be explained by their greater sensitivity; and it may be that the senses of man, especially where he lives in a chronic state of expectation of these convulsions, are open to impressions so delicate that they affect only the inferior machinery of the brain.

Japan is one of the great centres of earthquake action; and the dates of the destructive shocks occupy a considerable portion of their chronological records during more than two thousand years.
An eruption of the volcano Asamayama, in Shinano, in 1783, was accompanied by a fearful loss of life. Thousands of people were swallowed up by great chasm which rent the earth, and into which they were plunged in escaping water. In 1854, the Russian brigate "Diana" witnessed in the harbor of Smolda an earthquake whose centre seems to have been submarine. Three immense waves rushing in from the sea covered the highest trees, and dashed the native shipping to pieces on the inland hill sides, while in their return they

MECHANICAL RECREATIONS.

The purpose of this article is to show that mechanical employments furnish the most healthful and delightful recreations for such as are not constantly employed in them.

The purpose of recreation is as the term implies to re-create or renew the exhausted energies of mind and body. Perfect rest, such as is secured by good, sound, refreshing sleep, is of all the means by which this is accomplished, the most powerful.

It is true food as the fuel by which the human engine runs and does work, but the analogy between a machine constructed of lifeless material and the animal economy ceases when we consider anything beyond the mechanical power of muscular movement derived from the consumption of food.

The human machine includes within itself a directing power which wears and wears, and cannot be continuously employed in a single direction without fatigue. The wise Solomon saw that much study is a weariness to the flesh. And modern physiologists have not failed to see that undue manual labor impoverishes and enfeebles the mind.

The will concentrated long upon compelling the muscles to perform a certain routine of movement, finds itself at length powerless to command. It must then cease exertion entirely as in sleep, or it must exert itself in some new direction. This is what is commonly called recreation, that is, an occupation which affords an agreeable contrast to that which has caused fatigue.

We think it is indisputable that any employment which exacts moderate muscular activity, at the same time interesting the mind by employing its powers upon such topics as do not arouse the animal passions, while they moderately engage the higher mental powers, has in it all the elements of healthy recreation. In our opinion nothing whatever so combines these elements and furnishes so cheaply the needed relief to professional men and hard students as some mechanical occupation, in which originality of design may be united with manual skill in execution.

In such recreation the entire tendency is to gratefully relieve the mind, gently exercise and invigorate the body, and build out and cultivate powers which cannot be developed to the moral hurt of the individual, but greatly increase his intellectual stature.

In such occupations the mind wearied with business cares, or by much study, may revel in refreshing beauties of form, color, and motion, and find the highest of all pleasures in the contemplation of the relation of simple causes to complex effects.

A man who has in this way attained to even moderate skill, may find his lathe a magical instrument by which he can clothe the rudest materials with forms of beauty, and gratify to the utmost that wonderful combination of faculties by which man most asserts his superiority over the brutes.

Imagination here finds, if not so wide a scope as in poetry, or the fine arts, sufficient to give it ample employ, and to banish from the mind all evil thinking and day dreaming, which to the young mind is always hurtful and sometimes fatal.

On this latter account we recommend most earnestly mechanical recreation for the young. Let the boys build windmills and miniature dams. They soil their clothes, but how much better soiled garments than soiled minds. They may cut their fingers with the tools you permit them to employ, but you will find such wounds heal in less time than the foul ulcers of moral corruption.

Every man who can afford it should supply his boys with tools, and a room where they may be used and cared for. A boy takes to tools as naturally as to green apples, or surreptitious and forbidden amusements; and ten to one if he has a chance to develop his mechanical tastes and gratify them to their full extent, his tendencies to vicious courses will remain undeveloped. Such a result is enough to compensate for all the expense and trouble the indulgence we recommend would entail; while the chances that the early development of his constructive faculties may in this mechanical age be the means by which he may ultimately climb to fame and fortune are not small. —Scientific American.

A MAMMOTH DEPOT.

There will shortly be constructed in New York city, a mammoth depot, to be located at the junction of Fourth avenue and Forty-second street, to form the starting-point of the Hudson River, New York Central, and Harlem Railroads. The trains of the Hudson River road will be switched off in the neighborhood of Spuyten Duyvil to a branch road which will connect with the Harlem Railroad. The car-house will have accommodations for twelve single trains, while, if it be necessary, double or even treble that number can be accommodated. This structure will when completed be the largest on the Continent, and its foundation is nearly completed. Under the requirements of the contract, the entire building must be completed within eight months from this time. Some idea of the extent of the work can be gathered from the following items given by the Scientific American: "The weight of iron to be used will be over 8,000,000 pounds. It will require 100,000 square feet of glass in the roof alone, and 90,000 square feet of galvanized corrugated iron to cover the roof. The roof over the car-house will extend over an area limited south and west by the office-buildings, east by the Fourth avenue, and north by a line 30 feet 6 inches south of Forty-fifth street. The entire length of the roof will be 652 feet, and it will be 199 feet 2 inches in width between the walls, and supported by 32 arched trusses, placed 20 feet 4 inches apart. These great arches will be set upon the foundation, whose upper face is 2 feet below the surface of the ground, rising to an elevation of 94 feet from the springing line to the extrados of the arch. The whole of the north front will be of cast-iron, the width to be 203 feet 10 inches, and raised 112 feet six inches in extreme height. The windows and doors of the first story will have rolling shutters. The ends of the structure will be occupied for offices on the first floor, while the ground floor will be set apart for ticket-offices, passengers' rooms, baggage-lockers, restaurants, news-stands, etc. Although photographs of the plans and drawings were sent to Europe for bids, it was found that American foundrymen could more than compete with any bids received abroad."

THE GULF STREAM OF ANNEXATION AND THE INVASION OF CUBA. As the waters of the Mississippi bring down their sediment from the western mountains to form the delta at its mouth, a portion of this sediment is borne by the Gulf stream around the Florida Keys. As the stream bends around the Keys to the north it deposits this sediment on the inner or least rapid portion of the current. Here upon this bank of mud the coral reef is formed; the stream is thus crowded south; the reefs are gradually clothed with vegetation. In this manner half the peninsula of Florida has been formed and underlaid in a continuous reef. In this manner also, the area of freedom is to be extended, until Cuba shall be gathered in. Geologic and manifest destiny thus concur.

CELEBRATION, IN QUINCY, JULY 4th, 1870.

Again the most memorable day in the annals of American History draws near;
again will bonfires and illuminations will we express our joy; with hearts full of thankfulness to the Great Giver will we celebrate the anniversary of that day which secured to us the free, enlightened and glorious institutions under which we live; agreeable to the expressed desire of many citizens who believe it better to celebrate the day at home, rather than seek enjoyment at the seashore, or the neighboring city.

A committee has been organized and here begs leave to present the result of their earnest deliberations in the following

PROGRAMME:
The bell of the various churches to be rung and a salute fired at sunrise, noon and sunset.

PROCESSION
Composed entirely of Antiques and Hor-ribles will parade in the morning. Route and time to be announced hereafter.

An association has been formed, and active steps are being taken to make this decidedly an interesting feature. It is expected that at least three hundred persons will parade, representing the various eccentricities characteristic of the age.

REGATTA.
Free to all boats belonging in Quincy, will take place at 10 o'clock. Three prizes will be offered. Full particulars will be given in due season.

BALLOON ASCENSION
AT 4 O'CLOCK.
The Committee has been in communication with an Aeronaut widely known, who will make an ascension in his largest balloon. This will be a novel and decidedly interesting feature to thousands of our people; and the Committee proposes to arrange the display, that all will be enabled to obtain a full view of the air car for several hours before the ascension take place. Three persons will ascend with the Aeronaut including a special reporter for the Patriot.

BAND CONCERT.
At sunset the Band will begin an outdoor Concert, consisting of National airs and continue until the close of the FIREWORKS.

Which will be on as grand a scale as the display of last year.

The above programme is respectfully submitted to the people, and it is for them to accept or reject it; they will please manifest their approval by liberally subscribing to the fund now being raised to defray the expenses. The Committee have selected GEORGE H. LOCKE, Esq., and he is the only person authorized to receive subscriptions. A hearty cooperation of all our citizens will enable the Committee to carry out their plans, which they confidently trust will prove enjoyable to all, and a credit to the good old town of Quincy.

Poetry.

For the Patriot.
DECORATION DAY.

With solemn steps we come,
Tolling bells and martial drum,
Arms reversed and bended head,
To mourn with our cherished dead;
Banish worldly thoughts and care;
Lift while our souls in prayer;
Consecrate these graves to us;
Where lie bodies of our brave.

They for us have yielded breath
To the cold embrace of death
And we call their spirits down
To receive the martyr's crown;
Fragrant flowers, here we shed
On our heroes' lowly bed,
And we dedicate these graves
To the honoring of their clay.

Fallen comrades if it be "E'er permitted unto thee,
From your spirit home above,
To look down on those you love,
Then this day may you be near,
While we shed the silent tear,
While we pray that when we die
You may welcome us on high."

Thanks to Him who gave release,
From grim war brought gentle peace.
Bitter was the price we paid:
But we gained it by His aid.
And although it wrung the heart
To forgive or to condemn,
We with feeble, mortal sense,
Must not judge Omnipotence.

Charity give those who fell Fighting, these we loved so well,
For our God who saw these souls,
Hath a loving care for all,
He alone can read the heart,
His alone must be the part,
To forgive or to condemn,
Hate their cause, but pity them.

Swet with tears these garlands bled,
Sew them where the loved forms rest, Yield you to your Father's will,
Bid your beating heart be still;
Lift your soul in prayer to God,
For the dear ones 'neath the sod;
Leave them 'neath their flowered mound
Till their reviveth shall sound.

RHUBARB. The best way of cooking this delicious substitute for fruits is to bake it. Cut up the stalks into a pile dish of nice white or yellow earthenware, sprinkle sugar over, cover with a plate, set in the oven and bake fifteen or twenty minutes, just long enough to be tender and retain its fresh green color, like green apples. It is an excellent supper dish to eat with bread and butter or cream.

A tavern boaster, the other day, vaunted his knowledge of the world, was asked by a wag at his elbow if he had been in algebra. "Oh yes," said he,
"I once passed through it on top of a

Mark Twain, hearing of an unsuccessful attempt at boring for water in California, remarked, "why don't they go round and try the other end?—there must be water somewhere."

Hahnemann, the founder of the homoeopathic school, was a jocosely being.
When consulted by a wealthy English lord, he listened patiently; then took out a small vial, opened it, and held it under his lordship's nose. "Smell! Well, you are cured!" The lord asked, "Your fee?" "Thousand francs." The lord pulled out a bank note and held it under the Doctor's nose, and said "Smell! Well, you are paid!"

might have truthfully said, that those

The chief secret of comfort lies in not suffering trifles to vex one, and in prudently cultivating an undergrowth of small pleasures, since very few great ones are let on long leases.

man, upon being ushered into his bedroom by a waiter at one of our hotels.
"Faith, an' you'll find it is plenty the reply; "for then there'll be two feet more added to it." Exit Pat with a boot

ON THE FORGIVEN LIST.

One of the old school merchants of Boston, extensively engaged in commerce, and located on Long Wharf, in that city, died many years ago at the age of 70.
His eldest son administered upon his estate. This old gentleman used pleasantly to say, that for many years he had fed a large number of Catholics on the shores of the Mediterranean during Lent—referring to his very extensive connection with the fishing business. He is well remembered by some of the "old ones down along the shore," from the Garnet's Nose to Race Point.

Among his papers, a package of considerable size was found after his death, carefully tied up and labelled as follows: Notes, due bills, and accounts against sundry persons down along shore. Some of these may be got by a suit or severe dunning. But the people are poor; most of them have had fisherman's luck. My children will do as they think best. Perhaps they will think, with me, that it is best to burn this package entire.

About a month (said the narrator of this) after our father died, the sons met together and, after a few remarks, our eldest brother, administrator, produced this package and asked what course should be taken in regard to it. Another brother, a few years younger, a man of strong, impulsive temperament, unable at the moment to express his feelings by words, indicated his desire to have the paper put into the flames. It was suggested by another, that it might be well to have a list of debtors' names, and dates of accounts, that we might be enabled to inform such as might offer payment, that their debts were forgiven. On the following day we again assembled, the bills, and accounts, whose amount, including interest, exceeded thirty-two thousand dollars, were committed to the flames.

It was about four months after our father's death, in the month of June, that as I was sitting in my brother's counting room, waiting for an opportunity to speak to him, there came in a hard-favored, little old man, who looked as if time and rough weather had been to the windward of him for seventy years. He asked if my brother was not the executor. He replied that he was administrator, as our father died intestate. "Well," said the stranger, "I have come up from the Cape to pay a debt I owed the old gentleman."
My brother requested him to be seated.

The old man sat down, and putting on his glasses, drew out a very ancient wallet. As he sat waiting his turn, slowly twisting his thumbs, and his old grey meditative eyes fixed upon the floor, he sighed; and I well supposed the money, as the phrase runs, came hard, and secretly wished the old man's name might be found upon the forgiven list. My brother was soon at leisure and asked him his name, etc. The original debt was four hundred and forty dollars, and with the interest amounted to eight hundred dollars.
My brother went to his table, and after examining the forgiven list attentively, a sudden smile lighted up his countenance, and told me the truth at a glance—the old man's name was there! My brother quietly took a chair by his side, and the following conversation ensued:—

"Your note is outlawed; it was dated twelve years ago, payable in two years; there is no witness, and no interest has ever been paid; you are not bound to pay this note—we cannot recover the amount."

"Sir," said the old man, "I wish to pay it. It is the only heavy debt I have in the world. I should like to pay it," and he laid the bank notes before the administrator, and requested him to count them over.

"I cannot take this money," was the reply.

The old man became confused. "I have cast simple interest for twelve years and a little over," said he; "I will pay you compound interest, if you say so." That debt ought to have been paid long ago, but your father was indulgent; he knew I had been unfortunate, and told me not to worry about it."

My brother then set the whole matter plain before him, and taking the bills, returned them to the old man, telling him, that although our father left no formal will, he had recommended to his children to destroy certain notes, due bills, and other evidences of debt, and release those who might be legally bound to pay them.—

OUR ROCHESTER LETTER.

Rochester, May 18, 1870.

THE TWO CONVENTIONS.

In April, the 16th and 17th, the two parties, Democratic and Republican, held their conventions in this city. The Democratic convention was composed of one delegate from each district, while the Republican had four delegates. Prominent among the Democratic delegates were Tweed, O'Gorman and others of that stamp from New York City. The convention was called to order and the nominations carried through in the most complete and orderly manner. Things had all been pre-arranged and therefore, it being the work of a few leading minds acting in concert, there was no hesitancy, no delay. To show their assurance, they telegraphed the ticket to New York City before the nominations were made. It was remarked by all who witnessed the proceedings, that they never had seen such a model convention. Everything passed off quietly and like the still deep rolling stream only to show its strength when opposed. The Republican convention on the contrary was rather turbulent.
One of the great difficulties was the fact that there were four delegates instead of one from each district, and also in their having a gentleman in the chair who was unaccustomed to parliamentary rules.— The nominations of both conventions, are men eminent as jurists, politicians and statesmen. It was thought

THE ELECTION
would go Democratic, and yesterday the election was held, resulting in a triumph for the Democratic ticket. From the telegraphic report, it would seem that the State outside of New York City, as between the rural districts and the cities, was about equally divided, for the majority for the Democratic ticket is about 50, 000, and the majority of New York City alone is about 50,000. Thus the city has again ruled the State, as it did in the gubernatorial election. The rural districts only occasionally turn out to do heavy duty at the polls. In such an election as the second one of Lincoln they showed their strength, but at this time of the year they are too busy with their farming matters to care much for politics. In fact some of the polls in the country towns were not opened until 10 or 11 o'clock, and further the Democratic politicians were pleased and it was part of their action in having the election occur when they thought the country people would be too busy to attend to it.
The Democrats now have complete control of the State.

SPORTS.
The fishing and gunning season has opened, and every one is having or has had a turn of some sort at his choice of these sports. Next week the State shoot occurs on the fair grounds here. It is expected that a large delegation of sportsmen from all parts of the State will be here and participate. A prize is offered of a rifle and shot gun combined to a member of the press making the best strings. In the rules governing this press shoot none are eligible unless of good moral character. As if any one having any connection with the press, could be otherwise than moral. There have been several rifle shoots, of heavy guns, dead rests, and an eighth of a mile target.

The wind on one occasion was the most difficult to gauge of any wind that ever blew, according to the opinion of an old rifle shooter,—at the target blowing east, and half way between the target and the shooting stand blowing west, and at the stand blowing every way, mixed with calms.

The boating season was inaugurated by a fine display of some two dozen or more boats on the river, last week. The fleet comprised six and four oar boats, double and single sculls. This coming Saturday, the boats will contend for a silver cup valued at $50. The race courses have been refitted and the racing season will begin on Saturday with a purse of $500.
There are two fine tracks here, over which all the best horses have trotted or run. The base ball fever has set in and soon the Haymakers, Atlantics, Unions, Red Stockings and other clubs of equal notoriety will be here, and proceed to score tallies on our club. We labor under a disadvantage, for as soon as a member of our club shows signs of being an expert player, he is gobbled up by some club who pays him a good salary and take him away from us. In this manner we have lost four or five men who now play in the crack clubs, such as the Nationals, Unions, &c.

THE WEATHER.
For several weeks we have had no rain and vegetation is feeling greatly the need of an enlivening shower. The crops are looking badly, and unless the clouds open their gates and flood us we shall be considerable straightened in the fall. The trees are in blossom and the robins are howling around all day, on the lookout for the unfortunate worms.

THE COLORED VOTERS.
This election was the first at which the colored man exercised his right of franchise, and in one notable instance, a poor "mizz'le cuss" with his rictus filled with Democratic bilge water deliberately cast a Democratic vote, but the act changed him, so much so, that he now smells of Erin instead of Africa. Some few could hardly contain themselves, and without attempting to let their emotions overcome them, proudly and pompously swelled and strutted up and down the streets.
One new found man and brother was challenged, and was denied the privilege of voting, because he had been in State Prison. He was anxious to vote and his friends were anxious to have him. So pumping in an extra ton of ballast to keep up the man's spirit within him, he coaxed an equally debilitated and overburdened fellow mortal, who was an artist, to whitewash him, and in that condition he attempted to personate a noted Democratic politician and vote. A few hours later it was,
"Hark from the tomb a doleful wail," and therein reclined our doubly colored friend, singing,
"Oh! it am a long time coming," and the whitewash cracking and peeling with every motion of his jaws.

IMPROVEMENTS
are rapidly taking place here. New blocks going up and old ones being enlarged and refitted. The Universalist church is being torn down preparatory to the erection of a larger, more spacious, and finer edifice. This church has long needed remodeling to make it even convenient or cheerful.

MEDICAL PROPERTIES OF EGGS.
The white of an egg has proved to be the most efficacious remedy for burns.
Seven or eight successive applications of this substance soothes pain, and effectually excludes the burn from the air. This simple remedy seems preferable to col-lodion, or even cotton. Extraordinary stories are told of the healing properties of a new oil which is easily made from the yolk of hens' eggs. The eggs are first boiled hard, and the yolks are then removed, crushed, and placed over a fire, where they are carefully stirred until the whole substance is just on the point of catching fire, when the oil separates and may be poured off. One yolk will yield nearly two teaspoonfuls of oil. It is in general use among the colonists of South Russia as a means of curing cuts, bruises, and scratches.

The assertion so frequently made, that it is impossible to arrest the flight of time, is altogether erroneous, for when there is that cannot stop a minute.

THE NEW ORTHODOX CHURCH.

The cellar for the new Congregationalist church is nearly completed, and the framing is to be commenced about the first of June. The chapel is to be ready for occupancy Jan. 1st, 1871, and the building to be completed before April 1st. The old church is to be sold immediately and possession given Jan. 1st.

The new building will be an irregular wooden structure the extreme dimensions of which will be 70x127 feet. The main portion containing the audience room, standing with the front facing the junction of Sea and Hancock streets, and the chapel being in the rear and at right angles to the audience room. The accommodation in front will be a vestibule approached by a doorway in the centre, and a carriage porch on the side, under the large tower. From this vestibule is entered the audience room and the gallery, by a stairway at the end of the vestibule, opposite the carriage porch.

The audience room is to be 48x76 feet, and has one hundred pews, seating six hundred adult persons, aside from the gallery over the vestibules which contains the organ and room for a large choir. There are also two vestibules in the rear connecting with the audience room, chapel, committee rooms and pulpit, all conveniently arranged and to be finished in a handsome and durable manner. Brown ash and black walnut in the audience room and plain ash elsewhere. The roofs of both the audience room and chapel will be open timber work, the former very lofty and of somewhat novel construction. In addition to the above there is to be in the basement a kitchen, and in a half story at one end of the chapel large committee and pastor's rooms.

In the external design the character of gothic architecture has been preserved with an adaptation of its detail to the material to be used, which is wood; and it is contended that this is a point to be commended, for certainly in no other country would forms and details adapted to stone or brick, be so extensively imitated in wood as they have in this.

The front will have a steep gable in the centre, with an aisle or lean-to roof on each side, a large arched doorway in the centre, and the tower on the North corner being open at the base and forming a covered porch for carriages. On the sides are four triplet windows, and dormer windows in the roof. The chapel projects some ten feet, and has a small tower standing diagonally with a doorway protected by a canopy. The end of the chapel forms a gable with a large transomed window lighting the two stories which are at that end.

The roof and spire are to be slated with several colors, arranged in bands and patterns.

No reasonable expense has been spared to provide in an elegant, substantial and complete manner, for all the requirements of the congregation which will occupy the edifice.

Cost of the new structure will be about twenty-five thousand dollars without the land.

Architect.—S. J. F. Thayer, Boston. He makes church architecture quite a specialty, and has built some of the finest churches in Boston and vicinity.

Contractor.—Wm. R. Penniman, of Braintree.

PERSONAL. Mr. George W. Brooks and family have recently returned from New Hampshire, to their pleasant home in this place. Mr. B.'s health, for which he went away little over a year ago, is much improved, and we learn he is about to resume his old business. We congratulate his large patronage that he will be again at their homes, and wish him all his former success.

A BEAUTIFUL THING. The Catholics of West Quincy have on exhibition at the jewelry store of Mr. John O. Holden, a very beautiful granite table, which they wish to dispose of for the benefit of the West Church, which they intend to enlarge. The workmanship is of the most excellent kind, and reflects great credit on the donors. All wishing to see this beautiful and ornamental work would do well to call at Mr. Holden's.

Rev. J. S. Bingham, D. D., of East Boston, will supply the pulpit of the Orthodox Church to-morrow—fortnight and afternoon.

David Brackett, a Newmarket man, father of Mr. Charles C. Brackett, of this town, was probably the largest man that ever lived in New Hampshire. His weight was upwards of 600 pounds.

The Baltimore steamer brought on Monday to Boston 430 crates of strawberries.

BOSTON, MAY 26, 1870.

General Matters.—Congress Imbecility.—State House Matters. No License yet. Boston Lively.—Growing Prosperity of the Quincy Patriot a Fixed Fact.

The world moves very briskly just now. Plots and counterplots of revolution in more than one monarchy of Europe. Anarchy running rife in South America, and a Fenian raid on Canada of formidable dimensions. In the meantime matters in our own country touching national interests, are far from tranquil. The fountains of political party are evidently breaking up in Washington; all growing out of such diverse views on finance, and the methods in payment of the public debt and lessening of taxes. The action of Congress on the subject of reduction of taxes and the funding of our national liabilities, or rather want of judicious action, has disappointed the American people, and called forth severe and unadvised remarks from small portions of the Republican press. The sovereign people are not satisfied with their servants who represent them in the National Legislature. From what we read in the newspapers supporting the present national administration, extensive changes will be made in the Congressional nominations of next autumn.

The days of our State Legislature are drawing to a close, and with a large portion of the members the finale of their days as legislators. Party lines have scarcely been defined on any matter during the session. And no satisfactory License Bill has yet been concocted that would please a majority of the people, or that would make a decent approach towards popular satisfaction. Surely the present statutes have been in no degree successful in putting a stop to the use of intoxicating beverages, or in satisfying either the friends or enemies of ultra or of semi-prohibitory legislation.

I shall speak of the Hartford & Erie Loan in my next.

It is said the Committee on Railroads will report a bill for a branch railway from a point in West Quincy, near Willard's Lodge, to intersect the Old Colony and Newport Railway near the Atlantic Depot, in North Quincy. The route will be less than three miles, and afford great facilities for travel and transportation to the public.

Our city has a gala appearance; immense numbers of visitors here attending the anniversary meetings. Many of the proceedings are very interesting, a notice of which we shall be obliged to omit for want of space.

No better evidence can be given of the growing prosperity of the Quincy Patriot, than the accompanying supplements of your four last numbers. x.

ONE MOVE IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION. The Traveller publishes a paragraph from the New Bedford Standard, that it would be better for Massachusetts to abolish the Board of State Charities, than to sell one of its scholarships.

This would save the ship at the expense of the long boat. It would dispense with the annual rebash of useless and expensive reports of the Board of State Charities, which lumber the shelves of libraries. These heavy columns of statistics do not admit of material variation from year to year, and all requisite information can be obtained from the details of separate institutions.

The Board of Trustees, Inspectors, and other officers which have charge of our Lunatic Asylums, State Prison, Workhouses, Correctional and Reformatory Institutions, are fully competent to manage their respective departments without the cumbersome superstructure of this State Board.

Retrenchment is the watchword to-day. No political party can longer control the sentiment of the voters, unless it gives practical proof of its readiness to reduce the severe burdens of taxation.

The interests of associated capital are now uniting with Labor Leagues in a common effort to induce economy in our public affairs. Party devices and partisan machinery can no longer frustrate the effort.

THE CENSUS. The following gentlemen have been appointed by the United States Marshal, to assist in taking the census of 1870, in this county:—Grantville, George K. Daniell; Dedham, Willard Gay; Jamaica Plain, Amos W. Southwick; Quincy, Frederick H. French, Medway, Stephen J. Metcalf; Wrentham, Wm. W. Cowell; Sharon, Sanford W. Billings; Stoughton, Jesse Holmes; Randolph, Nathaniel Howard; Braintree, David H. Bates.

The steamer Massasoit will commence her regular trips between the Point and Boston on Wednesday next. The omnibus has been very handsomely repaired by Tirrell & Sons, and will carry passengers to and from the boat free of expense.

A FEW NOTES BY THE WAY.

On Saturday morning at half past seven o'clock, April 9th, we left our good old town for the western country. We had a fine day and a pleasant journey through the old Bay State, and arrived in Troy, N. Y., at about five in the afternoon.

On Monday morning we started for Schenectady. The country looked beautifully and we had a fine view of the Mohawk river, arriving at S. at about 8 p. m. A few miles from the city, we passed a small depot, where only a few hours before, a passenger train ran into a freight train, killing the engineer and fireman, and injuring several others. Five or six baggage cars were smashed to atoms, and one passenger car thrown down an embankment; this caused a shudder, I assure you, as we were just starting upon a long journey. But, as trust is our motto, we banished the idea of danger, and looked forward with hope. About noon we arrived at Utica, where the train stopped twenty minutes for dinner. Our next stopping place was Rome, where the Watertown & Montreal railroad branches off. Here was a general rush of passengers, both in and out. About two o'clock we arrived at Syracuse, a large city extending miles, and noted for manufacturing salt. We saw a large number of salt works. The land for the last number of miles, was flooded over the top of five rail fences.

Rochester was the next place of note. There we saw immense water falls. The cars passing over the angry waters just above the Falls about sunset. We had a beautiful ride from there to Buffalo, which we reached at nine o'clock. Here we took a sleeping car, and rested finely for the night—travelling all the time—arriving the next morning about five at Cleveland, Ohio. This city is situated on a very high land, but the morning being quite misty, we could not see all we would. The next beautiful place was Fremont, and then we came to Toledo, a place where many railroads connect. We found refreshments here at very reasonable prices and very palatable, and as our basket was well nigh exhausted, we replenished it for another start.

Adrian is a large manufacturing, lumber and car place. We met a gentleman at La Port well acquainted with Mr. Reed, our brother-in-law. He informed us that a baggage train with a palace car left Chicago, for Milwaukee, consequently we did not stop all night at Chicago. We arrived there at nine o'clock, were taken across the city and waited until eleven. We had splendid accommodation for our family for the night, and all fell asleep soon after starting. We were aroused at six the next morning, having arrived at the great city of Milwaukee.

We were obliged to wait there for the morning train which arrived at one o'clock. Having plenty of time we walked out to see the city; it is finely situated on the Milwaukee and Menomonee rivers, and Lake Michigan. Steamboats run up and down to New York on these waters. Mr. A. has just been to the freight depot, where a car was unloaded of 850 bushels of wheat in five minutes into an elevator, to be again loaded into a steamboat, in as many more minutes. Thus far our incidental expenses have been but trifling including sleeping cars two nights. The Lake Shore route has every possible convenience. I write this for the benefit of those who have never traveled, and who may feel interested in us. It is well worth coming for if one can afford it, to see the country and the cities. We who have lived in Quincy, know but little about it.

The wide extent of prairie land looks beautiful—farms of wheat in many places were as green and soft looking as velvet. Many forest trees have been levelled, and stumps cover thousands of acres; when these are cleared it will be splendid land for cultivation. The western country must be much earlier this season than Massachusetts. We left Milwaukee at one and passed through many flourishing towns, and arrived at Portage at 6 o'clock p. m., when we met our brother-in-law, Mr. Reed, the ticket master. The Wisconsin river was overflowed and we traveled nearly a mile through water where the track could not be seen at all. They have employed men night and day to keep the track from washing away. We spent one week here. The stage road from this place to Baraboo, (a distance of 20 miles), being submerged, for nearly 8 miles. We were finally obliged to take the cars to Kilbuck, and a carriage to Baraboo, from that point in all forty miles. Here is some of the grandest, wildest scenery that I ever witnessed.

The river winds fantastically through high bluffs and rugged rocks, among hills and dales, which encratures one's whole soul while gazing. I shall endeavor to procure some photographic views before I return for they cannot be surpassed.

In my next I will tell you of Baraboo, Lacrosse and Minneapolis, my new home.

THE COMING EVENT.

Feeling interested in the coming Fourth of July celebration, I attended the meeting of the "Antiques and Horribles," at the Lyceum room, on Monday evening last.

In the vicinity of the Town Hall groups of the rising generation were scattered here and there discussing the different styles of dress, etc., with which they should adorn themselves on the morning of the "glorious Fourth." All appeared very wise and thoughtful as they, with their cigars and dignified countenances, conversed together. Cigars are indispensable articles in making young men look wise.

It was nearly eight o'clock when I entered the place of meeting, but seeing no signs of business, I took a seat by the side of a friend and talked on subjects of the day. In a few moments the number of spectators increased very fast. Suddenly a shout of applause burst from the lips of all present, for the speaker of the evening had just then entered the hall. The gentleman evidently appreciated his "cheerful reception," for he returned the compliment by making several low courtesies.

A few moments after the vice president of the association arose from his seat of state behind the desk, and placing his hand in his hand, with his elbow resting on the desk, in a very short but telling speech, called the meeting to order. Lordliness was stamped on every feature of his countenance.

He then called on the speaker of the evening, who, for twenty minutes, thrilled all present with his patriotic and ennobling remarks.

Applause was very liberally bestowed upon him; rising to great enthusiasm when he spoke of the future of cows. After the address the vice president read the records of the previous meeting, at which meeting it seems a lively interest was manifested, and an encouraging number of names were signed to the rolls. With wide-awake young men for leaders the association cannot fail to prosper. The procession of Antiques on the morning of the coming Fourth will surpass anything yet seen in Quincy, as about three hundred persons are expected to join it.

Who cannot look back to the years that are past, and remember the tiresome, unprofitable Fourth he has spent by strolling about from place to place, not knowing how to pass the time away. But with a celebration no better than that of last year, every moment is made thoroughly enjoyable.

At the next meeting of the association let all interested—who is not interested in the celebration of the independence of his country—be present, and assist all in their power in making the Fourth of July celebration in Quincy eclipse all similar attempts in our neighboring towns.

And to those citizens of means, let them give, and give freely of their wealth, and thus keep fresh the patriotic spirit of our good old town, made memorable by the names of Adams and Hancock.

The reader's attention is called to the card of O. M. Tilden in another column. He is a very successful teacher of Organ, Piano and Harmony, and comes highly recommended.

Summary Intelligence.

Walpole and Medfield are the only towns in the county free from debt. The debt of Stoughton is $41,825; of Randolph $81,718.50; of Foxboro $6,230.95; of Weymouth $58,000.

The new track of the Norfolk County Agricultural Society in Hyde Park was opened last Monday as a gentlemen's riding park.

Over 80,000 herrings were caught in East Weymouth last Friday. Each resident receives a quota of 400 free from expense.

Wendell Phillips is to deliver the address at the soldiers' monument in Weymouth on Decoration Day.

There is nothing new under the sun. A Bengali archaeologist has discovered that the chignon, "one third larger than the head," was in vogue in the East hundreds of years ago.

The severe frost, on Tuesday of last week, damaged the cranberry crop to the amount of $150,000.

There were four hundred and ninety-one divorces granted in Connecticut during the year 1869.

The Boston Custom House employs a hundred and fifty returned soldiers and sailors. A majority of these were appointed by the present collector.

Boston ships are loading with ice for India, China and Japan.

It is rumored that the Narragansett Steamship Company intend putting on a line of Sunday night boats to Boston, via Newport and Fall River.

Several cottages at Long Branch have the walls hung with embroidered leather and gay colored silks, instead of paint or paper.

Friend Carver will be prepared, on and after Monday next, to furnish our citizens with his delicious ice creams during the warm summer months, as will be seen by a notice in another column.

PATENT WHITE WIRE CLOTHES LINE

The above article possesses qualities which prevent it from ever corroding or turning from its uniform color during any number of years. It has been found to be the ONLY ARTICLE SUITABLE for a Clothes Line. The old fashioned rope or cord always causes so much trouble and annoyance, by breaking, rotting, and discoloring clothes, and by being obliged to be put up and taken down every time used. With this Wire Clothes Line you have none of these annoyances, and when it is once put up it gives you no more trouble.

SEVEN REASONS Why Every Family SHOULD HAVE ONE OF THESE Everlasting Clothes LINES.

1st—You have never to take it in, no matter what the weather may be, it being perfectly weather proof.

2d—It will last fifty years or more, and during that time a great many rope lines will wear out besides suffering an untold amount of trouble and annoyance with them.

3d—It is the cheapest clothes line in the world, a rope line will cost fully one-half as much as this wire, and will last with good care, only about one year, while this will last a life time.

4th—You cannot load it heavy enough with clothes to break it, 1500 lbs. being its breaking weight.

5th—It does not in any way decay or injure the clothes and they never freeze to it. The finest fabrics can be removed in the coldest weather without injury. This is a decided advantage over rope lines.

6th—It will save its price in saving your clothes every six months you own it.

7th—Last though not least this wire will save your clothes posts as well as your clothes. You may set posts ever so firmly and the shrinking of a rope will pull them loose. Who ever saw clothes posts three months set that were not sagging in all directions. Not so when this wire is used, for it does not shrink, and posts will stand erect and firm till they rot off.

Money refunded if not found perfectly satisfactory after thorough trial.

NEW STORE

AND NEW GOODS.

The New England Carpet Company.
In the old feudal times, in great Britain, a Baron had to be content with a straw bed and bare floors. The refining influences of education, particularly an intercourse with foreign nations, gradually introduced tapestries, which were made entirely by hand. And now, by the aid of powerful and perfect machinery, carpets are universal.

We have, at the special request of the New England Carpet Company, paid a visit to their new and extensive wholesale and retail warehouse, 78, 80, and 82 FRIEND STREET, BOSTON. The company's warehouse was until lately on the corner of Hanover and Elm streets, but the improvements which are now being made to the former necessitated the removal of the warehouse. After a continued search they discovered their present building on Friend street, which was just sprouting into an existence. Arrangements were successfully made for a lease of twenty years, and the interior arrangements were perfected under the immediate instruction and supervision of the firm. By so doing they have obtained the most complete carpet establishment in the country. For a quarter of a century the firm has done an extensively increasing business, and had Hanover street not been widened they would have been compelled to remove on account of their insufficient premises.

The present magnificent building gives an entrance by four different doors to the warehouse, 75 by 65 feet which contains a fine stock of Oil Cloths, Ingrains, Harth Rugs and Brussels. At the further end of the room, light is let in from a skylight running across the whole. This light, by the aid of glass which has been placed in as flooring, at an expense of one thousand dollars, affords a fine light to an extensive cellar beneath. The rest of the flooring here, and all through the building, is of hard pine. There is a finely carved oak counting desk here, which is very attractive. Around the walls, hearth rugs are hung which add also to the effect. The walls, superbly white, gay when unadorned, are splendid with their tapestrial ornaments. The room is lofty, airy, light and pleasant in every way. An elevator runs through the building from the cellar to garret.

Descending we look over the basement which is so finely lighted, as stated, that one could easily believe it to be a top floor. The Oil Cloths, China and Cocoon Matting, of which they sell considerable, are stored here.

Mounting again, we entered the second floor, where Ingrains and two and three ply carpets are kept. On the third floor we find Velvets, Brussels, Tapestries, and the higher grades; and on the fourth floor the carpets are sewn and stored. On the fifth Cocoa and China Matting, are stored.

The company makes a specialty of INGRAINS, TAPESTRIES, OIL CLOTHS and CANTON MATTINGS, and they keep a large stock of these goods on hand.

The TAPESTRIES and BRUSSELS, they import directly from the old country, and they often take all the manufactured goods of a certain pattern from the manufacturer by special contract.

A large capital at their command enables them also to enter into the market and make advantageous purchases at an opportune moment. They purchase also largely from the New York auction trade sales.

When a pattern is presented to them by a manufacturer which they think will command a good sale, they, by the aid of their capital, buy up the whole of the stock, and they thus obtain the exclusive right of the sale. It enables them also to sell at the lowest prices, and to keep their numerous customers supplied with attractive bargains. Their wholesale trade is large.

Their retail business is also very extensive, as they give every opportunity to the customer to display any peculiarity of taste, and have it gratified by reason of their large stock.

The light of the rooms can be regulated by curtains, and a purchaser can certainly see what he is buying here. Though some large heavy bales were being moved in the warehouse when we were there, not the slightest noise was perceptible, and the general quietude of the place, in spite of over twenty persons moving about in a room, was remarkable.

Gentlemanly attendants are on hand to look after customers, and goods can be found which can but bring forth signs of admiration from the visitor.

The establishment in short is complete in every way, and we doubt if there is one in the country which can surpass it.

Read the advertisement of Bennett & Co., in our columns to-day. Their stock is immense, and their prices very reasonable.

Col. Marshall P. Wilder, so says the Massachusetts Ploughman, predicts one of the most noted fruit years in the last ten.

Ladies suits and dresses in stylish designs and fully trimmed are now selling by G. L. Ide, Carter & Co., 35 Temple Place, Boston, for less money than is usually paid for the materials in a common dress.

GROCERIES. Read the advertisement of C. D. Cobb & Bros., in to-day's issue. Their prices for teas, coffees, and all kinds of groceries, are very low, which is owing partly to their immense trade. Our readers, when visiting the city, are invited to give them a call, and they will find the largest stock they ever saw in a retail store.

The Legislative Finance Committee reported against the passage of the bill providing a further loan of $3,500,000, in addition to the original loan of $5,000,000, to the Boston, Hartford and Erie Railroad Company. They find nothing in the present condition of this enterprise to justify any legislation, other than that which looks to the immediate winding up of its affairs.

Poetry.

ONE YEAR NEARER HOME.

Oh! bells, that in your turret swing,
What is the burden that ye sing
To men who to earth's phantom's cling,
As through the world they roam?
It is, that have'er bright the eye,
However sweet be love's pure tie,
Or beat the heart with fond hopes high,
We're one year nearer home!

A twelvemonth nearer to the crown,
When life shall lay its burdens down;
To bear no more earth's smiles or frowns,
That to all mortals come;
To those bowed down with grief or care—
To homeless, suffering, everywhere—
How sweet the message that ye bear—
We're one year nearer home!

Farmers' Department.

THE CURRANT WORM.

The miller that deposits the egg is about the size of the common bee miller, with broader wings, and of a dark brown color. They deposit their eggs about the 10th to the 15th of June, on the under side of the leaves, generally on the new suckers, and close to the ground. The eggs are white, and glued to the stem and branch stems of the leaf, in a row, the ends nearly touching—there being sometimes one hundred on a single leaf. They hatch in three or four days, the young worm crawling from the stem to the thin part of the leaf, where it at once begins its work of devastation, being invariably blessed with a ravenous appetite. The first indications of their presence will be seen in the leaf in which they were hatched, being pierced with holes about the size of a pin head, each worm making a separate hole. They continue to gnaw round and round until the several holes meet, and the leaf is entirely consumed, when they all emigrate in a body to the leaf above, which soon disappears, and so on, leaving nothing but the withered stems behind them. After following up to the top of the sprout they started on, they then separate, and go off on to different branches of the bush. They live about twenty-five or thirty days on the bush, when they fall to the ground, change to the chrysalis form, work themselves into the ground, and there remain until about the first of next June, when they re-appear in the form of a perfect miller, to repeat the operation of the year before.

My method of fighting these plagues is as follows: Keep close watch of the bushes after they are fully leaved out, examining very closely the lower leaves on the new shoots, and as soon as you see one that is perforated with small holes, pick it and drop it into an old pail, and so go over all the bushes carefully every other day, as long as the worms continue to hatch, which will be about two or three weeks, and burning the leaves plucked. Be sure and pick, each time going over the bush, every leaf gnawed by the worms.—M. Wardner.

CLEANSE YOUR PREMISES.

The warm weather is here, and it behooves every citizen to cleanse his premises of all offensive matter in order that they may become pure and healthy.—There is no doubt at all that a great deal of sickness visiting families proceeds from filthy cellars, sinks, yards, outhouses, styes, &c. These things are neglected by many as other duties from pure thoughtlessness, while others never dream of paying any attention to them. There are several remedies for this most unhealthy condition of things that can be easily applied. The first is to put a pint of the liquor of chloride of zinc in one bucketful of water, and one pound of chloride of lime in another bucketful of water, add and sprinkle over decayed vegetable matter. For this purpose nothing surpasses it; indeed it is a perfect deodorizer. The second is to take four pounds of sulphate of iron or copperas and dissolve it in a bucketful of water. This will in most cases prove a sure remedy in destroying all offensive odors. The third is to take simple chloride of iron and sprinkle in damp cellars, heaps of filth, dirty yards, &c., &c. The labor of cleansing one's premises by either of these remedies is trifling, and the expense is not worth mentioning. If it were ten times greater, both the labor and expense should be willingly incurred.

Incidents.

"Can't pass, marm," said a stern sentinel of the Navy Yard to an officer's lady.
"But, sir, I must pass; I'm Captain W.'s lady," was the reply.
"Can't help it, marm—couldn't let you in if you were his wife."
"Now s'posin' you were to be turned into an animal," said Jim, "what would you like to be, Bill?"
"I'd be a lion," replied Bill, "because he's so—"
"O, no, don't be a lion, Bill," interrupted little Tom, who had some recent painful experience at school; "be a wasp and then you can sting the schoolmaster."

QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY, MAY 28, 1870.

WATCH AND PRAY.

Parson Buxby was an eccentric preacher, located not a thousand miles from Rochester. The parson had a weakness; it was the love of Johnny-cake baked in Western fashion, on a board leaning at an angle of forty-five degrees from the fire. And of all Johnny-cake bakers, old Nancy Jeems, one of his flock, was the best.

One day the parson was making his round of calls and of course proceeded to call on Nancy. On entering, the old lady gave him a friendly greeting in a hearty hand shaking, saying as she did so:—

"Well, now, Brother Buxby, 'peared to me all the morning as if you were a coming! I've just put up a Johnny-cake, and ye'll stop and help me eat it."

Of course he assented—but proposed in the meanwhile, to have a prayer, having as much an eye to Nancy's spiritual comfort as she had to his physical.

Accordingly they both knelt, he with his face towards the fire—she with her back towards it. Brother Buxby had an elegant outpouring, but while under full headway the cake began to burn, and he saw it! He hurried over the remainder bringing out the Amen like the crack of a whip, and then adding to it in the very same breath: "Sister Nancy, your Johnny-cake's a-burning up."

She turned to remedy the evil, when he remarked:—"Sister Nancy, you should have watched the cake."

"But Brother Buxby, I was attending to the prayer."

"Aye, aye!" said he; "Scripture, you know, says you should both watch and pray."

SUSPICION. Anybody can soil the reputation of an individual, however pure and chaste, by uttering a suspicion which his enemies will believe and his friends never hear of. A puff of idle wind can take up a million of the seeds of the thistle, and do a work of mischief which the husbandman must labor long and hard to undo; the floating particles being too light to be seen and too light to be stopped.

Kisses, like the faces of philosophers, vary. Some are hot as a coal of fire, some as sweet as honey, some as milk, some as tasteless as long-drawn soda. Stolen kisses are said to have more nutmeg and cream than any other sort. So saith a Fanny-fernal.

"You spt of a fellow!" exclaimed a poor woman to her husband; "you are always at the public house getting drunk with hot purl, while I am at home with nothing but cold water"

"Cold, you silly jade!" hiccuped the husband, "why don't you warm it?"

"My boy what does your mother do for a living?" was asked of a barefooted urchin. "She eats cold victuals sir."

EWELL'S BLOOD PURIFIER AND Stomach Tonic.

A CURE for all weaknesses of the Stomach, inducing a good appetite; removes all troubles of the Liver and Kidneys, and purifies the blood of humors.

It may be found at all the principal Druggists and Grocers, put up in FULL QUART BOTTLES, for the price of

ONE DOLLAR.

TESTIMONIALS.

I am familiar with Ewell's Blood Purifier and Stomach Tonic—my acquaintance with it being nearly equal with the existence of the article. It is composed entirely of herbs, being a collection of those most commonly used as family medicines, and prescribed by physicians when they employ vegetable remedies. The virtues are extracted by decoction and infusion, and not by distillation. It contains no anodyne or narcotic, nor any poisonous or deleterious ingredient.

I have been so favored in respect to health, as not to have occasion to use that or any other medicine. But I am so situated as unavoidable to learn its effects upon those who do use it; and from such I hear, as it were, daily, the most commendatory testimony concerning it. In one word, then, my long acquaintance with the above named medicine, my knowledge of its ingredients and process of manufacture, and the uniform and extensive testimony to its excellencies which I hear from those who have tested its virtues, warrant me in expressing a confidence that those who use it will find it to perform all that the manufacturer promises in its behalf.

New Haven, August, 1869. GEORGE BECKWITH.

To those wishing to use Ewell's Stomach Tonic and Blood Purifier:

My confidence in the integrity of its compound and a knowledge of its success as a remedy demands my approval. H. COLE.

Originator of Cole's Cough Balsam and Dyspepsia Cure.

I take pleasure in recommending Mr. Ewell's Syrup, it having been used in my family for some time past, as we think, with good results. I believe it to be as stated a purifier of the blood and thereby removing the causes of so many diseases which afflict the human system.

PATENT WHITE WIRE

CLOTHESLINE

The above article possesses qualities

which prevent it from ever corroding or turning from its uniform color during any number of years. It has been found to be the ONLY ARTICLE SUITABLE

for a Clothes Line.

The old fashioned rope or cord always

causes so much trouble and annoyance,

by breaking, rotting, and discoloring

clothes, and by being obliged to be put up and taken down every time used.

With this Wire Clothes Line you have

none of these annoyances, and when it is once put up it gives you no more trouble.

SEVEN REASONS

Why Every Family

SHOULD HAVE ONE

OF THESE

Everlasting Clothes

LINES.

1st—You have never to take it in, no matter what the weather may be, it being perfectly weather proof.

2d—It will last fifty years or more, and during that time a great many rope lines will wear

besides suffering an untold amount of trouble

and annoyance with them.

3d—It is the cheapest clothes line in the world, a rope line will cost fully one-half as much as

this wire, and will last with good care, only about one year, while this will last a life time.

4th—You cannot load it heavy enough with clothes to break it, 1500 lbs. being its breaking weight.

5th—It does not in any way discolor or injure the clothes and they never freeze to it. The finest fabrics can be removed in the coldest weather without injury. This is a decided advantage over rope lines.

6th—It will save its price in saving your clothes every six months you own it.

7th—Last though not least this wire will save your clothes as well as your money. You may set posts so far apart and the shrinking of a rope will pull them loose. Who ever saw clothes posts three months set that were not sagging in all directions. Not so when this wire is used, for it does not shrink, and posts will stand erect and firm till they rot.

Money refunded if not found perfectly satisfactory after thorough trial.

or at the Post Office will receive prompt attention.

Her voice is like the voice of bees,

SATURDAY, JUNE 4, 1870.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

DECORATION DAY AND SERVICES.

No town suburban to Boston, probably witnessed a finer display, or more enthusiastically entered into the work of decorating the graves of our loyal dead, than did Quincy last Monday, under the auspices of Post No. 88, of the Grand Army of the Republic. The whole was under the charge of Commandant Porter, whose happy management largely contributed to the order and success of the enterprise. In answer to notices given the previous Sunday from the pulpit, and through officers and members of the Post, and the Press, hosts of women gathered in Revere Hall on Saturday and Monday to make wreaths, and flowers were generously given by all, so that the Post were amply provided with bouquets, with which to load the graves of their fallen comrades.

The Post formed soon after 1 o'clock, on Hancock street, escorted by the McClellan Guards, Capt. Boyd in command, and proceeded by the Quincy Band, and first marched to the Episcopal Cemetery on School street, where the grave of Edward Cain, was decorated, the Band playing a dirge. The column then marched through Phipps, Liberty, Elm, Washington and Codding streets, to Mt. Wollaston Cemetery, where the main exercises were performed.

On arriving at the monument the column halted. Squads were then sent out to various parts of the grounds, and forty-nine graves were perfectly loaded with wreaths and bouquets, the Band meanwhile playing solemn dirges. There were not many dry eyes during this time among the large concourse of citizens. After the squads of the Post had finished this sadly pleasant duty, they were formed in line at the west of the monument, when Commandant Porter, briefly, but felicitously addressed the soldiers and citizens present, and announced the order of exercises, and introduced the Chaplain of the day, Rev. Mr. Kelly, who, with a heart full of deep feeling, and in words of fitting sympathy, offered prayer and invoked the Divine blessing upon the living in memory of the dead.

The following appropriate song was then sung by a quartette club, composed of Mr. D. L. F. Chase, Mrs. C. T. Reed, Mrs. H. B. Brown and comrade H. B. Brown, in a very touching manner:

When flowery Summer is at hand,
And Spring has gemm'd the earth with bloom,
We hither bring with loving hands,
Bright flowers to deck our soldiers' tomb.

CHORUS: Gentle birds, &c.
Gentle birds above are sweetly singing
O'er the graves of heroes brave and true;
While the sweetest flowers we are bringing,
Wreath'd in garlands of red, white and blue.

They died our country to redeem,
And from the loving earth we bring
The wealth of hill, and vale, and stream,
Our grateful land's best offering.

CHORUS: Gentle birds, &c.
With snowy hawthorn, clusters white,
Fair violets of heaven's blue,
And early roses, fresh and bright,
We wreath the red, and white and blue.

CHORUS: Gentle birds, &c.
But purer than the fairest flowers,
We strew above the honored dead,
The tender changefulness of ours,
That decks the soldier's lonely bed.

CHORUS: Gentle birds, &c.
We bend and kiss the precious sod,
Swift fall our tears the graves above,
Oh! brothers from the hills of God,
Look down and see our changeful love.

CHORUS: Gentle birds, &c.
Rev. Mr. Skinner was then introduced as the orator of the day. Mr. Skinner was commissioned early in the war to recruit and muster men, and helped raise three regiments in New York State; raising one company for the 34th, New York, Col. LaDue; the 91st, Col. O. B. Pierce, and the 97th, New York, Col. Class. Wheelock, with which he went to Washington for duty, until disabled and honorably discharged by reason of disease contracted in the service. His remarks were briefly and in substance as follows:—

Comrades of Post No. 88, Soldiers, Ladies and Gentlemen—Never before, in the progress of civilization, did the sun look down upon such a scene as this. Never before in the history of our race did citizen soldiers rush to arms to engage in such a war, as that in which those whose graves we to-day consecrate, gave up their lives. Often, in other ages, men have gone into battle and perished themselves amid the dangers of martial conflict to sustain rival Princes or opposing dynasties. But this was a war of ideas. There our comrades fell in defence of a grand principle—the right of every man to just and equal protection as a citizen before the law, to all that is inalienable in human nature, as announced in the Declaration of Independence: "To life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." And this day is sacred to that phase of patriotism expressed by loyalty to the country, as opposed to any servile and rebellious faction. We consecrate these graves with hallowed and softened feelings, laying on them these beautiful tributes of our affectionate remembrance, not only to testify our emotion to their special occupants, but we would remember all who suffered in this war.

1st. We remember those who taking their lives in their hands went boldly to the front, and bravely fell in the minis ball made its horrid music in the air, and the bursting shell did its awful work of carnage, and the cannon shot mowed our loyal ranks into winnows of dead. They went out into the eternal world amid the awful scenes of battle, and—may we believe—have entered into the light and peace of the better world!

2d. We remember those who receiving honorable wounds lingered and died in the field and in our hospitals. Often these suffered a lingering death, worse by far than the quick death in the thickest of the battle.

3d. We remember those who died in those slaughter pens of the South called military prisons. And to-day we weep for these our comrades with a grief hallowed by peculiar emotions, in that they felt fighting for our new civilization to wipe out from our civil polity that accursed phase of barbarism that instigated the rebellion, and that could enact the terrible cruelties of Andersonville. It is a glory to suffer or die in such a cause.

4th. We also remember those permitted to return, to suffer, linger and die from diseases contracted in the service. May a helpful sympathy minister to all such as they have just need. And may all considerations of party be forever forgotten, that these wounded men may have all suitable places in the civil offices of the country.

5th. We also remember the unknown dead. Those who now fill nameless graves. No wreath can we lay on their resting places. No loving friend, wife, child or comrade, can decorate the places of their rest. He recited at this point an incident of army experience, of a prisoner returned for exchange, who was starved until he was moribund, and who had to be buried—among the nameless dead—from the careless manner of keeping the accounts and names of prisoners by those in rebel authority.

He concluded by saying—martyrs for liberty, they fell to maintain our republican institutions. We weep for the bereaved who remain; but we decorate their graves with tender and loving memories, grateful to Almighty God that they died for the cause of humanity and freedom! And may the example of him who, as the great leader of the loyal cause, went out of the shadows of that terrible conflict by the assassin's hand, "with malice toward none and charity for all," ever more hallow to us the self-sacrificing patriotism of these our fallen comrades. And may every heart rejoice that that which instigated the rebellion and ordained such cruelties to our prisoners, is now wiped out forever by the blood of these fallen comrades.

A poem written by Wm. S. Morton, Esq., was then read by Mr. Charles H. Porter.

After the oration and poem a few fitting remarks were made by Commandant Porter, when the column moved to the old cemetery at the centre of the town, and the graves there decorated, the Band playing a dirge.

The Post, Soldiers and Band then took teams that had been provided, and went to the west part of the town where the comrades of the Catholic faith chiefly are buried, and the services were the same as before, excepting any singing and oration. The Rev. Father Francis said the prayers of the Church for the dead, in a low voice and in Latin, as is the custom of that church. In this the Catholics were reverently interested, for it is well-known that prayer with them is always addressed to God and not to men, and everywhere in the Latin-tongue that was unmeaning to Protestants, was however entirely real to the large number of devout Catholics present; and may those low uttered words of prayer for the peace of souls, be heard by God and be duly answered, is our most earnest wish.

The column then broke ranks by the Willard School House. But the Band with a squad of the Post, went in carrying to the Sailors' Home, and there fittingly closed the touching exercises of the day. It was a sight to see the enthusiasm of the inmates of the Home as the Band played, after decorating the graves, the familiar air—
"Down with the traitor,
Up with the stars—
Shouting the battle cry of freedom!"
They gave three rousing cheers as the Post left.

The Quincy Brass Band performed their duties throughout the afternoon in a very creditable manner, and were an honor to their organization.

The officers of Paul Revere Post, No. 88, are Charles H. Porter, Commander; Daniel F. French, Sr. Vice Commander; John A. Pratt, Jr. Vice Commander; E. W. Underwood, Adjutant; Henry Lunt, Quartermaster; Carlton H. Roundy, Surgeon; George W. Ripley, Chaplain; James W. Thayer, Serg't Major; John W. Moore, Quartermaster Serg't; Warren W. Adams, Officer of the Day; Warren Dunbar, Officer of the Guard.

Nothing occurred to mar the day, unless it was an accident that came near being a serious one, as Mr. Washington M. French was driving Commandant Porter, Mr. Skinner and a member of the press home. Mr. Porter had just left the carriage, when some of the harness gave way and the horses became unmanageable, and ran furiously toward the Hancock House. Mr. Skinner and the reporter jumped from the vehicle without much or any harm, but Mr. French was violently thrown from the carriage near his stable and badly bruised, though we are happy to say no bones were broken. It was a narrow escape. We regret to say that one of the valuable horses was, we fear, rendered worthless, and the beautiful carriage badly smashed.

RELIGIOUS MEETINGS. There will be held a series of these services in the Universalist Church, on next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, to be conducted by various visiting clergymen. There will be a short sermon each night, to be followed by a free conference.

Revs. Mr. Patterson of Roxbury, Mr. White, of East Boston, McGurie, of Cambridge, J. H. Chapin, of Boston, and Baker of Weymouth are among the number that will be present. The object of these missionary meetings, is to awaken and deepen religious feelings in the several parishes of the denomination.

Mr. M. A. Swift, Superintendent of the Wollaston Union Sunday School of this town, received on Monday last a check for thirty dollars from Mr. Henry H. Faxon, for the benefit of said school. We also notice by the Hyde Park Journal of last week, that Mr. Faxon had given quite a handsome sum to one of the Sabbath Schools in that town. Such liberality on the part of any one man towards the schools of the various denominations was never before known in our midst; and if the money which is so freely bestowed by Mr. F., be judiciously used, we believe he will have the pleasure of seeing great good come from it.

APPOINTMENT. Mr. Elisha Thayer, of Braintree, has been appointed Justice of the Peace, for this county.

REAL ESTATE SALE.—Cottage house and about 3/4 acre of land on Quincy Avenue, owned by Henry H. Faxon, to Cornelius Kalihar, for $1925.

THOUSANDS OF PROMISING YOUTHS, of both sexes, go down to untimely graves from general debility and weakness, who might be saved by fortifying their systems with iron. The Peruvian Syrup is an Iron Tonic, prepared expressly to supply the vitalizing element, and is the only preparation of Iron that will assimilate at once with the blood.

SHIP BUILDING AT GERMANTOWN.

At Germantown, in Quincy, on 21st September, 1789, the large ship "Massachusetts" was launched. The launch was a noted event; a ship of 900 tons being a large vessel in those days. The master builder was Daniel Briggs, a capable business man and skillful mechanic. His son, we believe, is now resident in Milton. The family always sustained a high reputation in this department of enterprise. There were five brothers, all of whom were employed upon the "Massachusetts." Enos Briggs built the Essex frigate at Salem. After Daniel finished the "Massachusetts" he continued the business of building first class vessels, on the Neponset river, till 1815. In foreign ports, the ship that was constructed at Germantown, attracted much notice on account of her fine model and workmanship. When she sailed from Germantown for Boston, under jury masts, she was the largest merchant vessel built at that time in the United States. In 1790 she weighed anchor off Hancock's wharf. She had more than three crews shipped before she sailed. Moll Pitcher, the noted fortune teller at Lynn, had predicted that the ship and all on board of her, would be lost. Superstition operated upon the fears of the sailors, and they refused to embark on the voyage. It is remarkable that this class of men, who prove brave and fearless in the presence of real perils, are so easily disturbed by prophecies or stories of ghosts and apparitions. At whatever ports our American vessels touched, they found the fame of Moll Pitcher had preceded them. Mary Pitcher was the wife of a shoemaker. She reached a good old age and died about the year 1813. She was a person of good address, quick perceptions and keen discernment, and derived a fair income from the art of fortune telling. The high and low, rich and poor, learned and ignorant, sought her humble dwelling, to consult on affairs relating to business, love or fortune. She did not claim, however, any special exaltation of supernatural gifts. When asked which ticket in a lottery would draw the prize, her reply was, "If I knew I should buy it myself."

Captain Delano says that in 1787 he commanded the ship Jane, belonging to Benjamin Beale of Quincy, and the vessel had the reputation of being haunted. It was impossible to persuade the sailors that ghosts had not been seen on board the Jane, although he tried every experiment which reason or ridicule could suggest to disabuse their minds of this impression. They had the most implicit belief that old women were invested with supernatural powers, and that at their bidding, and for the most insignificant purposes, the laws of nature and providence would be at once reversed.

THE SAILORS' SNUG HARBOR. The annual meeting of the trustees of the Sailors' Snug Harbor, was held in Boston, on Tuesday, when the following officers were elected:—President, Albert Fearing; Treasurer, W. A. Wellman; Secretary, J. Francis Tuckerman, Executive Committee, Albert Fearing, R. B. Forbes, George B. Upton, R. B. Storor, A. T. Hall.

BRAINTREE. Gen. Sylvanus Thayer, of Braintree, the builder of Fort Warren, and for a long time head of West Point Academy, has offered to give $10,000, to his native town for a public library, if his fellow citizens will appropriate a like sum for that purpose; and he moreover offers to lend the town its appropriation at six per cent interest, besides contributing $10,000 more for the maintenance of the library when established.

Throughout the whole country the services next Sunday in all the churches of the Universalist denomination will relate to the work of this century year. Next Sunday afternoon the Pastor of the Universalist Church, here will present this matter in his discourse—his theme being—the origin, doctrines and work of the church.

We would call the attention of our readers to the large sale of household furniture, on Tuesday next, at Mrs. Prince's, on Washington street.

The Old Building in Dock Square. For nine score years or thereabout, 'Tis stood the public gaze,
But now 'tis sands are running out,
And soon will end its race.
We love to view thy stately form,
Where thou so long hast stood,
To think how thou hast braved the storm,
And stemmed the sweeping flood.
We're glad to see thee doing good,
Alike to friends and foes,
And from thy counters, somewhat phide, Dispensing Summer "Clothes";
Where Richards, as by all 'tis known,
Sells lower than any man is town.

UNITED STATES CENSUS. On Wednesday last the assistant marshalls set out upon their work of enumerating the inhabitants of this "Universal Yankee nation." Their task is not a very pleasant one at least, consequently it behooves every one, the heads of families in particular to render them all the assistance in their power by treating them civilly and answering promptly and truthfully all questions they may ask relating to their official duty. The marshalls are obliged to keep all information received perfectly private, and in case they should reveal any statement, they are liable to a heavy fine. The marshalls have three months to complete their work, and the amount of information they are expected to collect in that time is immense. Frederick H. French, is the Assistant Marshal for this district, which includes Quincy and Milton, and David H. Bates for Weymouth and Braintree.

FIRST CHURCH. The Annual Floral Festival of the Sunday School will be held to-morrow afternoon, at half past three o'clock. Mr. William H. Baldwin, President of the Boston Young Men's Christian Union, will give the address. At the Vesper Service Mr. Baldwin will deliver an Address to the young. All persons interested are cordially invited.

IMPROVEMENTS.—Messrs. Abbott & Son are having as much work as they can attend to in laying their new concrete walks at various residences in this place. It is much liked by our citizens, and all who have tried it speak in terms of general satisfaction. Gov. Harriman, the Mayor of Concord, N. H., and other prominent men of that city, where it has been used for eight years, recommend it for sidewalks, street crossings and driveways. There are many crossings in our streets which would be much improved by it. We hope we may see some of it used in some of the worst places, at least this summer.

The United States Senate has voted to pay female clerks the same salary as males.

Poetry.

SPEAK NOT IN HASTE.

Time to me this truth hath taught—
 'Tis a truth that's worth revealing—
 More often from want of thought,
 Than from any want of feeling.
 If advice we would convey,
 There's a time we should convey it;
 If we're but a word to say,
 There's a time in which to say it!

Many a beautiful flower decays,
 Though we tend it e'er so much;
 Something secret on it preys,
 Which no human aid can touch.
 So, in many a lovely breast,
 Lies some cancer-grief concealed;
 That, if touched, is more oppressed;
 Left unto itself, is healed.

Oh, unknowingly, the tongue
 Touches on a chord so achingly,
 That a word, or accent, wrong,
 Pains the heart almost to breaking,
 Many a tear of wounded pride,
 Many a fault of human blindness,
 Has been smoothed, or turned aside,
 By a quiet voice of kindness!

Time to me this truth hath taught—
 'Tis a truth that's worth revealing—
 More often from want of thought,
 Than from any want of feeling.

Farmers' Department.

Green Crops for Hens and Horses.

The farmer whose pastures are so luxuriant that his cattle and horses find abundant food from May to November, in the open fields, may possibly dispense with green crops for fodder; but not so with the majority. During the hot days of summer the grass dries up, and their beasts suffer for nutritious food, unless there have been provided a supply of sowed corn, oats, millet or lucerne, which can be cut daily and fed to them in the stables. Milch cows which are fed abundantly with this food, will almost invariably not their owners one-third more money during the season than they would if forced to depend on pasture alone; and horses, too, when similarly fed, will grow fat and sleek in a surprisingly short space of time. Last summer we took a large horse that had been running idly in pasture, and losing flesh daily—stabled and fed him with green sweet corn, and in two or three weeks he became "as fat as butter," and might have been sold for $100 more than he would have brought when taken from the pasture.

We have generally sown sugar corn in drills for a soiling crop; it makes excellent feed, and although it yields less in quantity, it is more nutritious than common white or yellow corn fodder. The southern white corn, however, is greatly prized as a green crop by many farmers, and is used almost exclusively in many parts of this State for that purpose. Many of our readers report very favorably in regard to millet; a few have tried lucerne, and like it; others use oats and Canada peas mixed, for soiling cattle. All grow well on proper soil, and we again remind our readers that it is wise to sow at least one of these crops for summer fodder.—Maine Farmer.

THINNING OUT PLANTS.

A great deal of injury to garden crops arises from allowing the plants to stand too close together. In the first place much seed is wasted, and in the second the bulbs, heads, etc., never attain the size to which they would if they had plenty of room and abundance of air and light. The roots of each plant should not be encroached on by those of another, neither should the branches or foliage interfere. We extirpate weeds because they absorb the ingredients of the soil which are required for the crops, yet we allow superfluous plants to rob the soil of all its useful ingredients. One large bulb, root or tuber generally weighs as much as three or four small ones, so that it is a mistake to suppose that a greater number of small plants in the same space, will be equal to a lesser number of large ones.

Vegetables should be thinned before the plants grow large and spindling, as these which are to remain will then have room to extend their roots and tops and to grow strong and vigorous.—Western Rural.

THE FINE ARTS.

The materialistic tendencies of our age are not favorable to the growth of art. Too many, like Theodore Parker, say that "the fine arts do not so much interest me as the coarse arts, which feed, clothe and comfort a people." But man has a brain as well as a belly; aesthetic taste as well as gastric juice. The one needs nutriment as much as the other. The Great Father has rebuked the greedy passion for luxury, dress and appetite, by saying:—"Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat," &c.; and every wise man sees the need of mental culture, as well as that of "the coarse arts."

Our people, however, cannot at once appreciate the wealth of art and literature without training. There are recreative walks that may allure, which ultimately conduct to profounder investigations. We have been led to this train of thought by examining Aroine's Anecdotes of Literature and the Fine Arts, the direct tendency of which is to foster the tastes to which we allude. In this volume, Gould and Lincoln present 3040 gems from olden and newly discovered mines, conveniently classified with a copious index for reference; the whole forming a rich library for any family. Beguiling the solitary and enlivening the social hour, it is a work that must be a welcome guest in every home, and will awaken among old and young a love for a higher style of reading than generally prevails. Not only grave reflections and generous emotions are roused, but sallies of wit and flashes of genius exultate and amuse, while it unconsciously draws to a more thorough knowledge of those studies and arts, of which these are but the external adornments.

Economy is Wealth.

N. B. FURNALD.

The building for the Great Musical Jubilee in New York will have a clear length of four hundred and thirty feet, and a width of two hundred, unobstructed in any way by pillars or obstacles. The roof makes a clear span from wall to wall, and is supported by immense iron arches, which converge and join together at a height of one hundred feet from the ground. The building itself is of corrugated iron, and, it is said, possesses great durability, and at the same time resonance, giving acoustic properties that may be reckoned as almost wonderful in such a space. The area of the structure is eighty-six thousand square feet, and giving four and a half feet to each person, the building will with ease accommodate twenty thousand persons sitting. The stage will be one hundred and fifteen by one hundred and eighty feet, and will seat an orchestra of eight hundred musicians and a chorus of three thousand five hundred persons.

THE INCOME TAX. The new bill reported by General Schenck, Chairman of Ways and Means Committee, repeals all taxes on legacies and successions, on the gross receipts of the incorporated companies and different branches of business, except lotteries, theatres and places of amusement; and all special taxes on liquor dealers and distillers, manufacturers of and dealers in tobacco; on banks and bankers, foreign commercial brokers, &c., &c. And it exempts $1500 of income from taxation. This should have been $2000, and the percentage, instead of being as now (5 per cent.) should have been as low as 3 per cent. We are glad that so much has been gained, although we hoped that the whole matter would have been abolished.

Interesting Selections.

GREEN GOOSEBERRY PUDDING. Line a tart-dish with light puff-paste; boil for a quarter of an hour one quart of gooseberries with eight ounces of sugar and a teacupful of water. Beat the fruit up with three ounces of fresh butter, the yolks of three well-beaten eggs, and the grated crumb of a stale roll. These should be added when the fruit is cold. Pour the mixture into the dish, and bake the pudding from half to three-quarters of an hour.

BOILED BROWN BREAD. Two cups Indian meal, two cups of rye meal, one cup of flour, two-thirds of a cup molasses, with a full teaspoon of soda stirred into it until it foams. Half a pint of milk and a little salt. Boil four hours.

WET THROUGH. A gentleman mentioned to a witty friend that he had been caught in the rain, and was wet through. "Are you really wet through?" said the wit. "I was never wet through in my life—never further than the skin."

An experiment in France proves that a horse will live for twenty-four days on water alone.

The worst sold man in the country is said to live in Rochester, N. Y. For seventeen years he has been regularly winding his clock every night before retiring, and to his utter astonishment he discovered, last week, that it was an eight-day clock.

College students have a legend of a mechanical and perhaps sleepy parson at morning prayers, who prayed that "the inefficient may be made efficient, the intemperate temperate, and the industrious drowsy."

A lengthy article and a sensible one also, which we have recently seen on "How to be Handsome," may be thus briefly condensed: Keep clean; eat regularly and sleep enough; take care of your teeth; sleep in a cold room, in pure air; think and read, talk with people who know something, and thus wake up mind and soul.

True eloquence consists in saying all that is necessary, and nothing but what is necessary.

Hint to a lover—To succeed as a suitor you must suit her well.

In Germany, while it is perfectly proper for a young lady to go home alone through the streets in the evening, it would be highly improper for a young gentleman to accompany her.

Shoo Fly is dying out and other flies are coming in. It is a pity that the song should go out of tune just at the time it would be most appropriate.

Persons in some of the English hospitals afflicted with colds abstain from drink and liquid food of any kind until the internal congestion is removed.

"I have not loved lightly," as the man said when he married a widow weighing 300 pounds.

A young lady being asked by a rich old bachelor, "If not yourself, who would you rather be?" replied sweetly and modestly, "Yours truly."

PATENT WHITE WIRE
CLOTHES LINE
The above article possesses qualities
which prevent it from ever corroding or turning from its uniform color during any number of years. It has been found to be the ONLY ARTICLE SUITABLE
for a Clothes Line.
The old fashioned rope or cord always
causes so much trouble and annoyance,
by breaking, rotting, and discoloring
clothes, and by being obliged to be put
up and taken down every time used.
With this Wire Clothes Line you have
none of these annoyances, and when it is once put up it gives you no more trouble.

SEVEN REASONS
Why Every Family
SHOULD HAVE ONE
OF THESE
Everlasting Clothes
LINES.
1st.—It has never to take it in, no matter what the weather may be, it being perfectly weather proof.
2d.—It will last fifty years or more, and during that time a great many rope lines will wear out besides suffering an untold amount of trouble
and annoyance with them.
3d.—It is the cheapest clothes line in the world, a rope line will cost fully one-half as much as
this wire, and will last with good care, only about one year, while this will last a life time.
4th.—You cannot load it heavy enough with clothes to break it, 1500 lbs. being its breaking weight.
5th.—It does not in any way discolor or injure the clothes and they never freeze to it. The factories can be removed in the coldest weather without injury. This is a decided advantage over rope lines.
6th.—It will save its price in saving your clothes every six months you own it.
7th.—Last though not least this wire will save your clothes posts as well as your clothes. You may set posts over so firmly and the shrinking of a rope will pull them loose. Who ever saw clothes posts three months set that were not staggering in all directions. Not so with this wire is used, and it does not shrink, and posts will stand erect and firm till they rot off.
Money refunded if not found perfectly satisfactory after thorough trial.
or at the Post Office will receive prompt attention.

Poetry.
OUR ANGEL.

Seventeen months our wee white maid,
Grew in the sunshine fair and sweet,
Till the dearest music of life was played By the touch of her hands and the fall of her feet;
Then as the dawn of the April day
Wooded new life to the Winter sod,
Our little white maiden turned away,
And went to dwell in the smile of God.
Ah, well! we know that the fairest years
Of the brightest future ever we planned,
Are dark with sorrow and pain and tears,
Compared with the joy of that blessed land.
But, O, for the wee of the empty hands,
And the longing heart, and the tear-dimmed eyes;
Trying to reach where our darling stands,
And follow her footsteps in Paradise!
Little white angel up in Heaven,
Safe in His arms whose smile is Love;
Does the wailing cry of our fond hearts, risen,
Ring through the peace of the Courts above?
Does the shadow of grief, like a vague surprise,
Reach through the glory around the throne,
Drawing thy grave sweet earnest eyes
Down through the worlds, to meet our own?
You cannot answer back, my Sweet!
Gathered the children about His feet,
And taught us the lesson we fain would know,
That, if but a glimpse of the light above,
Should dash for a moment through earth's dull pains,
We'd lose all else that is ours to love,
Rather than welcome Thee back again.
'Tis not forever we say farewell,
Child of our heart, so pure, so fair,
We will kiss the lips we have loved so well,
And play with the rings of the soft brown hair;
For I know when my soul in the silence waits,
The wonderful kingdom of God to see,
Down like a star through the Beautiful Gates
My little white angel will come to me!

RUBEN DUMPLING. Strip the plant and cut it into pieces of three or four inches long; make a plain crust and roll enough of the pieces in the crust to make a dumpling about as large as an apple would make it. When you have as many dumplings as you think will suffice for your family, drop them in a pot of hot water, and boil them about a half hour, when they are ready for the table. For a sauce to serve with them, use one cup of butter, one cup of molasses, and a cup and a half of sugar, boiled together. If boiled long enough it will be thick and rich enough without anything else added, but if in a hurry and cannot wait for much boiling, thicken it with a teaspoonful of flour mixed with sweet cream stirred into it.

there can be no merit; if there has been no struggles, there can be no victory.
Generosity consists not in the sum given, but in the manner and the occasion of its being bestowed.
Young man, form habits of industry; do something in this wide-awake world. Move about for the benefit of mankind if not for yourself. Do not be idle. God's law is, that by the sweat of our brow we shall earn our bread. That is a good one, and the bread that we earn is sweet. Do not be idle. Minutes are too precious to be squandered thoughtlessly.
SYMPATHY. It is a mistaken idea that manliness and stoicism are inseparable—that a tender regard for the feelings and interests of others, is weak and unmanly.
A heart insensible to sympathy claims greater affinity with the brute than the man.

A paper in Stockton, Wis., has the following pathetic and irresistible appeal to its debtors: "Come in. We Father; we are unable to do so; our powers are limited. But we can write receipts and stamp them nicely when full payments are made. Will you try us?

We are waiting anxiously!
Kind words are more precious to blessings the world can give.

An observer of human nature says that when a horse-carriage runs to a fire, about seven persons generally have hold of the rope, whilst seven hundred rush shrieking along on the side-walks.
We should always rest satisfied with doing well, and let others talk of us as they please, for they can do us no injury, although they may think they have found a flaw in our proceedings, and are determined to rise on our downfall, or profit by our injury.

Miscellany.
SOWING AND REAPING.

"Come to the barn with me, sir! I'll teach you to lie to me! I'll tan your jacket for you, sir!"
These words were spoken in my hearing by an angry father to a boy, James Thorne, who had told him a lie.
The boy followed his father, who stopped on the way and cut a whip the size of an ox-goad, and soon the sound of stinging blows was heard, mingled with shrieks and cries which pierced me like arrows, but which the mother of the child did not heed, nor did she, indeed seem to hear.
"Good Heavens!" I cried, "Nancy Thorne, how can you hear such blows, and such cries, and not stop them, or go mad?"
"He must learn not to lie to his father," she replied. "He has got to be such a liar that we can place no dependence on a word he says. It has got to be whipped out of him."
Now, readers, don't hold up your hands and say, "Horrible! what cruel and unnatural parents they were."
They were no such thing; they were pleasant, agreeable people enough,—honest and upright enough, as the world goes, and meant to bring up their children right, and would have been angry indeed had any one said they were harsh or unjust in the treatment of their children, or that they taught them to lie.
When the beating was finished—when Deacon Thorne had demonstrated thus fearfully his power—when he, as an earthly father, had done towards his child as he imagined his Heavenly Father would do towards him, the law of revenge was satisfied, and he threw down the rod, and bent his steps homeward.

I felt that if I met him, there must be a collision, and I fled to my chamber and threw myself into a chair at the window that overlooked the porch, where Jimmy's mother was at work.
I watched the father as he walked down the path. There was no sign of pity and sorrow on his flushed face, but, instead, an expression of satisfaction with having done a good thing, vindicated his authority; punished the boy for a sin, and set his wayward feet in the path of rectitude.
As he came to his wife, he said "I guess I've given him a trouncing that he will remember one spell. What in the world makes the boy lie so? I'm sure I don't know."
I listened with a strained ear for some words of condemnation from the mother, but listened vainly. She only worked the more busily.
I too, wondered what made the boy tell lies; he came of a good honest stock; as far back as could be remembered none of his family had been imprisoned or even hanged; none of them had been remarkable as liars; yet Jim would lie; there was no question of that, and I resolved to know why.
Deacon Thorne shaved, washed and combed himself, and I heard him ask his wife for a clean shirt. It was Saturday, and I wondered where he could be going, and, Yankee like, too, guessed it out. He belonged to a Baptist Church, and to-day was 'Covenant meeting' day. Pretty soon I heard him coming out upon the steps, and say to his wife, "Nancy, it seems to me you might get your work done up, so as to go to Covenant meeting sometimes. It isn't well for you, and it plagues me to have the brothers and sisters ask where sister Thorne is. What shall I tell 'em, Nancy?"
"You can tell 'em," replied Nancy, in a sharp tone, "that I have no help about my work, and it's as much as I can do to get ready for Sunday."

Deacon Thorne had got a flea in his ear. He had told his wife that he thought she could get along without a girl, now that the summer's work was done, and the weather cool. Mrs. Thorne had reluctantly consented to try it, for she, too, was —as Pegotty observed of Barks—'pretty near,' and had an eye to the 'main chances.'
When I saw the old piebald horse hitched to the old green wagon, and the deacon seated therein, and all together moving through the gate, I hurried down stairs and went to the barn. Pushing the door open and following the sound of suppressed sobs, I found Jim crouching in the corner, with his head half hidden in a tuft of hay, quivering with excitement and pain. When I put my hand upon him he shrank from the touch; when I spoke his name he looked up with the look of a dog that had been beaten; when I lifted his head and pillowed it on my lap, floods of tears gushed forth. I let him have a good cry, soothing him by passing my hand lightly over his damp hair. When he grew calmer, I loosened his shirt band and looked at his back; and, as I did so, bit my lips to suppress a scream. It was literally covered with livid welts, and in some places the blood came through the skin!

Drawing his shirt band up, fastening it around his neck, and commanding, as well as I could, my trembling voice, I proposed to him to go with me to his room, and rest awhile. He rose slowly to his feet, and, putting his hand in mine, we proceeded towards the house, and gained the chambers in the same way I left them, unseen by Mrs. Thorne.
I persuaded him to undress and lie upon the bed while I bathed his aching head and bruised back. He told me what the offense was for which his father had bent en him. I'll give the story in his own words:
"Last week he," referring to his father, it was curious to see how he avoided speaking the word 'father'—told me if I would dig all the 'ladders in the south patch, I might go chestnutting the next day; and when I asked him next day, he said he did not promise me, but I stuck to it he did say so, and told him where he was when he said it. Then he said he didn't care if he did say so, I couldn't go, for I must pick up cider-apples, and if I'd be a good boy and work right smart, I might go to-day; but I knew he wouldn't keep his word, and Silas Bruce was going to-day, and I wanted to go, for the squirrels were carrying off the nuts as fast as they could, and Silas Bruce and all the boys have got as many again as I have,
and when I asked him if I might go out, he said, no, I shouldn't, and told me to go over in the back lot and get the sheep; and I pretended to go, and went off with the other boys to hunt chestnuts, and he came through the woods hunting for the old mare, and saw me there, and I said I couldn't find the sheep in the lot, and was lookin' for 'em in the woods, and he said the sheep were in the lot, and he saw 'em when he was coming through it, and told me I had lied, and he would lick me; but I stuck to it I did not lie, for I knew he'd lick me anyhow, and he has, and I hate him, and will run away; I'd rather live on an island like Robinson Crusoe, and have Friday to live with me, than to stay here and be licked every day."

What could I say?
I said nothing, but sung him to sleep, and went down stairs, thinking to talk to his mother about him; but I found her up to her elbows in flour, and her head full of baking for to-morrow, and a pursed-up expression of her mouth warned me to keep shady, so I wandered off to the orchard, and sat down among the yellow apples, and held my tongue;
but in my heart of hearts, I thanked God that I was an old maid, and had no boys to bring up!

At night the deacon came home, turned out his horse, ate his supper, and then inquired for Jimmy. Mrs. Thorne did not know. He looked surprised, not to say alarmed, took down his hat and went to the barn. Soon he came back, and I'll confess it, I chuckled to see that he looked pale and scared. I had a good mind to keep still and let him get what Theodore Winthrop calls a 'prickly scare,' but he came direct to me, and asked me if I knew where he was. I reluctantly answered, "upstairs and asleep in bed."

The deacon shot an inquiry from beneath his shaggy brows, and went up the stairs. I would have given him all the apples in the orchard to have seen him as he stood over his bruised and beaten boy.
He came down with a slow, hesitating step, and a look on his face that I thought boded much good to Jim.
Strange, Jim told lies!
Who taught him?
Next morning, when Jim came down, breakfast was over, and he asked his mother if he couldn't have some boiled eggs.
She told him she had sold all the eggs to Tim Thurston yesterday morning. Jim, while looking around for something to eat found a panful of eggs.
Strange, Jim told lies!
Who taught him?
One day, Deacon Frisbie came to Deacon Thorne, to buy a good cow. The irresponsible Jim was on hand to drive up the cows, with instructions to leave three or four of the best ones in the field.

They were driven into the milking yard, duly inspected by Deacon Frisbie, and praised or depreciated by Deacon Thorne, as his anxiety to sell or keep any particular one, lay in the scale. At last, by skillful management, Frisbie was induced to choose the poorest one in the lot —not only poor in flesh, but poor every-way. And what think you decided him to take her?
"Deacon Thorne said, 'What do you think mother will say when she finds I've sold old 'Fill-Pail'?"
"O, she'll just tear," replied Jim.
Did she "tear"? Not at all; she bore it with Christian meekness; merely saying to Deacon Thorne—when he and Deacon Frisbie came in to finish the business, by transferring fifty dollars from one pocket to another,—if you always manage to sell the best cows and keep the poorest.
I guess you'll find some difference in the butter, now that old 'Fill-Pail' is gone.

At which Jim snickered behind his hat, and was told to go and feed the hogs.
Strange, Jim told lies!
Who taught him?
Deacon Frisbie was invited to stay to dinner. He graciously assented, and the two deacons settled themselves comfortably in their chairs, and had a good time talking over church matters. When the dinner was ready we all sat down, and Deacon Frisbie asked a blessing, in which he praised Deacon Thorne, Mrs. Thorne and Jim, and "the stranger within their gates" (meaning me), and I really expected to hear him give thanks for the old spotted cow, but he stopped just short of it.
Dinner done, he shook hands all around in a most friendly manner, and then went away.

When he was safely in the road, the deacon chuckled audibly and observed to his wife, with a poke in her side, "old Fill-Pail," "difference in the butter," eh?
To which Mrs. Thorne replied with a grave, cunning smile.
Neither chuckle, joke or smile, were lost to the ever-present Jim.
Strange, Jim told lies!
Who taught him?

DO YOUR WORK WELL.

Whatever you try to do in life, try with all your heart to do it well; whatever you undertake to do, devote yourself to completely; in great aims and in small, be thoroughly in earnest. Never believe it possible that any natural or improved ability can claim immunity from the companionship of the steady-plain, hard working qualities, and hope to gain the end. There is no such thing as fulfillment on earth. Some happy talent and some fortunate opportunity, may form the two sides of the ladder on which some men mount, but the rounds of that ladder must be made of stuff to stand wear and tear, and there is no substitute for thorough-going, ardent and sincere earnestness. Never put one hand to anything on which you can throw your whole self; never affect depreciation of your work, whatever it is. These you will find to be golden rules.

LAW OF THE ROAD.

It is not so generally understood as it ought to be that pedestrians have the right of way on the public highways. In a case in Boston, recently, which arose from a boy having been killed by a horse railroad car, District Attorney May in closing for the government, cited authorities and explained the law bearing upon the subject. He stated distinctly to the jury that the rights of foot passengers in the act of crossing streets are first and foremost and superior to those of any drivers of teams. He said the drivers must stop to allow foot passengers to cross streets, no matter whether they were crossing on flagging stones or not, and he told the jury that in case either of them were crossing a street and the driver of a team interfered with or attempted to interfere with their free passage across the street, to use their stout canes, if they had any, on the intruding horse, and intimidated that an application of the cane to the driver would be of better service.

A Chinese thus describes a trial in the English law courts: "One man is quite silent, another talks; all the time, and twelve wise men condemn the man who has not said a word."

SATURDAY, JUNE 11, 1870.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

THE CELEBRATION. The arrangements for the celebration of the coming Fourth of July are progressing, and everything looks very favorable for a pleasant time. It seems to be the desire of most of our people that the display of fireworks should be as extensive as possible, and the committee will pay special attention to this feature. The procession of antiquities and horrors will be the largest of the kind ever seen in these parts. The young men are very enthusiastic, and are making great preparations. What is now needed is money, and all that have not given are earnestly requested to do so at a very early day. The receipts as yet are not sufficient to pay for the fireworks, but in securing them now the committee depend upon the people to contribute the needed amount. Delay no longer, but come forward and secure for yourselves a celebration that will furnish us amusement for the day and evening and reflect credit upon our honored town.

THE FLORAL FESTIVAL. Flowers never looked more attractive than they did at the exquisite display of them at the First Congregational Church last Sunday afternoon, on the occasion of the annual Floral Festival of the Sunday School. The decorations were under the charge of Mr. Edward Whitcher; and all credit and thanks are due first to him, secondly to the ladies and gentlemen of the school and his other willing and able assistants; and last, but not least, to the families who sent from their gardens their abundant floral tributes.

The School acquitted itself very creditably in recitation and song. The Secretary, Mr. Randall, made a capital report. The address of Mr. Baldwin was pleasant and spirited, but the one thing that will dwell longest in the hearts and memories of all persons present was the perfect picture of the infants and the little children gathered with their parents for the baptismal service about the flower-wreathed altar.

ACCIDENTS. Some boys playing with powder on Monday evening, on Franklin street, placed some in a bottle and touched a match to it. Not exploding as soon as they expected one of the number, Henry Goodrich, stooped over to see if the match was still burning, when the powder exploded. He was badly burned, and severely cut by the glass, but after a short confinement he is able to be about again. We hope this will be a warning to boys to let such dangerous playthings alone.

MR. LUKE RIDEOUT, was quite badly bitten by one of his horses on Sunday last. He was backing the animal from the stall when he grabbed him by the wrist, leaving the impression of his teeth more durable than most of us would desire.

UNUSUAL. The weather the past week has been decidedly unusual for June, and in many respects resembling the dog-days in August. The mornings have been dull, cloudy and wet, some of them quite foggy; one in particular, when the steamer Massasoit was obliged to postpone her morning trip to the city, owing to the dense fog. The first part of the week being very warm as well as wet, vegetables grew rapidly. Grass is nearly ready for the mowers, and the prospects are that the hay crop will be bountiful. Some of our citizens have commenced cutting it about their residences; but the farmers generally will wait a fortnight yet.

REAL ESTATE SALE. Cottage house and half acre of land on North street, owned by Henry H. Faxon, to John A. Prouty for $1400.

FRUIT. The prospect of a large crop of fruit still remains good, although a large quantity has fallen. Cherries are more abundant than they have been for years, and are looking finely. Early pears are nearly as big as your thumb, and are growing rapidly. Most of the apple trees are loaded with fruit. In some cases Baldwin trees are an exception. Still from present indications the crop will be larger than it has been for years. In some of our neighbors' gardens potatoes are in bloom, and peas are large enough to pick, but in the most of them peas are beginning to blossom.

It is not as a general rule pleasant to go to law, or to have much to do with lawyers, still all of us at times are liable to need their services, for this reason we call the attention of our readers to the professional card of H. Farnam Smith, in our columns to-day. He is an able lawyer, and one who takes pride in examining thoroughly all cases placed in his hands.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BOSTON, JUNE 9, 1870

The Advent of Summer—Brief Notes on National and State Legislation. The Tariff and Taxes.

The summer is opening upon us with the beautiful phenomena of lovely sights so peculiar to New England. Congress is together and the State Legislature is still in the big house on Beacon street.

During the past half year that in which Congress has been legislating for the country, questions of vital importance to the public welfare have scarcely been approached. Some early promises of re-entrenchment, but no steps as yet taken for this important reform. The tariff and the funding bill at slumber. The taxes as burdensome now as they were in the darkest days of the late rebellion. With all our bad Legislature, State and National, the national industry and enterprise of the people, with the abundant ease of the money market, will render the present year one of material prosperity to most classes. It is not improbable that the State Legislature will close its long session the present week, for which righteous act all the people will say amen.

As the Legislature has, to the time of my writing, not definitely disposed of that mighty bugbear, the Hartford and Erie swindle, we will for the present pass the subject. Two sessions are now held daily, which is a good indication of an adjournment before the summer solstice. The House on Tuesday suspended its rules to entertain Rev. Dr. Putnam's bill, which modestly asks for the trifling sum of $25,000 to grease the wheels of the greatest beggar in Massachusetts—to wit, the Agricultural College at Amherst.

It is supposed also the Traveller, "that the way is now cleared for the passage of the bill. If not, another excursion to Amherst will do the business." This sum, $25,000, is solicited to pay the running expenses, and a portion of the debts of that miserable concern.

We learn that the lower branch of Congress began the good work this week by instructing the Committee on Ways and Means to abolish the duty on coal. The mining interest of Pennsylvania will make a powerful combination effort to defeat the bill. It is high time that the duties also on the daily wants of life should be reduced, and the failure by the present Congress to diminish the revenue duties and to lessen the taxes, will consign a good portion of the House members to the shades of private life, the best disposition that could be made of them. X.

For the Patriot.
BRAINTREE.

This good old town is now to have a Public Library. Gen. Thayer has generously given ten thousand dollars for the support of the same. He also lends the town ten thousand dollars at 6 per cent. to be used in erecting a fire-proof building in which the Library is to be placed. The building will cost, when completed, about $25,000.

The General does not do things by halves. He bears the whole expense of the building, with the exception of the ten thousand raised by the town. He also gives a very fine library now in his possession, so that his gift to the town of Braidtree will amount in all to over $25,000. The town have chosen a committee to commence operations at once, and as soon as the location has been decided upon we shall see the building progress under the superintendence of the builder of Fort Warren. The location will probably be near the Town Hall, and will of course be an ornament, as well as a benefit, to the town.

Dr. Storrs' congregation met in their house of worship last Sabbath, for the first time since the gale. The interior has been newly painted and beautified; workmen are progressing finely with the outside repairs; the steeple is already erected, and although not so high as the one blown down, is in much better taste. An old folks' concert was given in the house on Tuesday evening last, under the direction of Mr. Charles D. Hayden. It was a success.

A Bank is also talked of—in fact I believe a charter has already been granted. So sooner or later we shall have all the conveniences of our neighbors.

CURRENT WORMS. The following little item, although rather late for this season may be preserved for future reference. A gentleman of this town has tried the remedy with success.

To destroy currant worms, go out at eight or nine o'clock in the evening and dig the bushes so as to throw the worms on the ground. Do this three successive evenings, when the worms make their appearance. This will finish them for the present year, and if everybody will do it for three successive years, it will destroy the race.

Peaches, pears and grapes will be plentiful in Virginia this Fall.

For the Patriot.
A FEW NOTES BY THE WAY.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 10.

I will now endeavor to give you some account of Baraboo, Lacrosse and Minneapolis, as I situated in my last.

Baraboo is situated in a valley, on a river by the same name. High bluffs extend on either side. The air is as fine as can be imagined. This is where my sister, Mrs. Chandler, resides. Her husband, who some years ago worked in the PATRIOT office, is an Editor at this place. The soil is fruitful and fertile, and in many places there are fine orchards, which we do not find in all Western towns. We spent a happy week at this place, and left here on the 29th of April. Travelled until 11 o'clock in the cars, passed through a tunnel one mile in length. At night we saw many prairies on fire, and on one high bluff at a great distance, tall trees from top to bottom were in a light blaze; it was magnificent.

We arrived at LaCrosse at 11 o'clock at night, went on board the boat and took our state room. We were obliged to wait until the morning train arrived from Milwaukee, and then at 8 o'clock renewed our journey up the river. I cannot express in words how much I enjoyed on this trip. Mountains 200 feet high on one side covered with trees, others perfectly barren and rocky. Little islands in many places, beautiful green trees on the Wisconsin side; other steamers passing; all adding to the pleasures of the trip. I met Mr. H. F. Crane, a Quincy man, on board, who very politely gave me two PATRIOTS, which were gladly received.

He also aided me about getting my baggage and children on board the cars at Winona. Here he left us, and we proceeded on our way, expecting to meet Mr. A. at night at Minneapolis. While travelling I could not admire the whole country. It looked so fertile in many places; so grand in others. The river winding in and out, now here, now there, and then losing sight of it altogether, until near our journey's end.

At about eight o'clock we arrived at our destination, with thankful hearts we had been so favored with good weather and a safe journey. Mr. A. met us at the cars, and had a carriage in waiting to take us to our new home. We were very tired and glad to rest, and now I will tell you about this city, where we have settled for a space of time, where we know not how long. Could the beautiful scenes entice, the rich level soil support, the several lakes now so enchanting, we should never go back to New England again; but, Home, Sweet Home, will ever allure one whose attachments when once placed are very rarely exchanged for new friends or new places. However, we have come a long distance, nearly two thousand miles—and now we shall probably spend the summer, if not longer.

We are situated about two miles from the centre of the city, a very fine city too. It is situated near the head of the Mississippi; is laid out very regular, with broad streets, splendid buildings for business, a number of churches, very large school houses and public buildings, which we have not had time yet to inquire about. Out toward the country there are very fine residences, having the appearance of Dorchester, now a part of Boston; then a few scattered houses and we arrive to the farming lands. The farm just above us is owned by a Doctor in the city; it contains 190 acres, and is carried on by colored people, who were slaves until the war made them free. They had carried on a farm of 600 acres in Kentucky for their owners. Opposite to us lives a German family who have lived here eleven years as farmers. They have cultivated several acres of early vegetables for the market, and find a ready sale for all they can produce at fair prices. We have hired a house very pleasantly situated on Hennepin Avenue, a street which leads from the main part of the city several miles back into the country and prairie lands, through which the country people carry a great part of their produce; consequently there is continual passing to and fro. We have ten acres of very fertile soil to cultivate, and I think there must be a large amount of labor to be done on it. We are a little late for the season. It being unusually warm most of the farmers have planted, and some things are already up; the strawberry vines and currant bushes are in blossom. Instead of being cold, snowy weather, we have found warm, sunny, clear weather, with but a few showers, and those accompanied with very vivid lightning and heavy thunder, which we are told belong to this climate. The air is very pure, and considerable of it, as we are on a large open space we feel it more perhaps. For three miles south of us is prairie land and then high bluffs. I counted about 15 farm houses with sight, but at great distances apart. I know of no such tract of land anywhere in the vicinity of Boston.

For the Patriot.
THE FISHERIES OF THE PACIFIC.

I remember that quiet road leading from the Hancock House to German-town. Halting in our evening ride to salute an old man by the wayside, we asked the news in his little village—with glad tone and brightening eye, he replied, "the bankers in." Not that there had been the unexpected advent of some millionaire; but only a single schooner just then made fast by the village wharf, with its fare of fish from George's banks or the banks of Newfoundland. She had returned in safety, bringing the fathers, brothers, sons, to families that derived a precarious subsistence from the sea. In thankful tones the old man said, "the bankers in."

In those times, adventures were hurting to seek their fortunes amid the golden sands of California. Since then the currents of trade have had rapid changes, and now in villages along the Pacific coast we hear a like response—"the bankers in."

In the fisheries the outfit of the fishing fleets, the trade in codfish, salmon and the like, the Pacific coast may soon rival that of the Atlantic. Vessels from San Francisco find superior fishing grounds along the coast of Eastern Siberia. The genuine codfish abound upon the rocky bottoms along the shore of Saghalien island, the Southern Coast of Kamchatka and near the Aleutian Islands, and at these islands are good harbors.

The business is increasing with unusual activity. We learn from the Overland Journal that in a vessel with twelve or fourteen men, to catch with single lines and "take care" of three thousand fish in a day, is a good day's work; one thousand, however, will pay.

On the banks of Newfoundland, the codfish in some localities are getting comparatively scarce. Owing to the boisterous weather of the stormy Atlantic, dense fogs and the crowd of passing vessels, our fishery has been attended with severe loss of life and property. On the Pacific, the abundant supply of codfish, fine summer weather, good harbors for shelter, the best fishing grounds being near the shores and not exposed to the sweep of ocean; coupled also with the fact that the banks are remote from the usual course of sailing vessels, the seasons also adapted to "making fish," and with abundance of salt in the lagoons, all these will cause a rapid increase in this branch of industry.

Their products will find a ready market in South America and the States west of the Rocky Mountains. Even on our Eastern tables we have found the salmon from the Pacific displacing the mackerel of the Bay. The first supply that reached our markets was in fair condition, but the more recent lots have been deteriorated by the melting of the ice and the repacking at Chicago. Its price here at retail was sixty cents per pound, two-thirds of which cost consisted in the expense of transportation and repacking. When freight cars shall be provided for the purpose and the salmon packed in ice at the start, these objections will no longer exist. The day is not distant, when the codfish will attract a fleet to the same ocean, in which New Bedford sailors once vexed the whale.

Great Britain during the year 1869, imported no less than four hundred and forty-two million one hundred and sixty-five thousand and eighty eggs.

Johnson's Anodyne Liniment may be used to advantage where any Pain Killer is desirable. In cases of severe cramps and pains in the stomach, it is undoubtedly the best article that can be used.

Habitual constipation leads to the following results: Inflammation of the kidneys, sick and nervous headache, biliousness, dyspepsia, indigestion, piles, loss of appetite and strength; all of which may be avoided by being regular in your habits, and taking, say one of Parsons' Purgative Pills nightly, for four or six weeks.

ON THE RIGHT TRACK. The United States House of Representatives have reduced the rate of the income tax to three per cent, and increased the exemptions to two thousand dollars. At that rate it will yield about ten or eleven million dollars. This is a step in the right direction; still the community are not satisfied, nor will it be until the whole tax is abolished. As a war measure, the people bore the burden patiently, but in the days of peace they will hardly submit to the measure without murmuring.

A MIXED CARGO. The steamer from New York, Monday morning last, brought to Fall River a hundred passengers, an elephant, two camels, a cargo of lime and 250 crates of strawberries.

It is said that improvements are in progress with a view of making Nantasket Beach, from Strawberry Hill to Point Allerton, one of the great watering places of the future. The land has been divided into a thousand house lots, roads have been laid out, hotels projected, and so forth.

Newport has an aquarium with gold fish in it weighing half a pound each.

"A Wonder of Medical Science," may well be applied to Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. It is nearly half a century since this remarkable remedy was introduced to the public, and yet the immediate and enviable reputation which it gained by its wonderful cures of coughs, colds, whooping cough, sore throat, influenza, consumption, and all bronchial complaints, is to this day fully sustained.

The Old Building in Dock Square. For nine score years or thereabout, that stood the public gaze, but now they stand as ruins, and soon will end their race. We love to view the study form, where thou so long hast stood, and to think how thou hast braved the storm, and stemmed the sweeping flood. We're glad to see thee doing good, alike to friends and foes, and from thy counters, somewhat nude, dispensing summer "clothes;" where Richards, as by all 'tis known, sells lower than any man in town.

THE CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD.
Is completed and running from RICHMOND, Va. to the celebrated WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, in West Va., 227 miles. It is being rapidly extended to the Ohio River, 200 miles further, making in all 427 miles.
In its progress Westward, penetrates and opens up to market the Wood and Iron Coal Deposits of the Kanawha Region in West Virginia. And thus brings the superior and abundant Coal of that section into communication with the Iron Ores of Virginia and Ohio, and the Western, South Western and Eastern markets.
When completed it will connect the superior harbor facilities of the Chesapeake Bay with reliable navigation on the Ohio River, and thus with the entire system of Railroad and Water transportation of the Great West and South-West.
It will make a short, easy, cheap and favorable route from the West to the sea, and will command a large share of the enormous freights seeking transportation to the coast.
It will thus become one of the most important and profitable East and West Trunk Lines of Railroad in the country, and command a trade of immense value.
The completed portion of the Road is doing a profitable and increasing business, and is fully equal in value to the whole amount of the mortgage upon the entire Line—($15,000,000).
The loan of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, being a First Mortgage upon the entire Line, property and equipments, worth when completed at least $30,000,000, is therefore one of the most substantial, conservative, and reliable Railroad Loans ever offered in the market, and is peculiarly adapted to the wants of

Is completed and running from RICHMOND, Va. to the celebrated WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, in West Va., 227 miles. It is being rapidly extended to the Ohio River, 200 miles further, making in all 427 miles.
In its progress Westward, penetrates and opens up to market the Wood and Iron Coal Deposits of the Kanawha Region in West Virginia. And thus brings the superior and abundant Coal of that section into communication with the Iron Ores of Virginia and Ohio, and the Western, South Western and Eastern markets.
When completed it will connect the superior harbor facilities of the Chesapeake Bay with reliable navigation on the Ohio River, and thus with the entire system of Railroad and Water transportation of the Great West and South-West.
It will make a short, easy, cheap and favorable route from the West to the sea, and will command a large share of the enormous freights seeking transportation to the coast.
It will thus become one of the most important and profitable East and West Trunk Lines of Railroad in the country, and command a trade of immense value.
The completed portion of the Road is doing a profitable and increasing business, and is fully equal in value to the whole amount of the mortgage upon the entire Line—($15,000,000).
The loan of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, being a First Mortgage upon the entire Line, property and equipments, worth when completed at least $30,000,000, is therefore one of the most substantial, conservative, and reliable Railroad Loans ever offered in the market, and is peculiarly adapted to the wants of Poetry.

A DREAM OF SUMMER.

BY JOHN G. WHITTIER.

Blind as the morning breath of June
The southwest breeze play;
And, through its base, the winter noon
Seems warm as summer's day.
The snow-plumed Angel of the North
Has dropped his icy spear:
Again the mossy earth looks forth,
Again the streams gush clear.
The fox his hill-side cell forsakes,
The muskrat leaves his nook,
The bluebird in the meadow brakes
Is singing in the brook.
"Dear old, O Mother Nature!" cry, Bird, breeze, and streamlet free,
"Our winter voices prophesy Of summer days to thee!"
So, in those winters of the soul,
By bitter blasts and drear,
Overcast from memory's frozen pole,
Will sunny days appear.
Revering Hope and Faith, they show
The soul its living powers,
And how beneath the winter's snow Lie germs of summer flowers!
The Night is Mother of the Day,
The Winter of the Spring,
And ever upon old Decay
The greenest mosses cling.
Behind the cloud the starlight lurks,
Through showers the sunbeams fall;
For God, who loveth all his works,
Has led His hope with all.

Farmers' Department.

THE SEASON.

No month is more lovely and attractive on the farm than the month of June. It is popularly called the month of roses, but the fact is it is decked in all the glory and beauty of nature. The flowers of every hue and fragrance now greet the eye, and fill the air with perfume. But to the eye of the farmer it has a greater significance. It is his month of promise. The plants which he has started with so much care, the seeds which he has entrusted to the cold ground, now raise their stalks to greet his eye and to rejoice his heart. He has the pleasure of anticipation, and it is a question whether it is not greater than the joy of full fruition.—Ploughman.

REMEDY FOR SCOURS IN CALVES.

Mr. B. S. Farnham, informs the Maine Farmer that he has found a sure remedy for scours in calves. Last spring he had a nice calf that was badly troubled in this way, and tried several remedies recommended by friends, all of which proved ineffectual. He then tried rennet, taking a piece about as large as a thumb, soaking it in a cupful of water, and giving it to the calf. One such dose effectually checked the disorder. As this often proves a very troublesome disease among calves, it may be well for our readers to remember the above.

MULCHING TREES. Newly set trees should, if possible, be mulched, unless on quiet moist land. Though the early part of the season be wet, yet when the dry hot weather comes on, the trees will be quite likely to suffer. Hay, leaves, straw, almost anything that will keep the ground moist, can be used to advantage. When nothing else can conveniently be had, stones may be used. If leaves are used, it is better to cover with some earth to prevent them from blowing off.—Journal of Horticulture.

Anecdotes.

At a club, of which Jerrold was a member, a fierce Jacobite and a friend as fierce, of the cause of William the Third, were arguing noise and disturbing less excitable conversationalists. At length the Jacobite, a brash Scot, brought his fist down heavily upon the table, and roared at his adversary:
"I tell you what it is, I spit upon your King William!"

The friend of the Prince of Orange was not to be out-mastered by mere loudness. He rose, and roared back to the Jacobite:
"And I, sir, spit upon your James the Second!"

Jerrold, who had been listening to the uproar in silence, hereupon rang the bell, and shouted:
"Waiter, spittons for two!"

A gentleman, in conversation with Dr. Johnson, having to some of the usual arguments for drinking added this:
"You know, sir, drinking drives away care, and makes us forget whatever is disagreeable. Would you not allow a man to drink for that reason?"
"Yes, sir, if he sat next you," replied Dr. Johnson.

Lawyer—How do you identify this handkerchief?
Witness—By its general appearance and the fact that I have others like it.
Counsel—That's no proof, for I have got one just like it in my pocket.
Witness—I don't doubt that, as I had more than one of the same sort stolen.

"What a fine head your boy has," said an admiring friend.
"Yes," said the fond father, "he's a chip of the old block, ain't you, Johnny?"
"I guess so," my teacher said I was a young blockhead!"

TESTIMONIALS.
I am familiar with "Ewell's Blood Purifier and Stomach Tonic"—my acquaintance with it being nearly continuous for twenty years. It is composed of entirely of herbs, and is a collection of those most commonly used as family medicines, and prescribed by physicians when they employ vegetable remedies. The virtues are extracted by decoction and infusion, and not by distillation. It contains no opium or narcotic, nor any poisonous or deleterious ingredients.
I have been so favored in respect to health, as not to think of anything but the enjoyment of life. I have as an instance, an example to learn its effects upon those who are afflicted with the same. I have, daily, the most commendatory testimony concerning it.
In one word, my acquaintance with the above named medicine, my knowledge of its ingredients and process of manufacture, and the uniform and extensive testimony to its excellence which I hear from those who have tested its virtues, warrant me in expressing a confidence that those who are afflicted with the same that the manufacturer promises in its behalf.

THIS is the best medicine known, made from an Indian recipe, entirely vegetable, and a certain cure without the aid of supporters. Read the following testimonial:
Mrs. BARNES: Spending last summer with my mother-in-law, Mrs. J. M. Barker, who lives at Island Falls, I had a chance to test your medicine and find it all it is recommended, and I wish to try it again. I send you five dollars for six bottles for my mother, and for my sister, Union House, Thornton, N. H.
RANDOLPH, MASS., Oct. 10, 1862.
Mrs. BARNES: I had been a sufferer for seven years before I knew about your medicine. I had no faith, for I had tried various kinds of medicine, and several physicians, and was only relieved for a short time. I will cheerfully say to you and the public, I have tried this valuable medicine, and experienced a cure without the aid of supporters, from three bottles.
Very respectfully,
MRS. G. H. WINSNETT.

Her head dropped down suddenly, and the long hair fell over her hot cheeks, and her hands trembled and clasped themselves together on her lap.

There was a painful pause, and when Florence dared to lift her eyes she saw Clive Harding's face buried in his folded arms, quiet and still. She rose hesitatingly, and then went up to him, placing one soft hand on his hair, while with the other she extended the unopened box.

"I don't want your gloves, Cousin Clive," she said.

"Why not?" he asked, with white lips.

"Because I have lost my bet," she replied, turning away her face.

"Florence—my darling Floy, have I won it?" he exclaimed, rapturously, starting up, and catching her hand.

"Yes, and me too," she murmured, as she lifted her blushing face to his, and his arms closed round her in a tight embrace.

THE EDITORS' GATHERING.

The first annual meeting of the Editors' and Publishers' Association of this State, has been held the present week with much success, and no small amount of pleasure and enjoyment.

The Association met at Young's Hotel, in Boston, on Monday afternoon, and after a little preliminary business, and discussion on advertising rates, &c., adjourned to the residence of the President, Stephen N. Stockwell, Esq., Editor of the Boston Journal, at Highland District. On arriving at Hillside, which is one of the most delightful situations in the city limits, having a landscape view of no ordinary merit, the guests were received by Mr. Stockwell in his customary style of cordial hospitality and welcomed to his beautiful furnished mansion. Here for an hour the time was passed in renewing acquaintanceships and in social conversation, when the door of the dining room was thrown open. A very elegant collation, in which strawberries and ice cream, salads and delightful coffee held a prominent place, soon satisfied and refreshed the editorial visitors, and another space was given up to social intercourse, when the cars were announced and all took their departure.

On arriving in the city the party separated, some for their homes in the suburbs, most of them for hotel accommodations. With some dozen or more, we stopped at the St. James—the new and elegant hotel on Franklin Square, which combines in its construction every modern domestic convenience and luxury. We were struck with the elegance and artistic beauty of this house. The architecture is based upon the design of the Palace of the Tuilleries, and the interior furnishing is as costly and elegant as will be found in any hotel in this country. We feel under obligation to the Proprietor for the many courtesies shown us during our short stay at his palatial quarters.

At 8:30 the next morning the Association found a special train at the Eastern depot, ready to take them to Gloucester, under the charge of Conductor Leighton, whom we found to be a gentleman worthy of his position. It is a pity that more men of his stamp cannot be found on the various railroads leading out of Boston. The courtesies shown by this gentleman will long be remembered. On arriving at this famous fishing port, noted far and near for the large amount of capital invested in the business—a sum exceeding that employed by any city or town in the United States—the members, about one hundred in number, representing all parts of the State, formed a procession four abreast, and marched through some of the principal streets to Duncan Hall, escorted by the Gloucester Band, under the excellent leadership of Mr. Francis P. Loud, who for many years was an honored citizen of this place, and for the past two years, a citizen of G., but who is again about to make Quincy his home.

After the choice of officers for the ensuing year, and other business of the Association were finished, the company expected a fine sail around Cape Ann in the steamer Emeline, but were disappointed, owing to some accident. Next in order was a dinner at the Pavilion, to which good justice was done, after which brief and pithy speeches were made by members and others, and the party returned to the city.

Many left Boston the same evening for their homes, others unable to do so accepted an invitation to visit Selwyn's, and witnessed the beautiful drama, "The Lanterns," which was a most delightful entertainment.

The suburbs of Boston were never more beautiful in their summer garb than now. A ride in almost any direction reveals a profusion and richness of foliage, brightness of verdure and harmonious commingling of art and nature, most charming.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BOSTON, JUNE 16, 1870.

Business record—Fustication Season near—President Grant and Cuba—Sudden Death of Charles Dickens—Obituary Notes on the Great Novelist—English Literature made pleasant by his genius.

In monetary matters all accounts agree that a good portion of the currency has been shipped from the Eastern to the Western States during the present month to meet the balance maturing on the old crops. In some of the Western cities money is very close, but so far, in New York and Boston, notes if not too large are generally discounted. Rates nominally unchanged. Average price of gold through the week 112. More silver coin than gold is now exported to foreign lands for what reason we know not. There is an apparent cheerfulness in the business circles of our city at the opening of June. Retail trade is active and mechanics in great demand. But this will not last long, as thousands of our citizens will soon leave the Hub for summer vacation. The exodus will be a mighty one.

President Grant's message to Congress on Monday created quite a sensation in Washington, causing no little surprise in his own political arena. We have carefully read it and believe he will be sustained in his action by the sentiments of the great mass of thinking Americans. The President has the right idea of Cuban difficulties. A guerrilla warfare in the most barbaric manner has been conducted on both sides. He considers the Cubans as insurgents, and the Spanish or Government parties alike guilty in outrages and atrocities worthy of the heathen ages. In determining the course to be adopted the President refers to the conduct of his eminent predecessors as his polar star and guide. Some of the warmest of President Grant's supporters will take issue with him on this matter, and it is likely to culminate in anything but pacifically.

Another recent sensation that has shot over the telegraphic wires since my last is the sad intelligence of Charles Dickens' death; the great novelist. Born on the 7th of February, 1812. His father was Parliamentary Reporter, and he intended that his son should be a lawyer. He soon became disgusted with the law, and at an early age became reporter on the London Morning Chronicle, and some of his first sketches in that paper were over the signature of "Boz." The Pickwick Papers followed and their rare and original humor made him famous in the literary world at 26 years of age. From that time works appeared from his pen with great rapidity. "Oliver Twist," "Nicholas Nickleby," "The Old Curiosity Shop" and "Barnaby Rudge" all appeared before 1842. Since then he has been writing incessantly, his literary fame mounting to the highest pitch, until by over exertion his light went suddenly out. If possible a greater than Sir Walter Scott.

All the London papers have obituary articles. The Times says:—"The ordinary expressions of regret are now cold and conventional. Millions of people feel a personal bereavement. Statesmen, savans and benefactors of the race when they die, can leave no such void; they cannot, like this great novelist, be an inmate of every home."

The Daily News says:—"Without an intellectual pedigree his writings form an era in English literature. He was generous, loving and universally respected. He leaves, like Thackeray, an unfinished story." The American Press has paid universal homage to the memory of Charles Dickens, who has done so much to smooth the rugged paths of English literature.

A NEW PATENT.

From a recent list of patents issued from the office in Washington, May 24, 1870, we clip the following:—No. 103,445—Picture Poise—John J. Glover, Quincy, Mass.

We have seen a sample of the article patented, and as it supplies a want not met before, we judge it may become a general favorite. It is a device simple in construction yet quite ornamental, intended to prevent the cord of pictures, mirrors, &c., from slipping over the point of suspension, thereby avoiding the annoyance to housekeepers occasioned by the frequent readjustment of pictures after dusting or cleaning; at the same time keeping the picture itself in its most presentable aspect. Every one knows that the effect of the finest work of art is lost by even a slight obliquity of the picture.

Its capability of being applied to all styles of nails, knobs, mouldings and cords, will make it all the more acceptable to the public.

The Legislature has progressed so far as to fix the pay of its members. The Finance Committee have reported $5 a day for the members, and $400 each to the Chaplains.

CURIOUS NATURAL PHENOMENA.

A correspondent in the Patriot of June 4th, demonstrated that the Cardiff giant had his parentage in ordinary gypsies; but that the statuary must have been shapen in original sin. The public press performs a commendable duty in cautioning the unwary against exhibitions which occasion loss of time and money, and disappoint an idle curiosity. There are certain well attested natural phenomena, both interesting and marvellous, of whose existence we have the most reliable and accurate evidence, but whose origin and causes are enveloped in profound mystery.

For a month or two past, much discussion has been had concerning strange noises heard at sea off Greytown. These noises are heard in iron vessels only and when at anchor off the harbor.

Greytown is at the mouth of the river St. Juan, which divides Nicaragua from Costa Rica. Vessels anchor two miles from the beach. The bottom is composed of dark sand and mud. While at anchor and at midnight there is heard a metallic vibrating sound, so loud that it often awakens half the crew. It continues with one or two brief intervals for about two hours. The sound was noticed several years since, in iron built vessels, but has never been heard on board the copper fastened wooden vessels. The negro sailors listen to these strange noises with superstitious fear. The noises occur in the still hours of the night, from twelve till two o'clock, but after that time, although in other respects equally quiet, the noises are never heard.

The ship acts the part of a great sounding board. The sound is peculiar, musical, metallic, with uniform cadence, and measured one, two, three, best. It is heard most distinctly over open hatchways, through the coal shoots and close to the outside of the ship, varying and receding, and at times appearing to proceed from the very bottom of the hold.

To some ears it resembles the blowing of a conch shell—or the noise of a shell held to the ear—or the buzzing of swift machinery. To others it resembles the tone of a bell after the first stroke of the tongue has fallen, the echo of chimes, or the music of the wind over wires. On the second night it is louder than the first, and it reaches its acme on the third night.

The rippling of the water alongside, and the breaking of the surf on the shore, are heard quite distinct from it. These strange noises are not heard upon the shore, or at any other place along the coast.

Whence comes this nocturnal music?

To the Publisher of the Patriot.

Mr. Editor: Having occasion to visit Kingston a few weeks since I was entertained at the residence of Frederick Southern, Esq., lately of Quincy, and was much delighted with the location he has selected for his personal comforts and that of his family.

Mr. Southern's farm consists of about sixty acres of land finely situated on Silver Lake, which has made it a somewhat famous resort for sporting parties fishing for pickerel. A large portion of his farm is in a high state of cultivation, well stocked with apple, pear, plum, peach and other fruit trees, which give a look of grandeur to the large old-fashioned white dwelling house, which is situated in front on the main road near the lake. The lake reaches back from the orchard to a large strawberry garden, thence to the grove beautifully bordering on Silver Lake. Here Mr. Southern has two pleasure boats, intended for visitors and his family for pleasure and fishing excursions on the lake. The grove and lake make it a very pleasant and convenient place for picnics and pleasure parties and for purpose.

In looking over the farm and viewing the lake on a clear bright day we could but congratulate Mr. Southern upon having selected so beautiful a spot to add to his earthly enjoyment, and thoughts of seeking a fortune upon a farm in the distant West, vanished like dew before the glittering prospect presented upon this beautiful spot in old Massachusetts.

There is a spot in every climate, Where nature lavishes her store, Selected by a power divine To scatter pleasing beauties o'er. So thought the stranger as he stood Gazing, oh, silver wave on thee, O'ershadowed by the sombre wood That echoes back thy harmony.

CABINET CHANGES. Attorney-General Hoar sent in his resignation on Thursday last, which was immediately accepted by the President, and Ames T. Akerman of Georgia has been appointed in his place. There is rumors of other changes soon.

There was a general suspension of business in Boston yesterday, (17th of June.) The banks, Clearing House, Custom House, insurance offices and other buildings, were closed.

GARDENING WITH SUCCESS. We have lying upon our table an Early Rose potato received the 15th inst., which weighs 4 1-4 ounces, raised by John J. Glover of this town. His potatoes were planted April 8th, without being sprouted in a hot bed or otherwise forced; this being the product of 60 days growth, from the date of planting.

"Early Caracatus" and Carter's first crop peas planted on the same day, were ready for use at the same time.

THE REGATTA. We learn that the regatta which is to take place on the 4th of July, under the auspices of the Committee on celebration promises to be a grand affair. Our yacht men of the Quincy Yacht Club are in jubilation over the occasion. Yachts from Dorchester, Hingham and Weymouth are expected to be present, and the entries will be free for all. A band of music will be stationed aboard of the judges' yacht which will be decorated especially for the occasion, and the cannon will be fired as a signal for the starting and also upon the return of the winning yachts of each class.

Most of the stores in this place closed at noon yesterday, and the afternoon wore a general holiday appearance.

We will give our readers next week a full programme of the celebration in this place on the Fourth of July.

THE LIQUOR LAW. The Senate and House have at last agreed on a bill modifying the present prohibitory law. The bill exempts all malt liquors from the ban under which all intoxicating liquors except cider are now placed, and permits apothecaries to sell liquors of all kinds under license from the municipal authorities. Any city or town may, however, by vote ordain that malt liquors shall not be sold. This compromise measure was carried through the Senate by a majority and through the House by a large but uncounted vote, and after passing through the form of enactment it will go to the Governor for his signature. It is understood that further factions opposition to the bill will be abandoned, and thus one of the great subjects of the session is disposed of.

THE FOURTH IN BOSTON. The usual arrangements for the celebration of our national anniversary, are being perfected on an extensive scale in the city. One of the most attractive features of this occasion will be the festivities for which preparations are making in Boston Woods.

DECORATING THE HOUSES.

Last year on the celebration of our Country's birth day, I noticed that a few of our citizens decorated their houses. Would it not be well to have all who can pay special attention to decorating on this coming Fourth, and make it an interesting feature in the observance of the day.

Yours, &c.,

Weymouth, Rev. Mr. Hewitt, former pastor of the Universalist church at South Weymouth, has received a call to preach at Dover, N. H., for one year, and has accepted.

Rev. D. W. Waldron, of East Weymouth, has received a call to Brooklyn, N. Y., where he would receive $3000 the first year, with the benefit of eighty pews; and $5000 when he should fill the church, which is a free one, with a thousand sittings. His Society has increased his salary to $2000, for the present year.

The chime of bells lately set up in Weymouth is said to be a failure. Instead of producing a harmony of sweet sounds, their tones are but a jangle of discords. The fault is attributed to their improper hanging.

The total increase of the internal revenue for the last ten months of the present fiscal year, over that of last year, is over twenty-one millions of dollars.

D. B. Brooks and Brother, No. 55 Washington Street, Boston, have a large variety of out door games, including a large number of sets of field croquet, unsurpassed in quality and price. Their new game, "Le Cercle," is pronounced by the best judges to be far superior to croquet.

If Johnson's Anodyne Liniment is half as valuable as people say it is, no family should be without it. Certainly no person, be he lawyer, doctor, minister, or of any other profession, should start on a journey without it. No sailor, fisherman or woodsman should be without it. In fact it is needed wherever there is an ache, sprain, cut, bruise, cough or cold.

How mysterious of all human events is death, and how insensible are we to its realities. The sudden departure of this estimable lady brings sadness to many a heart. She was a kind, reliable, and unchangeable friend, possessing a cultivated mind, lovely disposition, and a clear perception of all that is beautiful in life; accomplished, but very modest and retiring. She has passed away, but her Christian virtues will long be remembered by those who were blessed with her friendship.

TAX TO BE TAKEN OFF COAL. The Committee of Ways and Means by a vote of four to three, have agreed to report a bill from relieving coal of taxation, internal and external. This bill relieves coal companies from the payment of income taxes on their gross receipts. The immediate repeal of duty on bituminous coal was voted down.

LADIES now have a good opportunity to buy their suits and dresses cheap without the endless "trouble and perplexity of shopping." G. L. Ide Carter & Co., 35 Temple Place, Boston, are giving exclusive attention to the business, employing upwards of two hundred dress makers a greater part of the time. The great variety of suits on exhibition at their salesrooms makes it a very attractive place for visitors. See advertisement in another column.

Farmers and "Horse Men," are continually enquiring what we know of the utility of Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders, and in reply, we would say, through the columns of the PATRIOT, that we have heard from hundreds who have used them with gratifying results; that is also our experience.

The Old Building in Dock Square. For nine score years or thereabout, Thou'st stood the public gaze, But now thy sands are running out, And soon will end thy race. We love to view thy study form, Where thou so long hast stood,— To think how thou hast braved the storm, And stemmed the sweeping flood. We're glad to see thee doing good, Alike to friends and foes. And from thy counter, somewhat nude, Dispensing Summer "Clothes;" Where Richards, as by all 'tis known, Sells lower than any man in town.

THE CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD.

Is completed and running from RICHMOND, Va. to the celebrated WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, in West Va., 237 miles. It is being rapidly extended to the Ohio River, 200 miles further, making in all 437 miles.

In its progress Westward, penetrates and opens up to market the World of Coal Deposits of the Kanawha Region in West Virginia. And thus brings the superior and abundant Coal of that section into communication with the Iron Ores of Virginia and Ohio, and the Western, South Western and Eastern markets.

When completed it will connect the superior harbor facilities of the Chesapeake Bay with reliable navigation on the Ohio River, and thus with the entire system of Railroad and Water transportation of the great West and South-West.

It will make a short, easy, cheap and profitable route from the West to the sea, and will command a large share of the enormous freight seeking transportation to the coast.

It will thus become one of the most important and profitable East and West Trunk Lines of Railroad in the country, and command a trade of immense value.

The completed portion of the Road is doing a profitable and increasing business, and is fully equal in value to the whole amount of the mortgage upon the entire Line—($15,000,000).

The loan of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, being a First Mortgage upon the entire Line, property and equipments, worth when completed at least $30,000,000, is therefore one of the most substantial, conservative, and reliable Railroad Loans ever offered in the market, and is peculiarly adapted to the wants of

Investors and Capitalists,

Who desire to make their investments with the most satisfactory assurance of positive and undoubted Security.

The Bonds are in denominations of

$1,000, $500 and $100,

and may be had COUPON or REGISTERED. Interest 8 per cent. per annum, payable MAY 1st and NOVEMBER 1st.

Principal and interest payable in gold in the City of New York.

Price 90 and accrued interest in currency, at which price they pay nearly Seven per cent in gold on their cost.

All Government Bonds and other Securities dealt in at the Stock Exchange, received in exchange, at their full market value, and Bonds sent to all parts of the country, free of Express charges.

They can be obtained by ordering direct from us or through any responsible Bank or Banker in any part of the country.

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, JUNE 25, 1870.

"Born to no Master, of no Soot are We."

FOURTH. We give our readers to-day the entire programme for the grand celebration in this place on the glorious Fourth. The committee have worked hard to get up an entertainment that would give general satisfaction, and at the same time be worthy of the day and the occasion. The programme is excellent and if carried out in a good shape, it will undoubtedly be one of the very best ever offered our citizens.

There will be a meeting of the Antiquities at the Lyceum room this evening. Every member it is hoped will be present.

TOWN WAY. It will be seen by our advertising columns that Henry H. Faxon and others have petitioned the County Commissioners to widen Temple Place, and extend the same to Hancock street. We hope the petition will be granted, believing it to be of great public benefit. It must, and will, in all probability, be done sooner or later, and the longer it is postponed the greater will be the expense. Let it be done at once, the cost cannot be very heavy; as only a few rods of land is required.

A petition is also in circulation asking the Selectmen to lay out a new road from Sea street, opposite Cottage Avenue to Washington street, through land of Washburn, Foster, Page and Hardwick. This also is a good move, and there is no doubt but little or no opposition to it by the owners of the land, so the expense will be light, and the convenience great.

AUCTIONS. Henry H. Faxon, Esq., will sell this afternoon at 4 o'clock, a pleasant cottage house on South street, belonging to W. K. Fitzgerald. The owner is going to Kansas.

Jos. W. Lombard sells on Monday next, a lot of English and saltgrass, belonging to John R. Pratt on Squantum. Also, on Wednesday, a lot of English grass, on the estate of the late Deacon Elijah Baxter, on South street. See advertisements.

THE SAILORS' SNUG HARBOR. About a dozen of the trustees of this institution visited this place on Wednesday last and made the customary tour of inspection. The Governor was also expected, but the Hartford and Erie keep him at the State House. The condition of the institution was all that could be desired, and the health of the inmates has been better during the last year than ever before. The whole number of inmates has been 161; present number 43; receipts for produce during the past year, $4,965.86, of which the cost was $1158.49. The trustees have been compelled to encroach on their funds to meet their expenses, the receipts being but $5000, whereas the annual expenses have been $10,000, owing to the large number of inmates.

This institution is blessed with one of the best Superintendents.—Capt. Samuel Crane. Under his guiding care and his worthy aid before him, it has always been a model institution,—one which the trustees, the citizens of the town, and all persons who ever had the pleasure of visiting it, could but feel pleased with.

There will be a meeting of the various Sunday Schools of the Murray Sunday School Union, in the Universalist Church next Sunday evening. Singing by the school and congregation. Short addresses by visiting clergymen, the Superintendent of the schools and by the pastor. All interested are cordially invited. Services to commence at 7.30 precisely.

A lovely bouquet adorns the table of our sanctum. Thanks to the kindness of Mrs. Perez Joyce. The flowers are choice and fragrant. Mrs. Joyce we believe arranges bouquets for sale to such as may desire them; judging from the sample before us, she does so with exquisite taste.

Prof. Eben Tourgee, of Boston, will give a familiar lecture on Music in the Orthodox Church in this place, Tuesday evening next, the 28th inst. Admission free. The public are invited.

PERSONAL. Mrs. Nathan White, who has been absent nearly two years in the Southern States to improve her feeble health, returned last week much benefited.

FASHIONABLE WEDDING. The largest gathering we have ever seen at any wedding in this place assembled in the Unitarian Church, on Thursday evening last. The ceremonies were very impressive and attracted no little attention. The noble stature of the bridegroom with the sweet, lovely bride leaning tenderly on his arm, dressed in a very becoming manner, drew the gaze of the crowd. The happy couple started the same evening for Niagara Falls, etc., on a wedding tour.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BOSTON, JUNE 23, 1870.

The Prospect of a Branch Railroad in Quincy—Foggy at the State House—The Shawmut Railroad a Dorchester Concern—Veto of Gov. Claflin—The friends of the Erie Railroad wrathfully breaking up of political affiliations.

The second section of the act to incorporate the Shawmut Railroad Company, which seems to have passed both branches of the State Legislature, reads as follows: "Said corporation may locate, construct, maintain and operate a railroad with one or more tracks, commencing at some convenient point on the Neponset River in the city of Boston, near Granite Bridge so called, and thence running in a northerly and westerly direction, through the sixteenth ward of the city of Boston, to the railroad of the Boston, Hartford and Erie Railroad Co., at some convenient point between Mount Bowdoin and Stoughton Street Stations, or to the Railroad of the Old Colony and Newport, at some convenient point between Harrison Square and Crescent Avenue stations, in said sixteenth ward of Boston, as said Shawmut Railroad Company may elect; crossing in its course the Milton branch railroad of the Old Colony and Newport Railway at grade, and the Cedar Grove Cemetery in said Boston; and said corporation may enter with its railroad upon, unite the same, and use the railroad of said corporation, subject to the provisions of the general laws."

In our search at the State House yesterday, this was all we could find having any indirect bearing on the subject of a branch road from the West District in Quincy to some point near the Granite Bridge or Atlantic Depot, intersecting the Old Colony Railroad. It has been suggested that the Old Granite Railway is already purchased for the extension. The matter is at present in a muddle.

The Transcript of Tuesday is severe on Gov. Claflin's veto of the Hartford and Erie Road, (we are sick at the very name of it) pronouncing it essentially a puerile document, and having no argument that cannot be easily answered. Other papers in favor of the railroad appropriation are also down on the Governor, saying many hard things. The Transcript uses this elegant invendo:—"The cat under the meal in the Governor's veto is really too conspicuous, the claws at least should have been concealed." * * * * The correct title to Mr. Beard's bill would be a bill to transfer the Hartford and Erie Railroad to the Boston & Albany Road." Gov. Claflin and two of the three trustees of the Berdell mortgage are directors of the Boston & Albany Railroad. "Will you walk into my parlor said the spider to the fly." The Governor is certainly between two fires. Had he signed the Bill he would have been denounced without measure by those who believe the Hartford and Erie Railroad concern a humbug and swindle. And now comes the veto, also giving rise on the other side to a formidable opposition. It is very evident that party issues in all their former simplicity are dying out, and with the question of Railroad construction, Chinese Labor and other agitating topics of the day, political lines will be drawn anew, even in Massachusetts.

GEORGETOWN. This ancient place where the Editors and Publishers of Massachusetts had their annual dinner last week, is the oldest town on the north side of Massachusetts Bay, it having been settled in 1624, only four years after the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth, six years before Boston became the home of the Puritans. Its population is about 14,000. It has one of the best harbors in the country, and at some seasons of the year there may be seen over 500 vessels at anchor there. The principal business is fishing and quarrying granite. It is the greatest fishing town in the world, having more vessels in the business than any other town in this country. The Granite is what is termed the Rockport, and is of a good quality.

DIVIDENDS. The directors of the Old Colony and Newport Railway Company have declared a semi-annual dividend of three dollars per share, payable July 1st. The Cape Cod Railroad Company pays the same amount per share, which is equal to five per cent on the par value of the stock.

HARPER'S. Souther has the July number of this excellent magazine at his periodical store in the Square. It is, we think, one of the best monthlies published. No one can regret the money expended on this work, it is so entertaining and instructive, to both young and old. The July number keeps up the good reputation, which it so richly deserves.

FOURTH OF JULY, 1870.

Grand Celebration

—OF THE—

The ninety-fourth anniversary of the Declaration of the Independence of the United States of America, will be celebrated in Quincy upon the direction of a committee of arrangements, on Monday, July 4th, according to the following programme:

SAILING REGATTA.

Open to all Yachts. Entries to be made at stores of C. F. Pierce & Co., Quincy, or of Mr. B. F. Curtis, 62 Milk Street, Boston, or on board of the Judges' Yacht, between the regatta. It is desirable that all yachts intending to enter should do so on before Saturday, July 2d.

The Judges' yacht will be moored in the Bay off the National Sailors' Home, at Rook's Beach. Yachts in taking position, will form in line with it and the flag boat. In coming into line in each race the smallest yachts will keep to the windward. At two o'clock a gun will be fired for yachts of this class to come into line. At 2:15 a second gun will be fired, which will be the signal for starting. Immediately after the starting of the first class, the second class yachts will take position; and on the signal gun being fired, will start. Then the third class will take position and start upon the gun being fired.

The prizes will be as follows: One for first-class keel, and two for first-class center board yachts; one for the keel and two for the center board yachts of the second class, and two for the third class boats, to be named hereafter.

The Quincy Brass Band will be stationed aboard of the Judges' yacht, and will discourse during the Regatta a series of national and patriotic airs.

N. CURTIS, Chairman.

Secretary Boutwell has received a letter from Dr. Martin of Boston, asking leave to import from France, free of duty, four heifers, for the purpose of obtaining virus for vaccine purposes, on the ground that virus from heifers in this country is impure. The request was granted. As small-pox is increasing in this country the question of obtaining pure virus is an important one.

THE SOUTH SHORE RAILROAD. The stockholders of this road, at a meeting in Boston on Friday, voted to transfer their stock to the Old Colony and Newport Railway Corporation, in accordance with a report of a committee appointed at a previous meeting. They also ratified the vote of the directors to take stock in the extension of their road to Duxbury.

The stockholders of the South Shore receive $11 per share, with privilege of taking half their pay in Old Colony stock.

Robertson's beautiful comedy of "Caste" will be performed at the Boston Museum at the extra performances, July Fourth. It is the strongest holiday entertainment that has ever been offered to visitors, and gives an opportunity to see Warren in one of his great characters, and continue about every two hours during the day, and conclude with a performance immediately after the fireworks in the evening. The liberality of the manager in providing so fine an entertainment, is sure to be rewarded with crowds of visitors to this popular establishment.

A SEVERE STORM. After three or four of the most consummate dog days which it is ever given to mortals to experience, the black clouds rolled up from the west on Monday, and spread their darkening shadows over the sky. For an hour or more the rain was withheld, while on every hand the lightning flashes gleamed, accompanied by the rolling reverberations of heaven's artillery. It was an exhibition of nature's pyrotechnics of the grandest character, and was witnessed by many whose nerves were equal to the sublimity of the spectacle. In duration and vividness it surpasses anything we ever saw, commencing early in the afternoon and lasting till after midnight. Mr. John Agin, living in a small cottage house on the bank of the Neponset river, in this town, was instantly killed. He was about 25 years old, and was to have been married, it is said, that evening. Several barns and trees were struck, but the amount of damage done was comparatively slight, compared to many towns in this neighborhood. The hail in Boston and vicinity did immense injury, many of the stones were from two to four inches in diameter.

THE LIQUOR BILL. His Excellency the Governor has signed the bill amending the Prohibitory law and the supplementary act. It will, therefore, be lawful to sell cider, ale, porter, strong beer and lager beer. The Governor has been strongly pressed to withhold his signature, but as legislation now conforms to what has been the practical administration of the Prohibitory law for the past year, there would have been an evident inconsistency in such a course. As the bill provides that cities and towns shall each year vote whether the sale of the legalized strong drinks shall be made within their respective municipalities, the question will thus be constantly agitated; and this feature of the bill reconciles many radical temperance men to the provisions of the bill.

ENLARGED. The district of Mr. Seth Mann, 2d, as Assistant Assessor, has been enlarged by the addition of Dorchester, Milton and Hyde Park.

Roaches, Bedbugs, Fleas, Lice, Moths, Ants, Flies, &c.

It is not a liquid Mineral Poison but a harmless powder and may be taken into the mouth by children and adults, or breathed into the lungs without danger to health. A Fraud Upon the Public!

The known popularity of our Beer has led unprincipled parties, who are possessed of more cupidity than honor, to appropriate our trademark, "Ottawa," evidently hoping through our

WELL-EARNED REPUTATION

to palm off their trash upon a well-meaning public as the genuine article. A word to the wise is sufficient. We hereby assert that any and every article purporting to be Ottawa Beer, Genuine Ottawa Beer, &c., &c., are vile imitations, intended to deceive, except those, that are distinctly expressed and sold as

Dr. Irish's Ottawa Beer, and procured from them or their Agents.
